You should always clean your sterling silver jewelry using mild soap and warm water and then dry it with a soft cloth before wearing it again. Never wear your Pandora jewelry when you are getting ready to take a shower since it may tarnish due to the moisture in the water. Soap and water will remove the tarnish but not the oils that are left behind by the salts in the skin. In case you want to clean the jewelry while you are drying off then you can take a piece of cotton cloth and dip it into some mild soap and warm water along with some cotton swab dipped into the water as well.

For those who are allergic to nickel, gold plated jewelry should be avoided due to this fact. There is a great possibility that the gold plating contained within the piece of jewelry will peel off on your skin leaving an unattractive rusted spot. If you are having problems removing the gold plating from your silver piece of jewelry, then you should go for a professional jeweler. Some people even opt to use a combination of the two approaches mentioned above in order to remove the gold plating from their silver jewelry.

Those who have allergies to nickel may also opt to purchase a nickel-free set instead of the usual gold plated set. This is an alternative option for those suffering from skin allergies to nickel. It should be noted that the price of the set that contains nickel is higher than the gold and platinum sets of the same size. Thus, if you are looking for a cheaper jewelry piece, then going for the platinum or silver plated set may be the perfect solution.
