

11 plus exams overview

For those students as well as parents who want their child to appear for the complicated exams like 11 plus, it often gets hard in order to prepare for such examinations. Most of the students (planning to prepare for the eleven plus) do not know about what to use in exam preparation and what not to.

Apart from this, questions like when to study, what to study and how much to study for 11+ are getting more and more common these days.

As it goes without having, "practice is the best way to get prepared for the exams." And there is no exception in these types of exams as well.

More or less, if you are looking forward to entering your daughter or son in the 11 plus entrance exam, then you should and must be aware of the aggressive competition for the independent school places and grammar schools.

Above all, more than hundreds and thousands of students appear for eleven plus exams with a goal to enter a grammar school. And your child is the only one in this case. So, the students need to be cautious as well as well prepared for the tough challenge in this exam.

Is there a need for a tutor in 11 plus preparation?

The very short and obvious answer depends upon the student and their parents at the same time.

If any of the parents have the ability to teach, understand the subjects and have a good amount of time to help the child prepare for the eleven plus examination, then tutoring can be an optional choice for you.

But that is not the case for each and every parent.

Some parents are knowledgeable enough to help in the preparation of these complicated exams, but because of their daily chores and work assignments, they just can't support their child with the preparation of this exam due to time limitations and workload.

Whereas on the other hand, some do have time but not enough knowledge and do not know how to be prepared for such complicated exams in advance.

In such a case, all you need is a good tutor or coaching center who has the proper knowledge, experience and tools for the preparations. Don't forget. A good tutor is key!
