

PewDiePie vs Firewatch Game on Steam

Fans of the most popular video blogger PewDiePie were irritated by the attempt by Firewatch developers to bite him for the word "nigger" during the broadcast. All this led to a rapid drop in the ratings of the game on Steam.

According to the information, on Sept. 11, Firewatch studio Campo Santo sent a copyright complaint to PewDiePie about their game. The reason for the developers' displeasure was the word "nigga", which accidentally broke out of the blogger during the broadcast of a completely different game Playerunknown's Battlegrounds. The blogger immediately apologized and said that he did not want to offend anyone, it was an accident.

Fans of PewDiePie did not agree with the actions of developers and brought down the rating of their game on Steam. Since its release in early 2016, Firewatch has received 25,000 reviews, which the system has classified as "very positive." However, a recent flurry of negative reviews brought this rating down to "mixed." Over the past 30 days, the game has received 999 reviews, and half of them were negative.
