Coyle Outlines Navy Yard Master Plan For Council And Community

by Lynn Peters

Nearly 200 people gathered at the Kent School Tuesday night to hear Boston Redevelopment Authority Director Stephen Coyle present his Navy Yard development master plan to the Charlestown Neighborhood Council. Is it the long-awaited master plan or another one of many to be disputed? This week Coyle still referred to the just-printed 41-page document as the "proposed master plan," but seemed to be aiming for the beginning of the end of the Charlestown Navy Yard master plan saga.

Coyle appeared optimistic about his January 1990 Navy Yard design, which seems to take the entire Yard into account. This time the proposal includes the New England Aquarium, Yard's End development, affordable housing opportunities, open spaces for the public, responses to parking and traffic concerns, and it incorporates a proposed city-wide Harborpark zoning plan for the waterfront.

"It's a better plan because of the community's serious concerns," Coyle told council members and neighbors.

"Let's work together to get to the business of finishing the Yard and take the opportunity to work out our differences."

Copies of the plan had only arrived at the start of the presentation, and council Chairman Dennis McLaughlin allowed no debates on specific issues. Tuesday night would serve as Coyle's chance to present a "toughly guarded BRA secret," McLaughlin said, and only questions about clarifications would be taken.

There are as many Charlestown as there are people who have lived here, and for each who has, or does, there are hundreds of stories to be told.

Although your Charlestown and mine may be found in the same geographic location, your perception of the neighborhood may be totally different from my own. A community is not a place, it is its people, and nearly 300 men who called Charlestown their home during their youthful years gathered at the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club last Saturday night to meet old friends and to remember the Charlestown that was, and in many cases, is theirs.

It was one of those special nights that will long be remembered by those in attendance, a night not to be experienced and soon forgotten. Men who had not been to the town for 20, 30 or even more years learned of the Boys Club reunion, and came back hoping to recapture a moment or two with people who were so very much a part of their early years that they could never be removed from that vast vault of yesterday called memories.

At about 4:30 on Saturday afternoon snow began to fall and warnings of treacherous driving conditions

Senapoulos Sworn In By Quayle As Monument Commission Member

by Kathy Giordano

When U.S. Vice President Dan Quayle swore in a new member to the American Battle Monument Commission during his visit to Boston last Monday did you realize that there was a Charlestown connection? He is Peter Senopoulos, chief financial officer of Gallagher and Gallagher Insurance Co. in Constitution Plaza at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

"The best move our company made was the move to Charlestown," he stated.

Born and brought up in Somerville and now living in Medford, Senopoulos enjoys working in Charlestown and feels that he has close ties with the community. Serving in the U.S. Marine Corps, he saw action in the Vietnam War. In his new position with the Commission he hopes to see veterans of that war receive tribute through a memorial on foreign soil. He expressed his delight that the Bush administration "has reached down so Vietnam veterans can do something for ourselves worldwide."

"The Commission," he stated, "is presently working on a Korean War Memorial in Washington, D.C. Seed money was given by the government, but veteran groups from across the country are funding the memorial."

The American Battle Monument Commission, officed in Washington, D.C., oversees design, construction and maintenance of federal war memorials on foreign and domestic soil. According to Senopoulos, over 16 million visitors, most of whom are American veterans, tour the memorials each year.

"These memorials are the only visible perception some visitors have of the United States," he said. "The image of how they see the United States and their respect for fallen soldiers is very important to me."

Senopoulos concluded, "I take a lot of pride and am honored to be a representative of the United States with foreign leaders and governments." He also committed himself to serve any veterans group in their efforts to construct a lasting memorial to honor their fallen comrades.

Bill Whitney, project director for the aquarium, will make the presentation. Other key personnel from the aquarium will also be present. Barrett stated that he will be in attendance to answer any questions relative to the BRA position on the proposal.

17-Member Slate Seeks Election At Ward Two Democratic Caucus

On Saturday, Feb. 3, a caucus of Ward Two, Charlestown, registered Democrats will be held at the Knights of Columbus hall, 75 West School St. at 2 p.m. This caucus will elect delegates and alternates to the Democratic State Convention where nominees for the Democratic Primary will be selected. This year's convention will be held the first weekend in June in Springfield.

Charlestown is but a small section of one of the 351 cities and towns that make up the Commonwealth, yet it is directly impacted by as many — if not more — issues than larger communities. Our community can be assured that the diversity of issues will be represented at the Convention only by seating a broad-based, well-informed delegation.

It is in recognition of this that Sheila Brown, Ed Callahan, Ruthellen Chardavoyne, Margaret Collins, Tom Cunha, Dave Dow, David Flanagan, Ed Johnson, Nancy Keyes, Peter Looney, Mary MacInnes, Dennis McLaughlin, Bill Duffy, Suzanne Roche, Linda Lacey, Mel Stillman and Shirley Foley will be asking registered Charlestown Democrats to elect them as delegates on Saturday, Feb. 3. All registered Democrats are urged to attend.

Life Behind The Wall

by Ronan FitzPatrick

It seems as though this writer has been behind on the wall a little more than a lot. Confronted with major family medical issues, this new year is growing old at a young age. Ever so slowly, my mother Elizabeth is recuperating from a fractured hip and dislocated shoulder at apartment 125 at the Anchorage. On the homefront, my loving and caring wife has recently returned from the Mass. General Hospital. Her surgery was complicated, but successful. At times like this, a sister in our family would have been showered with love and kindness. In lieu of a daughter and a sister, my family has been abundantly blessed with Peg Byrnes, Anna Carey, Sis O'Neil, Helen Tibbetts, Josephine Saccardo and Midge Mehigan. Their concern and positive approach to our medical vicissitudes has given them honorary sibling status for perpetuity. The ills of the family are abating, and all the cards, gifts and good wishes are gratefully acknowledged by Betty and Mary FitzPatrick.

A significant change will take effect on Feb. 1 for all lease holders at the Anchorage Apartment complex. Barkan Management Senior Property Manager Donna Brescia informed the tenants of their three percent rent increase. In these times the only increase individuals accept readily is in purchasing power, but that won't be a reality this year. Although all units were increased, it is more manageable than previous assessments. Quite possibly the '90s will be kinder economically to the residents of the Anchorage as Barkan and its staff develop cost control.

It was down with the Christmas tree that was displayed at the foot of Fifth Street. This was a pleasant site for a relatively brief period. Last Friday, the Mass. General Hospital's mobile blood van was occupying the location for a brief appearance. Donors were welcome, and were well received by the MGH personnel. Its daylong visit augmented the blood supply at its bank. Indeed, a short visit to any and all blood banks can translate into life sustenance. Spare a little time in the months ahead to benefit those in need of a long and lasting gift.

My potential for observing the sea traffic will once again occur now that Bill and Betty Thorndike's picturesque holiday window theme has been stored for another season. With the appropriate touch for detail, their waterfront home attracted many a holiday stroller. Special thanks go out to Bill and Betty for a creative scene on the water. Until next season, I will have to watch commercial vessels like the Mostefa Ben Boulaid, point of origin Algeria, pass through the harbor.

Newworld Bank's First Avenue branch in Building 39 has made financial dealings a breeze for its customers. As the only complete banking facility in the Yard, its services allow for one-stop banking topped off with its 24-hour automatic teller machines and a night depository. Yankee 24 ATM has found its court packed with many a user. Newworld President David S. Carr and staff continue to professionally accommodate the needs of the community, and to that we are all pleased.

Brian Leahy, legislative liaison of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, and Raymond Group President David "Leo" Francis never let planning depart from their schedule. Both are active in massive projects within and outside of the Yard. Their mutual bond of Cathedral High lives on. As 1962 graduates who achieved success in the classroom and on the playing fields, they are organizing a reunion of the athletes who played under their leadership. I had the great fortune to have played with them and look forward to the forthcoming event. For those who played during the aforementioned time, give Brian or Leo a call for the particulars. Two of my classmates are sought — Paul "Chucky" Fabiano and Jimmy Collins. Let's hear from you on joining us at a well-planned celebration.

Second Annual Boys Club Alumni Reunion A Night Of Remembering — A Night To Remember

SIGN IN, PLEASE: Members of the Boys Club Alumni Reunion Committee were on hand to welcome the 250 men who came back to the club on Jan. 20 to share a night of memories and the renewal of friendships. Shown seated (l. to r.) Jimmy Connors, Dan McGoff and Kevin O'Halloran. Standing (l. to r.) Rick Rock and Charlie McGonagle. (photo by Michael Tognarelli)

(continued from page one) filled the radio and television airways. There had been no snow for several weeks, but now Mother Nature was sent to test those who would travel to the reunion. Any doubts that the reunion committee members may have had about the weather affecting the attendance were quickly dispelled when, perhaps 20 minutes before the announced starting time of seven o'clock, Joe Collins and Tom Geysen arrived from Franklin, Mass. Not too many minutes later, Fran Lehman arrived from Atkinson, N.H., and soon they began to arrive in great numbers from Nahant, Needham, Stoneham, Milton, Londonderry, N.H. and so many other places to which time had taken them. Tonight, despite the weather, they would return to their roots, to the Boys Club they knew and loved so well. They spoke of the impact the dedicated men and women of their Boys Club had on their lives, and how the club had kept many of them from the trouble the streets may have provided if they did not have the healthy alternative offered by the club. And they remembered moments, and they remembered people, some no longer with us, but most of all they remembered the good things, for that was what the night was all about. They will be back next year, of that I am sure, and their stories of last Saturday night will bring others back with them. It has been but a few days since I mingled with much of my past, but I already anticipate doing it again. The highlight of the evening was the recognition of Phil Kelly for his dedicated service to the Boys Club over the years. Phil was recognized by the Alumni Reunion Committee and the Executive Board of the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club for the many hours he has volunteered to the organization. Phil's unselfish attitude toward the club dates back to the 1930s and continues even to this day. His selection as this year's honoree was unanimous and warmly received by those in attendance. In addition to Kelly's award, Fred Greatorex and Paul "Ditto" Tryder were presented plaques for their quiet contributions to the club over the years. Both of these men, it was noted, have moved from the town, but have never forgotten the impact the Boys Club had on them during their younger years. Each year, and in their own particular way, they have taken time to express their gratitude. Over the years, the club has had many, many people make contributions of one kind or another to help the organization provide a better place for kids. This year three were recognized for what they have done. In future years it is promised that others, too, will be.

World's Oldest Association Of Sea Captains — Boston Marine Society

by Leo Zani

Just 100 yards from Gate 4 in the Charlestown Navy Yard is the world's oldest marine society, with a history so remarkable, yet so little is known about it. The Boston Marine Society was already 33 years old when British regulars faced an assorted group of independently minded colonial mil-

ing. The Society was also to immediately share any new nautical or navigational information with ship masters and other ship officers.

Although, by the middle 1700s, America's maritime was growing, there were few lights along the Eastern Seaboard. Much of the seas and inlets were uncharted, channels were unmarked, ciety steadfastly sought to make navigation safer. When members returned home from a long voyage, they would routinely give reports about anything unusual they had noticed about shoals, reefs or currents. All information, however minor, was written and reported to other sea captains who were planning tasks. With the advice and consent of its members, the Society pressed for the construction of lighthouses to guide ships safely into harbors. This led to the building of the Boston Light outside Boston Harbor, one of the oldest lighthouses on the Eastern Seaboard. In the years that followed, lighthouses sprung up in Salem and Marblehead harbors, as far north as Portland, Maine, and south to the coastline of South Carolina.

Since navigational safety was a priority for the Society, the members collected information about harbor bottoms, depths, currents, rocks and other obstructions, which led to placing buoys and other nautical markers in area bays and inlets as another safety measure for local and European vessels using Massachusetts harbors. Another immediate concern of the Society was appointing harbor pilots, whose major responsibility was to ensure the safe arrival and departure of itia at the Battle of Bunker Hill on a warm, muggy June 17 in 1775. In fact, the Society was well-established by the time Revolutionary War hero John Paul Jones wrote a letter to its president in 1777 asking for ship supplies to help his vessel Ranger head out to sea and harass the warships of the British navy.

Boston Marine Society's original charter stated that its principal purposes were: "To improve the knowledge of this coast, communicate their observations in the soundings, courses and distances, and all other remarkable things about it in writing, to be lodged with the Society for the making of the navigation more safe; and also to relieve one another and our families in poverty and other adverse accidents in life."

In other words, in the interest of safety in harbor ship handling and operations, the Society was to compile, add and share knowledge about the bay and its ocean bottom and shorelines by various methods of sounding and chart-and the approach to Boston Harbor was considered difficult and dangerous.

Between the end of the War of 1812 and the Civil War, America enjoyed the Golden Age of maritime enterprise and expansion. Although it no longer enjoyed the status of being the nation's busiest port, Boston still continued to build ships and send them and their captains to the far corners of the world. As this activity continued, the So-similar voyages.

Meanwhile, with the information gathered by Boston Marine Society members, the organization quickly became a leader in sponsoring measures to improve navigation. It was Society member John Foster Williams, commander of America's first revenue cutter, the predecessor to the U.S. Coast Guard, who drew the first accurate chart for Cape Cod Bay and completed one of his lifelong

How Do You Spell Teacher?

G - O - G - G - I - N

by Kathy Giordano

How do you measure success? If you think it's found in a person's financial net worth, you could be wrong. In the case of Barbara Goggin, success is measured by the enthusiasm she sees in her third-grade class at St. Catherine's School.

Goggin, a 1979 graduate of the school, is proof that hard work and determination can bring lasting satisfaction. She tries to teach her students this lesson by letting them know that she once sat at their desks and knows firsthand how difficult it can be to rise above circumstances to achieve success.

Does she preach this to her class? No, she shows them through example. "It can be done and overcome," she tells them.

Goggin's decision to teach at St. Catherine's wasn't a difficult one. She knew that the discipline problems she found in a public school would not be here, she would feel comfortable with the school she grew up in, and the location is convenient to her Polk Street home.

But, she admits, the first day of school took some adjustment. "I was nervous. I didn't know how the students' parents would take to me. A lot of them knew me or my family, and I wondered if they would accept my role as a teacher," Goggin says.

Of further concern to her was the new school principal, Sister Catherine.

BARBARA GOGGIN: 'It can be done and overcome,' is her motto for third-graders at St. Catherine's School. (photo by Kathy Giordano)

"Sister taught me in the seventh and eighth grades, and I wondered if she would look at me as a student or a professional."

Her fears proved to be unfounded. Both parents and principal are supportive and enthusiastic about her teaching abilities.

Goggin admits that she has a unique way of teaching, one that took her students time to get used to.

"My idea of learning is by making a game out of it in place of the more formal structured, customary way. The kids are great. They've responded very well," she says.

An example: During a recent drug and alcohol awareness session, a lot of back and forth discussion took place, and Goggin shared with her students what she had seen and lived through. In turn, her students opened up and shared their personal experiences.

"We developed a lot of trust in each other. It has to go both ways. I know where they come from. I've been there," Goggin states.

Through her teaching style, Goggin intends to make the classroom experience a memorable one for her students by making it fun. She remembers which classes and teachers meant the most to her. They were the ones that were enjoyable and not boring and stuffy.

Admirers are many and quick to tell of Goggin's tireless efforts. One parent comments, "Many times she digs into her pocket and buys items she knows that her students would enjoy and learn from."

Sister Catherine speaks proudly of her former student as she relates a story about a teacher, now retired, who came back to St. Catherine's to attend a funeral.

"Sister Francianna came to visit the school, especially her beloved classroom, Grade 3," says Sister Catherine. "When she saw Barbara, once her pupil, now standing in her place, it showed us that our efforts as teachers had been successful at St. Catherine's." Goggin is proud to say that her students motivate her. "The kids don't just sit there. They raise their hands and participate," she says. "I want them to know that Charlestown is not the end of the universe. There's a big world out there."

They'll be ready to face it with teachers like Barbara Goggin. When she speaks, they listen.

"The master plan provides the framework for future developments," McLaughlin said. "It doesn't mean approval of specific proposals."

Among the highlights included in Coyle's proposal are: specific waterfront setbacks and height restrictions for buildings on yet-to-be developed parcels in Yard's End; the aquarium and its walk with the whales on approximately five acres on Parcel 5/Dry Dock 5; a 390-room hotel with 175 parking spaces; a festival marketplace pavilion run by neighborhood businesses in a dismantled and restructured Building 75 (the old Timber House) next to the aquarium and the Yard's End park; a biomedical research center; a public parking garage on the present site of the old Timber House next to the existing 1,386-car garage in Building 199; and an improved Gate 5 and new Gate 6 to complement, what could become, a crucial access or truck "haul" road to run along the railroad beds from Sullivan Square through an eliminated portion of Building 114 into Yard's End.

In regard to open spaces for public recreation, the plan includes: the city-wide Harborwalk along the Navy Yard's waterfront with sculptures and plaques to mark the way for pedestrians; an expanded Pier 3; a completed Shipyard Park with memorials to Navy Yard workers of the past at the head of Dry Dock 2 and a Korean War Veterans Memorial in the park; and an education center and display in Building 105, the Chain Forge, where die-lock chain making was invented. The proposal also shows the possibility of a new pedestrian arcade through the Ropewalk and another to its headhouse to provide pedestrian access to the harbor from Chelsea Street and to integrate the neighborhood and the Yard.

A second Bricklayers affordable housing development is sited at Building 104, with 50 units planned. There are four building sites included in a "special study area" which could be used to create at least 100 more affordable units, and consists of Building 108 as possible elderly congregate housing or a nursing home, Building 42A, and the lots

BRA's Proposed Charlestown Navy Yard Master Plan

MASTER PLAN DEVELOPMENT HIGHLIGHTS

(Numbers Correspond To Map)

YARD'S END:

- 1 New England Aquarium is proposed for Parcel 5/Dry Dock 5. The height limit for the development would be 110 feet.
- 2 A 390-room hotel is proposed for Parcel 4. The height limit of the northern portion of the structure would be 155 feet with the southern portion limited to 125 feet.
- 3 A medical research center is proposed for Parcel 7 with a height limit of 155 feet.
- 4 A neighborhood marketplace is proposed for Parcel 6. Building 75 (the old Timber House) would be dismantled at its present location between Buildings 199 and 106 and reassembled on Parcel 6.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING:

- 5 Building 104, termed Bricklayers II — 50 units.
- 6 "Special Study Area" that includes four buildings which could be used for a least 100 more affordable units:
 - 6A Building 108, possible site for elderly congregate housing or a nursing home.
 - 6B Former Building 150.
 - 6C Former Building 39A.
 - 6D Building 42A.

PARKING:

- 7 Existing Building 199 — 1,386 parking spaces.
- 8 New garage, old Timber House, Building 75, moved to Parcel 6 to make way for new parking garage similar in size to Building 199.

- 9 175 parking spaces under proposed hotel.

TRAFFIC "SOLVERS:"

- 10 New Gate 6 with new access road proposed from Sullivan Square.
- 11 Forced Yard's End traffic flow in Gate 6 and out Gate 5 (12).

NEW PEDESTRIAN GATEWAY:

- 13 A pedestrian walkway would be created by carving an arch through the historic Ropewalk building to Chelsea Street while maintaining the roof line of the structure. This would allow access at a mid-way point in the Yard to integrate Charlestown proper and the Navy Yard.

that formerly housed buildings 150 and 39A.

Coyle said Building 114 would be the best-suited possible site for a firehouse, Pier 9 would be used only for docking and open space, and traffic flow through Yard's End would have to be controlled.

According to the master plan, some 3,500 permanent and 3,400 construction jobs would be created with 25 percent filled by Charlestown residents and more than $1 million in jobs linkage money. More than $5 million in housing linkage money would be created, and 25-27 percent of the Yard's housing would be affordable for low- and moderate-income families.

"It's no secret that for many years the BRA has been a four-letter word in Charlestown," Coyle said. "We're trying to change that with affordable housing and jobs. The Charlestown Navy Yard is a central part of the vitality of the community."

Coyle seemed to be looking for a positive community consensus on this 1990 Master Plan. Neighborhood reaction, however, is of the plan are scheduled to be available at the Charlestown Branch Library, the BRA Navy Yard offices in Building 34 and at the Patriot office.

In the next 10 days, back-up documents addressing transportation, jobs and the economy, and public access to open space and Charlestown's waterfront zoning will be available at the same three locations.

McLaughlin said there is a general "wait-and-see attitude" and that traffic increase and flow will most likely become the major issue for the community.

The council announced a schedule of workshops for the community, with the topics to be announced, for discussion of concerns and comments on specifics of the plan. They will be held Monday, Feb. 5 and Tuesday, Feb. 13 and 20. All three will start at 7 p.m. and be held at the BRA Navy Yard offices.

A Tuesday, Feb. 27 community public hearing will be held at the Kent Community School for neighbors' comments before the council is expected to vote on the plan at the March 6 monthly meeting.

Wilson holds an M.A. in religious education from Fordham University, an M.A. in counseling psychology from New York University and is a Ph.D candidate in pastoral psychology at Boston University.

The schedule for Parish Sunday includes Mass at 9:30 a.m., religious in-

Major Concerns Addressed At Tenants Task Force Meeting

The Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force and 150 residents of the housing development met on Tuesday, Jan. 23 to discuss three major concerns raised at the Jan. 16 public hearing on the planned relocation of tenants to allow units to be renovated.

The Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Service and City Councillor Robert Travaglini brought the concerns to Boston Housing Authority administrators, and Judy Evers, Charlestown liaison from the Mayor's office, reported to the gathering, that two of three concerns have been resolved.

The three major concerns were:

- BHA would pay cable and telephone hook-up costs up-front,
- Written breakdown of the BHA quoted $4,000 rehab cost on each unit, and
- The right of tenants to return to their former units.

According to Evers, the first two issues have been resolved to the satisfaction of the development residents and the third issue, the right to return to their former apartment, is still under discussion by BHA officials and the Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force.

It's A Girl . . .

Marilyn L. and John P. Brady of Harvard Square are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter, Charlotte Mae, on Jan. 4 at Mount Auburn Hospital in Cambridge.

Charlotte was welcomed home by her brother Colin.

CHS Honor Society Completes First Project

Elderly patients at the South Cove Community Health Service nursing home in Chinatown had their spirits raised this Christmas by members of the Bunker Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society at Charlestown High School. For two weeks the honor students collected gifts donated by CHS teachers and students for their first community service project.

Gifts were delivered by advisor Paul Gagnon and Jie Hua Tan, representative of the National Honor Society, to the case manager of South Cove's Elderly Living at Home Program on Dec. 20. The case manager distributed the gifts, which took the students a week to wrap in homeroom, to the elderly in the East and West South Cove buildings on Christmas.

The members of the Bunker Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society are Adela Amador, Lourdes Bracamonte, Susan Burke of Charlestown, Lian Li Chen, John Fife, Ting Wai Lai, Anna Liu, Jeannie Lu, Mauricio Ortiz, Nancy Rubio, Jie Hua Tan and Qi Feng Zhong. Their advisors are Nancy Hoyos and Gagnon.

Friends Of The Library And Working Women's Network To Meet

The Friends of the Charlestown Branch Library and the Charlestown Working Women's Network will present a program tonight, Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the library, 179 Main St.

Suzanne Gordon, a freelance journalist and author of The Boston Globe article, "Work, work, work," will be the speaker. The article details how Americans have become prisoners of the work ethic, and Gordon is currently working on a book about the subject. Copies of the article are available at the reference desk in the library.

Questions and comments from the audience will be taken, and dessert and coffee will be served after the program.

Volunteer Opportunities At The New England Aquarium

The New England Aquarium Education Department will launch an aquarium-guide training course on Feb. 7 to prepare new volunteers to staff popular exhibits.

While showing children the animals found along our rocky coast, they can share facts learned in the training course. For example, the horseshoe crab is actually more closely related to a spider than a crab.

Training classes will meet for eight weeks, on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and again on Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Aquarium guides are asked to donate a minimum of four hours a week for six months.

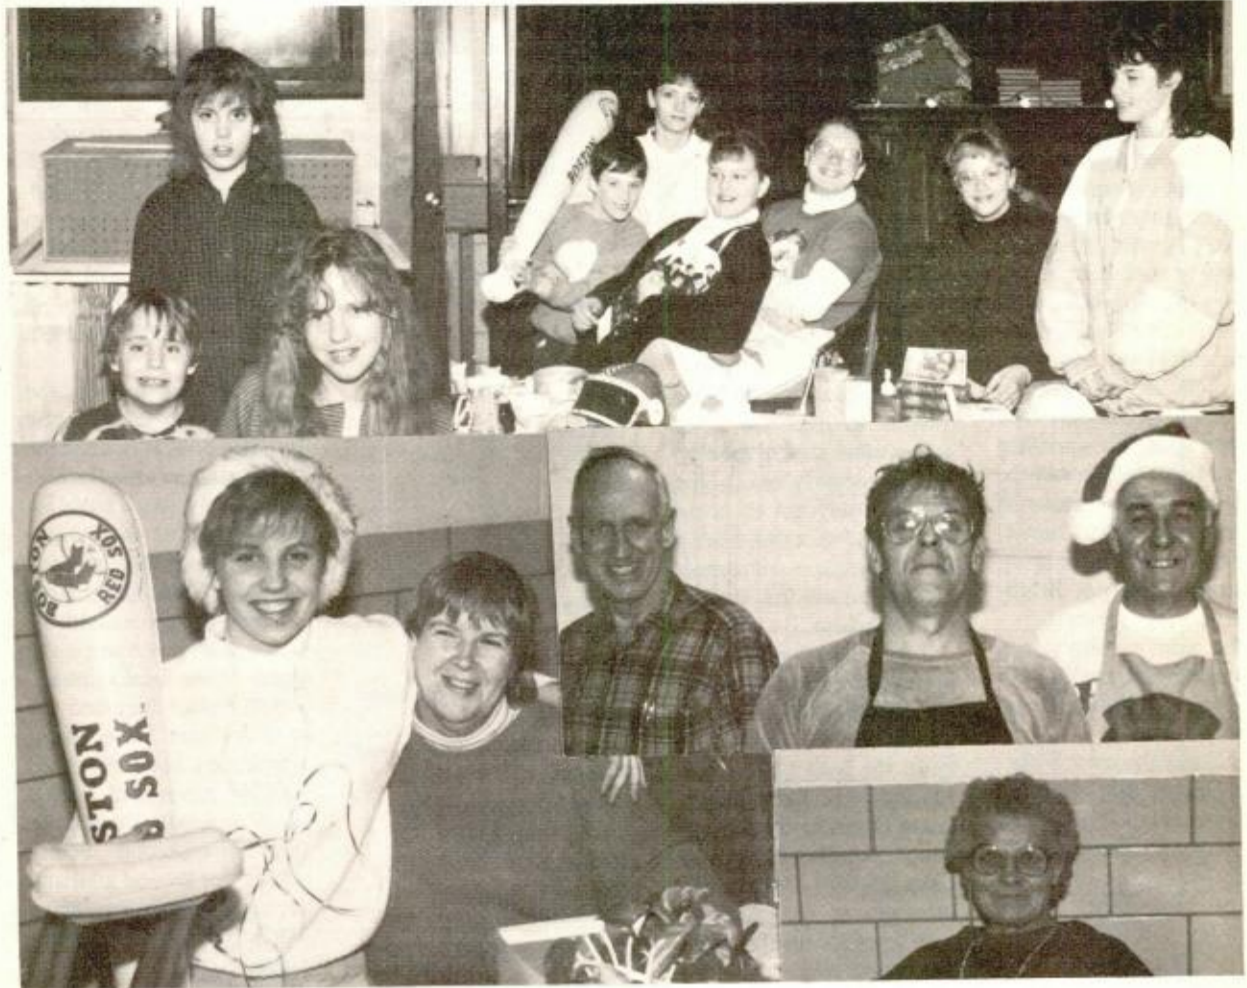

Behind the scenes, teams of curatorial volunteers work with aquarium staff members to ensure that the animals and exhibits receive the highest quality care. Whether preparing diets, monitoring tanks or cleaning exhibits, these volunteers receive great satisfaction from their work. Donating one full day a week for six months, they really get to know the animals.

Dolphins, sea lions, penguins, exotic fish and the children who visit them, all have one thing in common — New England Aquarium volunteers. They are an integral part of the education, curatorial and research departments. It's a rewarding and fun way to learn about the world of water, to get involved behind the scenes and to make a valued contribution. Other positions are also available for people with special skills to offer.

The greatest opportunities for aquarium volunteers are Monday through Friday. Volunteers must be at least 16 years of age. For more information, call 973-5200.

THANK YOU SAINT JUDE PRAYER TO ST. JUDE

Most holy apostle St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the name of the traitor who delivered your beloved Master into the hands of His enemies has caused you to be forgotten by many, but the Church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things despaired of. Pray for me who am so miserable; make use I implore you, of that particular privilege accorded to you, help bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolations and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings, particularly (here make your request) and that I may bless God with you and all the elect forever. I promise you, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, and I will never cease to honor you as my special and powerful patron and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen. Charlestown Youth Hockey Update

by Peter Golden

Woburn Mites

The Woburn Mites and coach Ed Lynch deserve a big round of applause for this week's team efforts. These mighty Mites notched this year's first win Thursday night with an 8-2 victory over Brighton. Goal scorers for Charlestown were Ed Hoey with two, and Jack Garvey, Fred Arroyo, Chris Hayes, Jack Castro, John Tobin and Ray Ortiz. Liam Lynch was the playmaker of the game with three assists. Ryan Connolly played well in the goal, frustrating most of Brighton's scoring attempts.

The team's victory was followed by an exciting 4-4 tie against Wakefield on Sunday morning.

This was the same Wakefield team that defeated Charlestown 5-0 earlier in the season. Charlestown's goals were scored by Fred Arroyo, Ray Ortiz, Ryan Connolly and Ed Hoey.

GBL Mites

The Greater Boston League Mites played a rare home game at the Charlestown rink on Saturday morning. Unfortunately, the home ice was unkind as Pembroke came from behind to defeat Charlestown 5-4. It was an evenly matched game as both teams exchanged the lead position several times. A late third-period goal by Pembroke proved to be the difference in the game.

Lamplighters for Charlestown were Ed Prince and Jim Kane with three goals. Robbie Celata and Brian McCreary were the assist men. Once again, Mike Machado provided steady goaltending for the local lads. Mike Kelly was also cited by coach Dave Bryson for his fine play.

Squirt B's

The Squirt B's followed the Mites on the home ice for a game against Dorchester. Despite plenty of scoring chances, the teams played a scoreless first period. Jason Duncan was the first Townie to light the lamp with a quick goal at the start of the second period. Joe Tallent was next to score with a fine shot that eluded the Dorchester netminder and closed out the second-period action.

The puck continued to bounce Charlestown's way in the third period. Five different Townies scored to build the lead to 7-0. The scorers were Terry Smith, Jason Duncan, Kevin Golden, David O'Brien and Greg Lavallee. Congratulations go to D.J. O'Brien who recorded his first shut-out of the year.

Squirt A's

On Saturday night the Squirt A's took on the Medfield A's at the Devine Rink in Dorchester. This was an excellent up-tempo game with plenty of action at both ends of the ice. Medfield prevailed by scoring two third-period goals and taking the game 5-3.

Charlestown's goals were scored by Shane Coleman, Joe Brennan and Joe Lawler. Assists were recorded by Mike MacPherson, Joe Lawler, Dan Awbrey and Mike Collins. Many glittering saves were made by Pat Lacey and Jeremy Manning in the goal.

IN-HOUSE ACTION

In the first game, the first-place Wings defeated the Sabres 6-2. The second game had the last-place Hawks record a second victory of the year with a 6-3 win over the Wings.

The results of these games tightened up the league standings.

GIRLS BALL HOCKEY

The Teen Connection Girls Ball Hockey teams finished the season dramatically, with the Chiefs upsetting Silver Box for a first-place tie in the seven-team league. But the following week, Silver Box took back first place when the Chiefs and Main Street played to a 4-4 tie.

In the first game of the playoffs Mary Crilley and Jennifer Swales opened the scoring against the Barbies with back-to-back goals for a Main Street 2-1 advantage. Noreen Hagerty and Christine Sorrentino shared goaltending chores and tallied a score each to tie the game in the final minutes. Helen Scales regained the lead for her Main Street teammates, but the Barbies quickly rebounded with a score by Leslie Borden. In the waning seconds, Scales scored her second goal and the game-winner, advancing Main Street to the semifinals.

In the night's second game between the Silver Box and Newtowne, Shannon Lawler scored for the Silver Box for an early lead. Michelle Macomber hustled a tying goal, but Lawler then netted the next pair and notched herself a hat trick. The Silver Box never looked back as Tasha Lyman scored two insurance goals and closed out the scoring. Solid defense and goaltending by Cheryl Collins and Elaine Hardy were evident in the victory over the hustling hard-charging Newtowne team.

The quarter-final matchup between the Chiefs and the Parkies had the Chiefs take the lead with a goal by Linda Howell. The Parkies answered back when Jodi Neff netted one for her teammates. The Chiefs scored the rest of the points though, with Nancy Kane's go-ahead goal. Shannon McLaughlin and Patty Reilly's goals and Melissa Doherty's pair of goals, advancing the team to the semis. Laura Blaikie had another stand-up performance between the pipes.

The semifinal game was a closely fought grind-it-out contest between the Chiefs and arch rival Main Street. The teams had tied their last matchup, and the Chiefs had edged out a 3-2 last-minute victory in an earlier game. The semifinal was another back-and-forth defensive contest. Goalie Julie Treanor of Main Street and her counterpart Laura Blaikie held their adversaries in check with neither team scoring in the first half.

When the score board finally lit up it was Nancy Kane who did the honors for the Chiefs. Helen Scales would not be denied when she tied the score less than a minute later. Kane later retaliated with her second score of the evening. Once again, the Chiefs' lead would stand for less than 60 seconds. Kerry Pierce forced overtime with the biggest goal of her career.

The enthusiastic crowd was anxious to begin the extra period of this thriller. The night belonged to the Chiefs, despite a valiant effort by all the Main Street girls. Kane's third goal put her team on top to stay and advanced them to the finale.

The finals are expected to be equally suspenseful when the Chiefs meet The Silver Box for the title. These teams were 1 and 1 against each other during the season.

Debbie Reynolds To Star At The Colonial Theatre

The 30th anniversary production of the Meredith Willson/Richard Morris Broadway musical hit, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" stars Debbie Reynolds at the Colonial Theatre from Feb. 20 through March 4. John Bowab directs the updated version of this all-American classic, which is highlighted by new orchestrations and an enhanced libretto by Richard Morris.

Reynolds earned an Academy Award nomination in 1964 for the title role of Molly Brown in the movie version of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," and this current production marks her stage debut in this role. In 1973 Reynolds received a Tony nomination for "Irene," her Broadway debut. She last appeared on Broadway in 1983 in the "Woman of the Year" and has a 40-year film career.

Appearing with Reynolds as "Leadville" Johnny Brown is Ron Raines, who first gained prominence as one of Broadway's leading men playing Gaylord Ravenall in the 1983 revival of "Showboat." Raines also co-starred with Diana Rigg in the musical "Colette" and most recently as the Red Shadow in the national tour of "Desert Song."

Based on the rags-to-riches life of the real Molly Tobin Brown, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" follows her climb from an illiterate backwoods girl to the toast of European royalty, and ultimately to courageous heroine and international celebrity. Meredith Willson's score introduced such memorable songs as I Ain't Down Yet, Belly Up to the Bar, Boys, If I Knew and Dolce Far Niente.

all vessels in and out of Boston Harbor. From 1783 to 1836, the Society controlled all piloting operations in Boston Harbor, and by the mid-1800s, it had created a solid core of qualified pilots considered to be one of the finest and most-efficient in the entire world.

Throughout its two-and-a-half century existence, the Boston Marine Society has included slightly less than 3,000 members. Currently its ranks include nearly 300 men, and some of the Society's muster rolls in years past reveals the power and prestige of the organization. John Adams, second U.S. president, was admitted to the Society on March 3, 1769. On July 11, 1933, the country's 32nd president Franklin Delano Roosevelt was admitted to full membership. In due course, shipping company executives and prominent New England bankers, lawyers, merchants, sportsmen and public officials were elected to honorary membership in the Society.

Finally, as part of its concern for the safety and well-being of its members the Society established The Box, a brass-bound, wood-and-leather chest that still exists today. The Box is a valuable and historical memento of the Society's beginnings and earliest endeavors to strengthen and contribute to the good and welfare of the mariner fraternity. A member was required to pay a six pence sterling in The Box each and every month that he was absent. Any member who suffered a misfortune, however, would be excused from paying the assessment and would be eligible to receive financial help from the fund "according to the nature of his misfortune and the ability of The Box. Many down-on-their-luck mariners got a much-needed financial lift from the fund, which prevails to this day.

Visitors to the Boston National Historical Park at the old Charlestown Navy Yard can see the Boston Marine Society home on First Avenue. Inside, the visitor will be treated to a wealth of information about the Society and its earliest beginnings. Magnificent oil paintings and historical documents are on display, including the cherished Box and the Society's muster rolls. A walk through the Boston Marine Society's Museum is a pleasant and easy-going experience for the entire family. Model ships of all classes are displayed, giving the visitor valuable insight and perspective on how Boston became a major shipping port during the country's early years as a nation.

The Boston Marine Society is open daily from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and there is no admission charge. The Society welcomes school and senior citizen outings. Simply call Capt. Harold Lynch in advance of your group's visit at 242-0522. He or one of his able staff members will be glad to help you with your visit.

Backstage At The Charlestown Working Theater

442 Bunker Hill St.
242-3534

• Only two more weekends are left to see the exciting and funny music theater piece by Boston composer Scott Wheeler, "The Construction of Boston." Performances are Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 5 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7 p.m. Charlestown residents always receive a discount on the ticket price.

• Full-time students and children can take advantage of the student rush for only $5, if you pick up tickets within an hour of curtain. "The Construction of Boston" is an especially enjoyable show for children.

• The praise for "Construction" has been pouring in! Richard Dyer, music critic for The Boston Globe, said "... the music (by Scott Wheeler) is bright as a penny and turns on a dime; it is popular in its idioms yet substantial in content ... An ingenious parade of props (by Bill Christman) the signpost Bunker Hill Monument and swanboats, the fair sunset of shimmering silk cloths — all are delightful ... The production is a worthwhile effort and it provides a diverting evening of civic entertainment. It has caught all of the whimsy of 'The Construction of Boston.'"

• Auditions for "The Woman Who Shot Lenin" running at the CWT from March 8 - April 8, and "Molly Bloom," running from May 17 - June 17, were held this week. Once again, the response was overwhelming. More than 75 professional and non-professional actors turned out, and many auditioned for both plays.

• This is the last chance to buy Three-Play Subscriptions to Charlestown's professional theater. You can still see all three spring plays and get quite a bargain, starting as low as $23 for the January through May 1990 season. Remember, CWT subscribers can pick the night they attend at their convenience, their seats are guaranteed, and they always get a discount and priority treatment! Gift certificates are available at the theater office.

• And remember if you're interested in helping on the artistic or technical side of the upcoming productions, we need you. Wardrobe helpers, set builders, light hangers, props runners, ushers, ticket takers — there are lots of ways to get involved.

• And speaking of which ... we all thank our new volunteers. The tremendous amount of work donated by Charlestown residents for "The Construction of Boston" has been invaluable. We couldn't have gotten it all done without you!

Bob Lezak and Peter Clifford both took time out around New Year's Eve to lend their time and skills to complete the set and build CWT's new audience platforms.

Dorothy Healy and Linda Kennedy have been volunteering in the office and at the performance box office, helping to take ticket orders and process the growing list of subscriptions.

Several Girl Scouts from the Charlestown Junior/Cadette Troop of the Patriot's Trail Council are earning their way to a volunteer badge by ushering for CWT performances: Jessica Brennan, Gillian Laval-lee, Jamie Lewis and Maureen Shea helped this past weekend. A special thank you to troop leader Mary White.

Remember, if you have any time to give the theater and are interested in helping with a wide assortment of projects, please call Pat Johnson at 242-3534.

For more information on happenings at CWT, call Nancy Lee Kathan at 242-3534.

Thank You, Charlie And The Boys Club Alumni Committee

Dear Editor,

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Charlie McGonagle and the rest of the Charlestown Boys Club Alumni Reunion Committee for their efforts in the recent Boys Club Reunion. It felt like Christmas morning seeing old friends, some of whom I have not seen in 30 years. It was a great time, and I hope that it will always be held annually.

Incidentally, Charlie McGonagle is a gifted writer and I always enjoy his articles in the Patriot.

You don't need me to remind you that it's been a tough winter. You just have to look at your heating bills to realize that! There may be relief in sight though, through the ABCD Fuel Assistance Program. The program is available to homeowners, renters and even those tenants whose heat is included in their rent.

The eligibility is based on the predetermined income levels for each family size. Regardless if you heat with oil, gas or electricity, you may be eligible for the program if you meet the income guidelines.

It's worth a phone call to the Kennedy Center at 241-8866 to find out if you are eligible and how to apply. March 31 is the deadline for applications.

CHIROPRACTICS AND YOU

By Dr. Kevin J. Loughlin
North End Chiropractic

ARE YOU A CANDIDATE FOR OSTEOPOROSIS?

While all post-menopausal women are at risk for osteoporosis, some women stand an even greater chance of being affected. For example, it is known that women with a family history of the problem are much more likely to suffer from osteoporosis. Ethnicity, too, seems to influence bone loss; women of African, Hispanic and Mediterranean origin are less likely to suffer debilitating bone loss than are Northern European or Asian females.

Women who are petite have less bone mass to begin with and so suffer the effects of bone thinning more quickly than do larger women. In fact, this may be the one instance in which overweight has a positive effect on health. Obese women almost never get osteoporosis because of their greater ability for postmenopausal estrogen production. Similarly, women who have been pregnant are less susceptible to osteoporosis than are those who have never had children.

Finally, both drinking and smoking increase the risk of developing the condition. The good news, however, is that even with one or more strikes against you, osteoporosis is preventable. Your chiropractor can provide you with excellent advice on maintaining bone health.

To make chiropractic care a regular part of your program for good health, call North End Chiropractic at 742-5797. Make an appointment to see Dr. Kevin Loughlin today. My practice is located at 350 Hanover St. in Boston.

MY PRIEST IS SPECIAL

I would like to tell you about my Priest who is very special to me. 1. My Priest lives forever, Heb. 7:25. 2. He is Holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners and made higher than the heavens, Heb. 7:26. 3. My Priest never sins, so therefore He needs no confessor nor does He have to bring a sin offering for Himself as did the High Priest Aaron in the Old Testament, Heb. 7:25. 4. My Priest offered Himself as the sacrifice for my sin which no Priest can ever do, Heb. 10:10. 5. My Priest died only one time and that is sufficient to take away all my sin, Heb. 9:25, 26. 6. My Priest has so completely forgiven my sin that He no longer remembers my sin anymore, Heb. 10:17. 7. My Priest, who appeared the first time to offer Himself as a sacrifice for the sins of many, is coming again to receive those that look for Him, Heb. 9:25-28. My friend, I would like to introduce you to my High Priest, Jesus Christ. I would also like to invite you to accept Him as your Savior and High Priest and He will give you eternal life. Call upon Him, wherever you are, to forgive you of your sin and to save you from Hell, and He will, Rom. 10:13.

Charlestown Photographs At The Boston Public Library

Photographer Robert Bayard Severy of Weymouth recently presented a collection of more than 500 8-by-10 inch black-and-white views of Charlestown to the Boston Public Library's Fine Arts Department as a memorial to Charlestown native Douglas Payne Adams.

Adams, who died in 1975, helped found the Charlestown Preservation Society and worked to save local landmarks, such as the Warren Tavern, for posterity. Each photograph in Severy's collection is stamped with Adams' name as a tribute to his efforts in the cause of historic preservation in Charlestown.

The collection includes views of Charlestown in May and June 1975, and February and March 1989. Among the photographs are photographs of Harvard Street and the John Harvard Mall, the Navy Yard and USS Constitution, the Bunker Hill Monument and Col.
