In 1918, one of the bloodiest conflicts in human history came to a close as the Allied powers defeated the Central powers, leaving ruin across Europe and worldwide. Shortly after, in 1922, The Philosophers were formed. The Philosophers were a secret pact of influential politicians and wealthy, powerful figures from America, China and Russia who formed an unseen union to steer the world away from global conflict. The original collective of these individuals was known as The Wisemen's Committee. These people were already influential in their own countries; together their power and reach grew hugely both in their own countries and worldwide. But the Wisemen were old - in fact by the 1930's all the original founding members were dead. This power vacuum, along with the death of all those original 'Wisemen', unsurprisingly led to corruption of the Philosophers original goal. Agency, spying and corruption became weapons of the Philosophers as they sought to control global conflict. They pooled vast financial resources, estimated at one hundred billion dollars, to develop new forms of warfare. This fund was known as the Philosophers Legacy.

The Philosophers worked together against the Axis powers during the Second World War. They agreed to redistribute the Philosophers Legacy among themselves after the war - but a sabotage attempt by the Russian branch of the Philosophers against the Manhattan project (they did not want the US to develop a nuclear program first) led to friction between the Russian and US branches. The war itself was won, though at great cost. Victory could in some form be attributed to The Boss, supreme soldier and leader of a group she founded in 1942 called the Cobra Unit, consisting of The Pain, The Fear, The End, The Fury, The Sorrow and The Boss herself. The Cobra Unit were involved in a great many special operations during the war, including destroying air emplacements near Juno beach during the Normandy landing, during which The Boss actually gave birth to her child with The Sorrow, a boy who would grow up to be known among many names as Ocelot. Furthermore, The Boss, herself a daughter of a member of the Philosophers, was made aware of their existence and purpose by her father before he was assassinated by the remaining Philosophers.

In the aftermath of the war, the Philosophers split into three separate powers (US, Russia, China) as the financial legacy of the Philosophers was stolen by Boris Volgin of Russia. He had sole control of a single microfilm which contained a list of all the bank accounts which contained the Legacy. The Cold War as seen from the outside was actually something of a front for a power struggle for control of the legacy, and with it powerful supremacy on the political and military stage. At some point, Yevgeny Volgin, son of Boris, illegally inherited the fund. He used what amounted to a practically unlimited fund to develop a fortress base known as Groznyj Grad and begin development of the prototype nuclear equipped tank known as the Shagohod, which would take place over the background of the Cold War.

During this period of the 1950s, the Boss took on an apprentice of sorts, a 15 year old called Jack. She saw a lot of herself in him and would spend most of the 1950s training him. Together they developed close quarters combat, or CQC. She would be his mentor as well as his guide and they developed a bond even closer than lovers. She was forced to leave him, however, as she was personally assigned by the President to spy on and sabotage the Russian space program as the Space Race heated up.

The CIA refused to help the Boss at this time, forcing her to utilize the spy networks of her father's Philosophers organisation for the first time. She managed to place a sleeper agent who disagreed with the one party system in Russia, who was able to start recruiting spies. At this point the CIA swept in to take credit for the successful completion of the mission. Perhaps believing she was bitter about this, the CIA refused to listen to her when she began to question the information they were receiving from their spy. In fact, infiltrating the Soviet Union alone, the Boss learned their sleeper had been turned, mainly because the CIA was pocketing most of his paycheck. The CIA managed to blame the Boss for this, and perhaps as a result she was later volunteered for Project Mercury.

With Project Mercury, The Boss was the first American in Space. Working on the project alongside her was Strangelove, a key staff member who developed feelings for the Boss. The project served to test how humans could cope in space, but it exposed the Boss to dangerous levels of radiation. Furthermore, the pod crashed upon landing, forcing the CIA to cover up the mission. The Boss, greatly injured, survived the crash.

In the meantime the Russians had a well-publicized successful space Mission. Resentful of this, the US administration sent the Boss to eliminate the sleeper agent she had recruited back in 1959. She learned that the recruit had been turned by her ex-lover, and father of her child, The Sorrow, who had returned to Russia after the war and worked unknowing that The Boss was the original recruit. The threat of the death of the child was given if the Boss did not assassinate her ex-lover, and they met atop a mountain. There, the Sorrow sacrificed himself, as he was shot dead by the Boss.

Returning home, she formed Unit Fox with an old SAS comrade known as Zero. Working in Soviet space for two years, she began to build on her already impressive legacy. Her charisma worried the CIA, whose history with her was rocky to say the least. Planning to get rid of her, they sent her on a Mission - to trade her way into Volgin's trust and retrieve the legacy. Utilizing the Philosophers network, she convinced Volgin she had turned, and learned of the location of the developer of the Shagohod, Dr Nikolai Sokolov. Zero himself had an ulterior motive for forming Fox, as he had had to give up Sokolov to the Russian's previously after arranging a successful defection to the US. His return was the Russian's price for backing down from the Cuban Missile Crisis. Among this backdrop, the Boss convinced the director of the CIA to greenlight a mission, the aftershock of which would affect the landscape of the world for many years to come...

2 Chapter 2- Part One - Virtuous Mission

The mission greenlit, the chosen operative to complete this mission was the man who had been trained by the Boss in the 1950s, Jack. Given the codename Naked Snake, he performed the world's first HALO jump in order to infiltrate Tselinoyarsk, a region in the south of the Soviet Union that housed not only Sokolov, but also Groznyj Grad, the military fortress built by Yevgeny Volgin using his stolen Philosophers Legacy.

With radio support from Zero, Fox Unit medic Para-Medic, and the Boss herself, Snake successfully infiltrated the KGB base and rescued Sokolov. They were ambushed by KGB agents who were then themselves ambushed by GRU agents led by Ocelot. GRU wanted the Shagohod and Sokolov so that their Colonel, Volgin, could overthrow the Russian Premier Krushchev. Disarming Ocelot and the unit, Snake and Sokolov escaped but were met by The Boss, reunited once more with her Cobra Unit. She surprisingly informed Snake she was defecting to the Soviet Union with two Davy Crockett Nuclear missiles, and quickly disarmed him and threw him off the bridge. The Boss, The Cobra Unit, Ocelot and Volgin left, with Sokolov, Tatyana (a KGB spy who they suspected was Sokolov's lover) and the Shagohod. Volgin fired one of the nuclear missiles and destroyed the design bureau. Snake, pulled ashore by the raging river currents, tended to his wounds under radio guidance from Para-Medic, before witnessing the nuclear explosion. A short while later, Snake was rescued by Fulton Recovery system and flown to safety.

3 Chapter 2 Part Two - Operation Snake Eater

The firing of the nuclear weapon caused a huge problem for the US, who was blamed for the attack given that their aircraft was detected in the area. The US President informed Krushchev of the Boss' defection and her working with Volgin. Krushchev, his power base already fragile from the Cuban Missile Crisis and aware of Volgin's push for power, told the US to provide proof by killing the Boss (and insinuating that they kill Volgin too). If they failed, he would not be able to hold back the might of the Red Army, and World War III would effectively ensue.

Facing a firing squad for the failure of the Virtuous Mission, and with the US at DEFCON 2, Snake and Zero had little choice to take on this task. The mission was given the designated title of Operation Snake-Eater. Supporting Snake from FOX would be radio Zero, Para-Medic and Sigint, a weapons and technology expert.

Deployed by drone back into Tselinoyarsk, Snake was met by the Boss, who once again easily disarmed him, injured his hand, and blew up his drone, drawing attention to the area. She threatened to kill him if they met again. Undeterred, Snake continued on but was surprised to be met by KGB agent EVA in place of ADAM, the agent he was expecting. Surviving a GRU ambush by Ocelot again, Snake continued forward on towards Granini Gorki. Fighting off Ocelot again, and then Cobra member The Pain, Snake met Aleksandr Granin, a scientist who like Sokolov had been working on a nuclear equipped tank. His model was a bipedal form which he dubbed Metal Gear - the missing link between artillery and infantry. Granin hoped that Snake would succeed (and thus bring his project back to the fore) and so gave Snake a key card to move on. Snake was quickly met by The Fear, whom he dispatched, and he agreed to meet EVA atop the mountain ahead where she could provide him with the key to access the tunnel that would allow him to sneak into Groznyj Grad.

Defeating sniper The End en route, Snake entered the tunnel below Groznyj Grad, and also defeated The Fury. Snake located Sokolov, and witnessed Tatyana take a microfilm off him. Snake learned from Sokolov how the Shagohod worked, as well as how to destroy it. He also learned that Tatyana was only posing as Sokolov's lover and was in fact his supervisor on the project originally.

His close personal relationship with the man whom Snake was disguised as (Major Raikov) meant Snake was caught, beaten and tortured by Volgin. The Boss advised him this was fruitless and she had herself trained him. After Volgin asked The Boss to cut out Snake's eye, to prove her loyalty, Tatyana protested and was accused of being a spy by Ocelot. In the ensuing chaos, Snake received muzzle burn to his right eye as he tried to protect Tatyana. The Boss then shot Snake in the leg, but gave him the unloaded gun. Tatyana revealed herself to be EVA and located his equipment. Snake escaped from the cell, and, pursued by Ocelot, escaped down a sewage waterfall. Near death, he met the spirit of The Sorrow, who haunted him about the men he had killed. Taking a revival pill, Snake met back up with EVA and obtained C3 explosive. Snake broke back into the Groznyj Grad fortress and planted the C3. Before he could finish he was caught, alongside EVA. Volgin revealed to Snake the history of the Philosophers legacy, and they battled. Snake gained the upper hand and eventually defeated Volgin, after Ocelot chose not to interfere. Escaping with EVA, they were chased by Volgin on the Shagohod, but destroyed it by blowing up a bridge with the Shagohod on. Volgin was killed by a lightning bolt in the aftermath.

Escaping, Snake was met by the Boss, who informed him of the corruption of the original Philosophers aim for peace (one she held) - the group had become war itself. They had an epic battle one last time, and Snake came out on top. Giving Snake the microfilm, the Boss was shot by her mentee. The petals of the white flowers turned a deep red as he did so. Escaping by WIG, and fighting Ocelot off one last time, EVA and Snake took refuge in Alaska. Spending the night together, Snake woke to learn EVA had made off with a microfilm, a spy for the Chinese branch of the Philosophers. The Chinese had learnt Volgin had the fund and EVA was their last play at recovering it. (The version she took was a fake, however.) She also informed Snake that The Boss had never actually defected, and was working undercover for the US. Following Volgin firing the Davy Crockett, her last mission was to be killed by Snake, branded a traitor whose death would therefore serve to avoid WW3.

Awarded the title of Big Boss, Snake bitterly left, angered by what was asked of the Boss and how she was now branded a traitor. It was revealed that Ocelot was in fact ADAM and was actually a spy for both the CIA and KGB - branches of the Philosophers in their respective countries. He revealed to the CIA he had obtained the Legacy, but it was only half, and the other half was missing, presumably owned by the KGB. He also informed them he had Granin's blueprints for a Metal Gear, which may prove useful to them in the future.

4 Chapter 3 - The San Hieronymo Takeover

September 1964 - In the aftermath of Operation Snake Eater, Naked Snake, who had earned the title of Big Boss, left the Fox Unit. Roving the world as an instructor and hunting guide, he met a young soldier Frank Jaeger during the Mozambican war of Independence. He defeated him and nursed him back to health. The rehab facility passed him over to the CIA for use in their Perfect Soldier Project.

Forward to 1970, and the Fox Unit revolted against the CIA. The unit kidnapped their former member Snake under the belief he knew where the missing half of the Philosophers Legacy was. Snake was tortured by Fox's interrogation specialist Lieutenant Cunningham. With the help of fellow Prisoner and Green Beret Roy Campbell, Snake escaped from the Prison on the San Hieronymo Peninsula, Columbia - the site of an old Soviet Missile silo that Campbell and his team has been investigating as it had become active again.

Trying to contact Zero, Snake learned from Para-Medic and Sigint that he had been arrested and accused, alongside Snake, of instigating the revolt. Snake had to apprehend the actual leader, whom Campbell told him was called Gene, to clear their names. Infiltrating the camp, Snake overheard guards talking about a weapon that could destroy every city in Russia. Documents stolen by Snake confirmed this to be true and that FOX planned to launch on Russia.

Snake and Campbell 'turned' a young recruit at the site, Jonathan, and learned from him that the Kremlin abandoning the soldiers had led them to turn to Gene. Gene himself had been alerted to Snake's escape and searched in a helicopter with the psychic Ursula. Tailing the chopper, Snake found a research lab with the medicine needed to cure Campbell of the Malaria he had suffered.

Inside the lab, Snake came across a young soldier he recognised in a culture tank, called Null. He also met Elisa, who introduced herself as a medic and twin sister of Ursula. She gave Snake the medicine to cure Campbell and Snake continued on. Utilising a network of spies and sneaking units, Snake gained a great knowledge of the local area and planted TNT in strategic locations to draw forces from the rail bridge they would need to cross. Doing so, he made his way to the railway where he saw an old Vietnamese war buddy called Python. Skowronski, a drunkard who was leader of the unit prior to Gene, was imprisoned by Python but was freed by Snake shortly after.

Moving on, Snake received a call from a mysterious individual known as Privityenie, or Ghost. He reminded Snake of the Shagohod he had previously destroyed and they concluded the weapon was some form of nuclear equipped tank firing on multiple targets. Moving on to the warhead storage facilities, Snake and his team planted explosives on the power generator. The charges were frozen by Python, however, who engaged Snake and was duly defeated.

On the advice of Ghost, Snake travelled to the airport to interrogate an official who was working with Fox, and learned the location of the weapon. Snake was ambushed at this location, a weapons silo, by the incredibly skilled Null, and they battled, before Gene intervened and told Null to stand down. Gene and Cunningham interrogated Snake and told him the true purpose of their mission - to continue the age of soldiers by presenting Metal Gear to the Russians who had fallen far behind the US following the loss of the legacy. Imprisoned, Snake was met by Elisa, who told Snake she foresaw him stopping a nuclear holocaust. Shortly after, Jonathan and his men broke out Snake. Heading forward, they were ambushed by Cunningham, who was advised on Snake's movements by Ursula. Cunningham began to kill the men, demanding the location of the Legacy. Elisa arrived in a truck to rescue Snake and his surviving men.

Elisa explained that her and Ursula had only once had different visions, and that was regarding Snake. Gene had saved her from being experimented on in East Germany, but she could not support someone who used nuclear weapons. She also revealed that Gene was a result of the US government's Successor Project, designed to create a most skilled battlefield leader. The data used was based on The Boss, and Gene was likely to be even more skilled than Null.

Snake infiltrated the base where Metal Gear RAXA was stored. Before he could attack it's vulnerabilities, he was surrounded by Gene and his men. However, the Metal Gear fired into action, piloted by Skowronski, who killed many of Gene's men. Gene asked for Ursula to awaken, and to Snake's surprise Ursula took over the body of Elisa; they were actually one and the same and simply split personalities. Easily brushing Snake aside, she took over the Metal Gear, throwing Skowronski from the cockpit, and began to attack. Snake destroyed the Metal Gear, but could not help 'Elisa', nor stop her being thrown from the cockpit.

The destruction did not faze Gene, who admitted that he could still launch a nuclear missile. This was corroborated by Ghost, who revealed himself in person to actually be Sokolov, who had been rescued by Gene but felt himself unable to allow a nuclear weapon to be used against his homeland. To his shock, Gene told him that one day the US would fire on Russia, as helicopters overhead carried a large machine. Snake realised this was the real Metal Gear and what had occurred was a distraction to buy them time to set it up. Using his enhanced voice, Gene sowed doubt into the mind of his troops until they began to fire on each other. Jonathan dived in front of Snake in the melee and was fatally wounded, as Gene escaped.

Snake and Campbell reconvened, utilising spies and a technical unit to plant a time bomb on the switchboard that controlled access to the Silo where Metal Gear was being held. Snake and Null met again. Snake realised he was no other than Frank Jaeger, 'The Frank Hunter', Jaeger's nickname as a child soldier where he used his innocent looks to get close to the enemy before butchering them. Defeating Null in combat, Snake apologised for what had happened to him, blaming the Philosophers. Frank began to remember who he was before the project, and how Snake has rescued him to not be a tool of the Government.

Descending into the complex, Snake was met by Cunningham. He revealed he actually worked for the Department of Defence, and this whole mission was to discredit the CIA and restore power to the US military. He planned to use a Davy Crockett nuclear missile to destroy the Metal Gear, and told Snake to go home. Snake engaged Cunningham and defeated him, Cunningham having called him 'pathetic' for fighting for the lives of the Russians on the base. Reaching the Silo control room, Gene informed that he knew of Cunningham's plan, and he was in fact going to launch nuclear missiles not at Russia, but at Langley and the Pentagon, and destroy the Philosophers. In the aftermath, San Hieronymo would become 'Army's Heaven', a 'Peninsula of the dead' for soldiers, free from abstract political ambition.

The Metal Gear control panel exploded and 'Elisa' revealed herself - wanting to avoid a nuclear launch. She was able to read Gene's mind and avoid his knife throw, but unable to match his sheer speed as he stabbed her. Dying in Snake's arms, she indicated another control room was nearby, and that Snake would destroy this Metal Gear, and build another in its place. She also said one of his son's would bring ruin to the world, and one would save it. With the launch scheduled, and nothing unable to stop it, Gene and Snake fought to determine who the true successor to The Boss was. After an intense battle, Snake won. Gene passed over the schematics and funding information to Army's Heaven, indicating that Snake might one day use it.

Sokolov indicated that the launch could not be stopped, but perhaps the Metal Gear atop it might. After numerous RPG shots, Snake was surprised to be aided by locals firing on the Metal Gear, who were grateful Snake had tried to save them. The rocket took off, but the combined damage done caused the Metal Gear to explode upon re-entry to Earth, and the danger had passed.

Back in the US, the Director of the CIA entered a secret bunker, to obtain information and bank account details of the Philosophers. He was met there by Ocelot, whom he recognised as a triple agent of the Philosophers, but was surprised when Ocelot killed his men and revealed he had come to destroy the Philosophers and enact the Boss' vision for the world. Ocelot killed him too and made it look like suicide.

Snake returned to the US and was met by Zero, SigInt and Para-Medic. He was given details on the formation of a new group, codenamed FOXHOUND. Meanwhile, in secret, Zero discussed the mission with Ocelot, and he was revealed as the ultimate orchestrator. With the Legacy and the data from the perfect soldier program in hand, Ocelot agreed to join Zero in his project as long as they recruited Snake. Where the Philosophers had faded, The Patriots would be born in their place...

5 Chapter 4 - The Rise and Fall of The Patriots

With the Philosophers Legacy and Perfect Soldier Project data in hand, Zero invited Ocelot to help fulfill his wish of making the world that The Boss envisioned a reality. Ocelot agreed to join, as long as Big Boss was invited. These three, along with Para-Medic and Sigint, formed the group that would be known as The Patriots. At this time, ParaMedic had been working on developing an Emergency response system that would later be known as the paramedic system. Sigint, also known as Donald Anderson, was working for ARPA, which would later change its name to DARPA. Snake and Zero worked for the newly formed FOXHOUND unit, whilst Ocelot remained undercover in Russia.

In 1971, Snake successfully undertook a mission to rescue EVA from Vietnam and recruit her to The Patriots. During this period, Zero began to spread truths and mistruths about Big Boss in order to build up his legacy. But they grew apart as Big Boss began to resent Zero's desire for power and control. Recognizing he could lose his icon, Zero secretly undertook a project that would have far reaching consequences for time to come; The Les Enfants Terribles Project.

1972 - Working with Para-Medic, now going by her real name of Dr Clark, Zero utilized Analog Cloning and The Super Baby Method to fertilize an egg of a Japanese assistant working for Dr Clark with the DNA of Big Boss. This was transferred into the womb of EVA, who acted as a surrogate mother. Six of the eight embryos were intentionally aborted to encourage strong growth in the other two - whose DNA was altered so that one carried Big Boss' recessive alleles, and one his dominant alleles. This led to the birth of Twin Snakes, who were in fact genetically different by just under half a percent, not enough for most DNA tests to recognize. The one who carried the dominant alleles would be known as Liquid Snake, and the one who carried the recessive alleles would be known as Solid Snake.

Big Boss soon learned of the births, and around this time he left the Patriots and FOXHOUND in disgust. Fearing the loss of his icon, Zero went into hiding and renamed the Patriot's as Cipher. Big Boss himself served for a short period in Vietnam, before becoming a mercenary in conflicts around the world. In 1972, Big Boss was working with the Colombian Army, where he ambushed a guerrilla Unit led by Kazuhira Miller, or Kaz. Kaz was a Japanese-American mercenary with past experience with the JSDP, and upon capture tried to kill himself and Big Boss with a grenade. Foiling the attack, Big Boss was impressed with Kaz' samurai-like spirit, and after foiling another attempt by Kaz and his men to ambush him, Big Boss formed the group with Kaz that would be known as Militaires San Frontieres (Soldiers without Borders), a Private Military Corporation designed to break free of nation states and provide an army to anyone who might need one.

Sometime prior to 1976 when the LET project was shut down, Zero approved the creation of a 3rd 'twin' clone. Neither Liquid nor Solid, this twin was a perfect clone of Big Boss, as Zero desired. The third 'twin' would be known as Solidus. It was also around this time that SigInt, who had been behind ARPAnet (a precursor to the internet) began to develop the idea that artificial intelligence, or AI, could be used to control the flow of information in some way. This would be the precursor to the later Patriot AI.

Around this time, however, MSF were already dealing with their own issues in Costa Rica...

6 Chapter 5: Peace Walker Incident

November 1974 - Kaz approached Snake with two guests, Ramon Galvez and Paz Ortega. Galvez, a scholar of the Costa Rican government, and Paz his student, were worried about armed insurgents in their country of Costa Rica, which could not bear arms to defend itself under its constitution. They feared the insurgents were actually the CIA and offered MSF a forward operating base and helicopter in payment to act as a deterrent.

Snake saw through Galvez' façade - he was actually working for the KGB and wanted MSF to help remove CIA influence in the area. However, a tape that Paz' friend recorded whilst captured by the insurgents seemed to have recorded the voice of The Boss. Hearing his old mentors voice, Snake agreed to sign up, claiming he was doing it for Paz.

Six days later Snake infiltrated the Costa Rican jungle. Finding radioactive film badges, he suspected nuclear weapons were being stored. To aid his progress, he allied himself with local Sandinista guerrillas and their leader, Amanda Libre. Shortly after the group were ambushed by flying unmanned kidnapped drones, one of which stole Amanda's younger brother, Chico.

Following the Sandanista's forward, Snake saved Amanda from a further attack and told her to return to the MSF base. He moved forward to the prison facility and successfully freed Chico, from whom he learned the shipping route the CIA was using. Chico informed him the route was guarded by a spirit known as El Basilisco. Chico asked Snake to kill him, as he had cracked under interrogation, but Snake told him to become a new man and return to MSF. Moving forward, freeing prisoners and destroying a tank in battle in the process, Snake arrived at the enemy base. Realising the nuclear weapons had already been offloaded, Snake overheard a conversation between a wheelchair bound engineer, Huey Emmerich, and the CIA station chief for Central America, Hot Coldman. Coldman planned on using Emmerich's design to launch an 'unmanned' nuclear attack to prove their weapon's effectiveness as a nuclear deterrent. As the men argued, Coldman pushed Emmerich down some stairs.

Snake approached Emmerich and learned that a launch was imminent. Rushing into the hanger, Snake saw a tarpaulin-covered device. He was ambushed suddenly by a Shagohod-like tank codenamed Pupa. Under instruction from Emmerich, Snake destroyed it. He learned from Emmerich that a vehicle he had seen moved was Peace Walker, an AI weapon, a fail-deadly nuclear launch capable bi-pedal tank based on the earlier designs of Aleksandr Granin. This was the 'el basilisco' to which Chico referred. After informing Snake to find Dr. Strangelove, who has developed the AI for Peace Walker, Emmerich was convinced to join MSF to help thwart the Peace Walker project.

Moving forwards, and taking out a helicopter en route, Snake came across a distressed French woman called Cecile Caminades, an ornithologist whose recording Snake had heard from Galvez back at MSF. Having escaped capture, she was airlifted back to MSF, not before providing Snake with instructions to steal an ID card to enter the facility ahead, hidden in a Mayan Temple.

Learning from Kaz that Cecile had never met Paz before, Snake decided to continue on. He soon met Dr Strangelove, who during Project Mercury had developed a love for The Boss and thus resented Snake for killing her. She had poured this unrequited love into the development of an AI based on whom she considered to have the finest rational mind - The Boss. This explained the voice recording that Snake had heard. Challenging Snake to destroy the AI, he was haunted by the Boss' voice and memories of Tselinoyarsk, and passed out.

Waking in the facility grounds, Snake was forced to take out an AI aircraft before moving forward. Beginning to question his understanding of The Boss' true last will, particularly as explained to him by EVA, he swore to defeat the AI when they met again.

Taking the Boss' old horse, Snake moved forward to a quarry where he saw Peace Walker being lowered. Slipping into the AI pod, he questioned the AI about Operation Snake-Eater but was unable to get answers. He was surrounded by Strangelove, some armed men and Coldman himself, who explained he was behind operation Snake-Eater and this was his place to restore world supremacy to the US. Utilising CQC to take out the men and obtain an ID card, Snake was nonetheless imprisoned and tortured by Strangelove. Wanting to know the truth of the Boss' last act, Snake did not give anything away, but Strangelove nevertheless felt she had the information she needed to complete the AI.

Using the stolen card to escape, Snake learned from Kaz that Galvez and Paz were missing. Suspecting Coldman, Snake returned to the hanger, where he indeed did find Paz, being held by Coldman, who hoped to use her to prevent MSF interfering with the Peace Walker project. Learning that the MSF base was to be its first target, Snake battled the Peace Walker module but it eventually left to follow Coldman's helicopter down the coast into Nicaragua. Snake learned from Emmerich that Coldman was likely to utilise Peace Walker from a US base in Nicaragua, with the upcoming US-Soviet SALT-2 nuclear reduction talks likely to give him additional leverage. Using a gondola to enter Nicaragua, Snake approached the base and was surprised to find Soviet soldiers. Learning via video from Paz within the base that Coldman was inputting the final launch data, Snake (with support via air and ground from MSF) took out a helicopter and squadron to make his way to the Comms tower.

Snake earned that a 'false' nuclear attack was already inputted - designed to appear like a Soviet strike on the US. This was necessary as Peace Walker could only launch as a deterrent, not pre-emptively. The retaliatory target was reverse engineered to be the MSF base. Snake raised his weapon, but suddenly Galvez appeared, revealing himself to actually be Vladimir Zadornov, who had been in league with Coldman all along. Zadornov's troops surrounded everyone, and he revealed in another bluff that he was actually hijacking Peace Walker and targeting Soviet ally Cuba, to spread anti-American sentiment worldwide. Shooting Coldman, he forced him to change the target of the attack to Cuba, but before he could Amanda and the combined force of the MSF and Sandinistas arrived. Amanda informed Zadornov they would no longer be the puppets of the KGB. They also gave Snake the title of Vic Boss.

With Coldman and Zadornov in custody, MSF returned to base, but Coldman secretly reactivated the launch. Feeling as though Washington would be unable to respond to what appeared to be a Soviet strike, Peace Walker would prove itself the perfect deterrent as it responded automatically. Snake destroyed the outer shell of Peace Walker, but was unable to penetrate the AI pod. Contacting the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs (who was preparing to launch) he convinced him that the Soviet strike data they were seeing was fake. At this time, the AI pod opened and Snake was able to disable the memory boards. The signal was still live, however, as a second AI had overtaken the first. The Peace Walker then led itself into a lake - The Boss' AI effectively trying to drown itself to stop the signal. It succeeded. It was clear that The Boss' final wish had been to lay down arms, and bring peace. Angered that she had chosen to give her life and lay down her arms merely for her country, Snake finally released his final keepsake of her, her Bandana, and finally embraced the name he had been given for killing her, Big Boss.

MSF continued on, with Emmerich designing MSF its own Metal Gear Zeke armed with the nuclear weapon salvaged from Peace Walker. After multiple escape attempts from Zadornov, Snake was eventually forced to kill him. Utilising this distraction Paz overtook Zeke and revealed she was actually working for Cipher, demanding that Snake and MSF become Cipher's military arm - they could even continue operating with Zeke as they were. Unwilling to abandon his life's calling as the Boss had done, Snake engaged Zeke, which was due to target the East coast of the US. Snake destroyed the threat, and in the explosion Paz was thrown into the ocean.

Snake learned to his anger that Kaz had been aware of Paz' deception and work with Cipher. Kaz explained however that the Cold War would give way to regional conflicts and that MSF could thrive. With the threat finally neutralised, Snake informed MSF that would serve under anyone, regardless of ideology. They would build their own nation, which would be known as Outer Heaven.

With Cipher's attempt to bring Snake in line a failure, he planned in the future to destroy MSF and Snake in revenge. Paz herself would survive the incident, rescued by a fisherman and eventually captured by XOF, a unit under the order of Cipher. What would come next would change Snake's world forever...

7 Chapter 6: Operation Trojan Horse

A few months after the Peace Walker incident, Dr Strangelove parted company with MSF. Around the same time, the IAEA (International Atomic Energy Agency) requested an inspection of Mother Base - based on their apparent ordering of nuclear fuel from Uzbekistan. Despite reluctance from MSF, Huey Emmerich secretly agreed to the inspection - although Big Boss and Kazuhira Miller suspected it was a ruse by Cipher to locate Metal Gear Zeke. In preparation for the inspection MSF returned the Sandanista's home, and hid armour and artillery, as well as planning to sink the now waterproofed ZEKE.

A short while after that, the organisation also confirmed that Paz Ortega survived the Peace Walker explosion that threw her into the sea, and was currently being held in an internment camp known as Camp Omega, a United States Naval Prison Facility in Cuba. Having to prepare for the inspection, MSF had to delay a rescue attempt, and any hopes of using Chico were dashed after he jumped the ship transporting him and attempted a rescue of Paz on his own, only to end up being captured himself.

Over the next days, Chico was imprisoned in animal cages with bolts through his Achilles tendons. He was taken to the admin building, where he met the leader of the shadowy organisation known as XOF operating out of the camp, the man known only as Skull Face. He also witnessed the torture and rape of Paz, and was forced to take part in this himself. Broken, he gave Skull Face all the information he needed on Mother Base, including the existence of Zeke. He then let Chico send an SOS message to MSF, who saw through it as a trap but had no choice but to launch a rescue attempt (particularly as Paz was their only real link to Cipher).

As MSF prepared for their mission, XOF themselves planned a 'Trojan Horse' operation. Sewing bombs into Paz' stomach and vagina, Skull Face revealed that he himself had an ulterior motive for her capture - she was the only agent to meet with Cipher face to face and he wanted Zero's location so that he could liberate himself from Cipher's control. He later removed all XOF logo's from his helicopters and shoulder patches, and set off with his unit towards MSF, at the same time Big Boss landed in Cuba.

Quickly locating and extracting Chico, Big Boss obtained a tape from his cassette player that led him to Paz' location. Despite the base becoming aware of her removal, Big Boss was successfully able to extract her from the facility. Noticing the scar on her stomach whilst departing, Big Boss had a medic look at Paz, who was forced to cut the bomb from her stomach. At this time, Bog Boss learned from Emmerich that the inspection had been a success.

However, the helicopter soon lost communications with MSF, and learned why. It was under attack from XOF and was very nearly destroyed by the time they arrived. Big Boss was only able to extract Kaz and one other soldier before the base was destroyed by C4. Interrogated by Kaz during the escape, Paz revealed she was carrying a second bomb, and threw herself out of the chopper. It exploded before she could get a safe distance away, and the helicopter careened into a pursuing XOF helicopter...

8 Chapter 7: The Phantom Pain

March 1975 - It appeared as though the helicopter crash witnessed at the end of Operation Trojan Horse seriously injured Kazuhira Miller and an unnamed survivor, as well as Big Boss himself, who was resuscitated but fell into a deep coma, which was understood to last nine years.

Little is known at this stage of the movements of Kaz and Ocelot after Big Boss fell into a coma, nor if and how he was hidden from Cipher.

In 1977, the Mozambican civil war began between the ruling FRELIMO party, and the RENAMO party funded by South Africa and Rhodesia. Frank Jaeger, the man Big Boss rescued both when he was a young child soldier and when he was in the perfect soldier program as Null, joined the conflict of the RENAMO side. A couple of years later, he rescued and adopted a young girl called Naomi Hunter after feeling guilty for killing her parents during the conflict.

In 1979, the Soviet Union invaded Afghanistan. Ocelot served in this conflict as a Spetsnaz operative. The Mujahedeen feared him as a sadist and a torturer and gave him the nickname Shalashaska. It was through his time in the Spetsnaz that Ocelot would come to meet Sergei Gurlukovich.

In 1980, Huey Emmerich had a son, whom he named Hal Emmerich. Also early in the 1980s, a young boy called Jack was born in Liberia. He would go on to serve as a child soldier in Liberia.

In 1984, Big Boss awoke from his coma, in a military hospital believed to be in Cyprus. It is understood that he was missing his left arm, and had shrapnel in the right side of his head. It is also understood that the hospital came under attack from an unknown military unit. Big Boss was aided in his escape from the facility and its attackers by a bandaged figure who called himself Ishmael, and said he had been watching over Big Boss during his coma. Escaping the hospital, it is understood that Ocelot helped Big Boss to flee.

Shortly after this, it is understood Big Boss undertook a mission under the instruction of Ocelot to save Kaz, who was being held prisoner in Afghanistan. Successfully doing so, he learned that Kaz had lost his right arm and left leg during his imprisonment. The three of them would go on to build on the private military corporation that Kaz had worked on to replace MSF in Boss' absence. They would be known as Diamond Dogs and they would work to combat Cipher.

Big Boss began to complete various combat missions and let his legend come back to life. On one of these missions, in the Mozambican civil war, he rescued Frank Jaeger from imprisonment. He bought him back to the US along with the child he had fostered, Naomi Hunter. Jaeger would then join Big Boss to continue fighting, leaving Naomi to receive an education in America.

By the late 1980s, he had also rescued a young female Kurd known as Sniper Wolf and would teach her how to become a soldier. He began to use the money Diamond Dogs had made from his work as a mercenary to work on creating the military nation he had dreamed about before his coma - Outer Heaven.

At the same time, the third clone of the Les Enfants Terribles project, Solidus Snake, killed the parents of the Liberian child soldier Jack and adopted him as his own. He hoped to use the child as an experiment into a hypothesis he had on the nature of existence. Under Solidus' tutelage, Jack became an extremely proficient killer, and he was given the nicknames Jack the Ripper and White Devil, referencing that he was one of very few Caucasian children in Liberia serving in the conflict, as well as his skill with a blade.

Of the other clones, both had considerable military experience in the 1980s. Solid Snake joined the Green Berets as a teen, and would later serve in the Gulf War. Liquid Snake would also serve in the same conflict, having become the youngest ever person to serve in the Special Air Service, though he was also working undercover for the British Secret Intelligence Service. As the 1980s decade drew to a close, however, the lives of all of the above characters would become irrevocably linked...

9 Chapter 8: Operation Intrude N312/313

1989 -Big Boss began work on creating Outer Heaven, a military nation designed against the exploitation of soldiers by Governments, a modified version of Army's Heaven that was envisioned by Gene during the San Hieronymo Takeover. Outer Heaven was itself an independent nation that grew from the roots of Diamond Dogs, using the money the organisation and Boss had made as mercenaries in the second half of the 1980s.

In 1990 Liquid Snake joined the SAS and served in the gulf war. He was captured by the enemy and designated as MIA. Solid Snake joined the US army and served with the Green Berets in the same conflict. During this conflict, US Army troops were injected with a soldier serum created from Big Boss' DNA by Dr Clark, aka Para-Medic who was working on the project for Cipher. The side effect of these experiments was covered up - incorrectly reported as Gulf War Syndrome.

Sometime in the early 1990s, Big Boss returned to the US and re-joined FOXHOUND. Frank Jaeger followed soon after and became the first to earn the top codename Fox, becoming known as Gray Fox. At this time, Big Boss' continuing work on Outer Nation was unknown to the rest of the world. In 1995, Solid Snake joined FOXHOUND - though he had not yet earned that moniker. Knowing he was his clone, Big Boss bestowed the codename Solid Snake on him, and taught him about survival on the battlefield, as well as CQC.

At this same time this was taking place, however, Big Boss and Outer Heaven kidnapped Dr Drago Petrovich Madnar and his daughter, and forced him to work on the creation of TX-55 Metal Gear, based on the original designs of Granin, as seen during the Snake Eater and Peace Walker operations.

In 1995, the West learned of the kidnapping, and the development of the TX-55, and enlisted FOXHOUND to help. Big Boss first sent Gray Fox to investigate, but after infiltrating the fortress, he was captured, and his last transmission was simply 'Metal Gear...'. Shortly after, FOXHOND rookie Solid Snake was chosen to take up the mission. Following a successful underwater insertion, Snake used information from local resistance leader Kyle Schneider as well as prisoners to locate Fox - albeit having to let himself get captured in the process. He learned the true nature of Metal Gear from Fox, and set off to find Dr Madnar on Fox's advice. He was met by prison warden Shotmaker, however, and had to avoid him until he could find his equipment and defeat him.

Shortly after, he was met by Outer Heaven mercenary Machinegun Kid, and was also forced to defeat him. Traversing a rooftop to get to an inner courtyard, Snake was forced to shoot down a Hind D helicopter that attacked him. Gaining information from another prisoner, Snake was also forced to destroy a tank blocking his path.

Procuring an enemy uniform, Snake was able to make his way into the basement, and thought he had located Dr Madnar, though it proved to be a booby trap that Snake narrowly avoided. He was then attacked by mercenary Fire Trooper, and also dispatched him. Snake soon met another member of the local resistance called Jennifer, who gave him a rocket launcher that he used to destroy Bloody Brad cyberoids guarding Dr Madnar. Dr Madnar refused to aid Snake until he rescued his daughter Ellen, and Snake was forced to traverse an underground pass (on the advice of another resistance member, Diane) to find her. She revealed Dr Madnar was working on the Metal Gear against his will.

With Ellen safe, Dr Madnar revealed the location of Metal Gear, along with how to destroy it with plastic explosives. As he made his way, Snake was first ambushed, then received faulty information from Big Boss, which delayed his mission. Soon enough Big Boss told him to quit the mission altogether, which confused Snake. On advice from Jennifer, Snake located the card key he needed to enter the Metal Gear hangar, and killed the mercenary Dirty Duck who was carrying it. One of POWs he freed at this point was Jennifer's brother, who revealed to Snake how to escape from Outer Heaven.

Snake avoided the gun cameras in the hangar and successfully destroyed the Metal Gear, when suddenly the hangar self-destruct countdown began. Trying to escape, Snake was met by the man from whom he had been receiving instruction, Big Boss himself. Shocking Snake by revealing himself to be behind Outer Heaven, he informed Snake he had only intended for him to gather false information about the base, Snake had come much further than Big Boss ever expected. The two locked in a ruthless battle, which Snake eventually won. Leaving Big Boss in the hangar, he made his way from the base shortly before the explosion and informed HQ that his mission had been a success and Metal Gear was destroyed.

In the aftermath, it was later revealed NATO bombed the site shortly after Snake's escape, despite the major human casualties. However, Big Boss himself survived, and rounded up other survivors, including resistance members, whilst vowing that he and Snake would meet again...

10 Chapter 9: OPERATION INTRUDE F014

1995 - Following the events of the Outer Heaven uprising, Solid Snake returned to the US, and retired, haunted by nightmares of the events that had unfolded. Around this time, Roy Campbell, the Green Beret rescued by Big Boss during the San Hieronymo takeover, became Commander of FOXHOUND.

1997 - An uprising in the Central Asian states was won by a band of Mercenaries who formed a democratic military regime known as Zanzibar Land. The leader of this regime was Big Boss and over the following years the regime worked on developing new Metal Gear prototypes. They would also attack nuclear weapons facilities and steal stock, as well as engage in combat with neighbouring countries, all in an attempt to replicate Outer Heaven.

1999- The Patriots, also known as Cipher, developed a computer program that allowed for the control of information over the internet. In particular, it could manage or delete information deemed inconvenient to the organisation. It was installed in civilian and military computers under the guise of being a counteraction to the Y2K bug.

Around the same time, a solution to the world's energy crisis was found, as Dr Kio Marv accidentally discovered OILIX, a process for converting biological algae into 96 octane gasoline. This substance was hailed as one of the most important discoveries of the 20th century.

On his way to an energy conference, Dr Marv was kidnapped by agents from Zanzibar land. NATO learned that Zanzibar Land planned to use Dr Marv and his creation to control the world's supply of oil. To combat this, FOXHOUND, under the leadership of Roy Campbell, called Solid Snake out of retirement. Undertaking Operation Intrude F014 and entering Zanzibar Land by HAHO jump, Snake successfully navigated his way up a cliff face and into the facility. FOXHOUND had secretly placed a tracker on Dr Marv prior to his kidnapping and Snake used it, along with help from Holly White, a CIA operative posing as a journalist, to find him. However the tracker had been removed by a Zanzibar Land mercenary, Black Ninja, who attacked Snake and was duly defeated. Black Ninja revealed himself to be Kyle Schneider, the resistance member from Outer Heaven who Snake had worked with. He insinuated Big Boss was behind Zanzibar land and filled Snake in on details of the NATO bombing of Outer Heaven.

Following a Green Beret into a clearing, Snake entered a building where he could hear a tapping. Noting that the tapping was a frequency code, Snake called the frequency and was surprised to speak to Dr Drago Petrovich Madnar, the developer of Metal Gear from Outer Heaven. He had once again been captured and forced to work on the project. He urged Snake to find Dr Marv, who had a heart condition, and put him in contact with a zoologist, Johan Jacobsen, to help.

Crossing a desert, Snake was contacted by a mysterious man introducing himself only as 'Snake's number 1 fan'. He told Snake to avoid mines in the area, which Snake successfully navigated. Snake was soon engaged by a Hind D helicopter, and took shelter in order to locate Stinger missiles. In doing so he was met by a Mercenary known as Running Man, whom Snake duly defeated. Learning of the location of the Stingers from a prisoner, Snake continued on and located them, using the missiles to shoot down the helicopter shortly after. Proceeding on, Snake was contacted again by Holly, who had been captured. Using clues she was able to give, he located and freed her. Heading to the roof, Snake was forced to defeat another mercenary known as Red Blaster. On the roof, Snake found a carrier pigeon with a code attached to his leg. With help from Campbell, and his FOXHOUND drill instructor Kazuhira Miller, now known as Master Miller, Snake was able to deduce Dr Marv's radio code.

Dr Marv did not speak English, so Madnar advised Snake to locate Gustava Heffner, an ex-figure skater who was acting as their bodyguard, and who was disguised as the enemy. Locating her, Snake was able to confirm Dr Marv was well, as well as where he was being held. Snake worked with Gustava to free Madnar from his cell, and the three of them made their way towards where Dr Marv was being held. On the way, Snake learned that Gustava had been engaged to a man known as Frank Hunter, but was unable to gain asylum to the US and so had taken up this new job.

As they began to cross a suspension bridge, it was attacked by a missile, which fatally injured Gustava. Armed guards kidnapped Madnar again, and METAL GEAR D arrived, piloted by Gray Fox, the man who Snake had rescued in Outer Heaven. He told Snake to leave Zanzibar land or he would kill him. Gustava meanwhile, thanking Snake for his support, gave him a brooch that could change into a key at different temperatures.

Snake was forced to engage more mercenaries from Zanzibar Land, codenamed Four Horsemen, Jungle Evil and Night Fright. Locating the cell of Dr Marv, now also holding Dr Madnar, Snake was shocked to learn that Dr Marv had died from the torture he had endured. Holly also revealed to Snake that Dr Madnar was working on the Metal Gear project of his own volition. Dr Madnar admitted as much and attacked Snake, and though he was easily defeated Snake did not kill him. Making his way to where Dr Marv had hidden his OILIX formula, Snake took advice from Jacobsen on how to distract the venomous Zanzibar Land Hamsters who had nested there, and obtained the formula, using the key Gustava had gave him to access it. Dr Madnar then had a change of heart and told Snake how to defeat the Metal Gear.

Snake soon fell down a trapdoor, into a basement that housed Metal Gear D and Gray Fox. Engaging in combat, Snake defeated the Metal Gear, but his equipment caught fire in the explosion and Gray Fox used the opportunity to take back the formula. Following Gray Fox into a minefield, Snake learned via radio from a military expert George Kasler that Fox's real name was Frank Jaeger. Snake realised this was the 'Frank Hunter' that Gustava had spoken of.

Free of ideals, Snake and Fox had a hand to hand combat fight in the minefield, with Snake coming out victorious. Fox said that he needed war, and Big Boss gave him that. Snake told him Gustava would be with him on the other side, and left him to die, retaking the formula. Moving on, Snake was met by a familiar voice, that of Big Boss. Snake informed him he had returned to Zanzibar Land to get rid of the nightmares that had plagued him since Outer Heaven. Big Boss informed him they would never go away, and that Snake's place was on the battlefield. The two engaged in combat and Snake used a lacquer spray and cigarette lighter combination to defeat Big Boss. Escaping with Holly whilst under attack, they were aided by their getaway pilot Charlie who provided air support and got them to safety.

Successfully delivering the formula, Snake was asked to rejoin FOXHOUND, but declined, saying that his nightmares were gone. He chose instead to disappear into the Alaskan wilderness, where he would find peace, at least for a while...

11 Chapter 10: The Early 2000s

1999 - Following the events of the Zanzibar Land Disturbance, Solid Snake returned to the US, where he was in self-imposed exile in Alaska. By the end of the year, the body of Gray Fox was recovered by FOXHOUND, and was used by their genetic scientist Dr Clark, (formerly known as Para-Medic), for experimentation. At the same time, The Patriots, aka Cipher, recovered the burnt body of Big Boss, and kept him in a coma using nanomachine technology. At this time, the Patriots planned to control the flow of information via a program passed out to reportedly counter the Y2K bug. Zero commissioned development of a neuro-optic AI network to govern the flow of the world's economic, political, legal, social and cultural information. This took the form of four AI networks, known as AL, GW, TJ and TR, that would be under the authority of a fifth core AI network, known as JD. Ocelot and EVA, founding members of the Patriots, were disillusioned with the group and plotted to destroy it, and reawaken Big Boss.

2000 - The 'Y2K bug fix' had been sent out and thus the Patriot's data filter was spread worldwide. Shortly thereafter, an NSA facility was attacked by hackers, one of whom was the second child of Huey Emmerich, and sister of Hal Emmerich, Emma Emmerich. This forced the Patriots to shift their data-gathering to an offshore, isolated location away from the possibility of physical or cyber-terrorism. The early stage planning of this project was known as Arsenal Gear. Emma Emmerich was soon hired to work on this project.

Around the same time, Liquid Snake, who had been MIA for years, became the leader of FOXHOUND. He recruited Ocelot and changed the nature of FOXHOUND to be a small, elite counter-terrorism unit. The third twin of the Les Enfants Terribles project, Solidus Snake, became the 43rd President of the USA, following a short but successful political career backed by The Patriots. He was known at this time as George Sears.

2002 - Needing an isolated and hidden location, the US built a nuclear weapons disposal facility on Shadow Moses Island, in the Fox archipelago off the coast of Alaska.

2003 - The child orphan Naomi Hunter, who was adopted by Frank Jaeger, aka Gray Fox and later rescued by Big Boss, joined FOXHOUND as a scientist. With help from EVA and Ocelot she used an explosion to kill Dr Clark and make it look like an accident - partially in revenge for her experiments on her 'brother' Gray Fox. EVA and Ocelot supported this as they were targeting the remaining Patriots members. Hunter also managed to fake the death of Fox in this explosion and look after him in private, whilst she was promoted to take Dr Clark's position within FOXHOUND.

2005 - In early 2005, a concerning report was filed relating to the US Next Generation Special Forces. This squad, known as the Genome Army, was mainly comprised of ex-Mercenaries whose contracts were bought out by the US government following the downfall of Zanzibar Land. This team was merged with the US army's Virtual Reality program recruits, known as Force XXI. These soldiers were enhanced with soldier genes from Big Boss - a concept that had its roots in the Perfect Soldier program seen in the San Hieronymo takeover, and later developed during the first Gulf war by Dr Clark. The report suggested that the individuals were consulting classified information relating to the soldier gene program, and also performing genetic experiments on themselves. Shortly thereafter, the NGSF team would be involved in a grave National Security incident...

12 Chapter 11: Shadow Moses Incident

2005 - The DARPA chief Donald Anderson, a founding and active member of The Patriots who was previously known as SigInt, had been working for a number of years on a joint project with an Arms manufacturer called Armstech to develop a Metal Gear prototype for the army. The model, based on those developed by Dr Madnar for Big Boss during his insurrections at Outer Heaven and Zanzibar Land, was known as Metal Gear REX and was nearing completion. Armstech, in dire financial straits following the loss of numerous Government contracts, was convinced of the viability of the Metal Gear project for the Army and had heavily bribed Donald Anderson in order to win the contract and develop REX. DARPA had used its black budget from the Pentagon to covertly support the development of the Project. Donald Anderson travelled with the Armstech President Kenneth Baker to the nuclear weapons disposal facility on Shadow Moses Island off the coast of Alaska - actually a cover for the building site for REX - to oversee the final stages of the test.

The final stages of the test involved a live field test - with the previous tests all being completed in a VR environment. One unique aspect of the weapon was that it fired the nuclear payload from a rail gun using magnetic fields - technically invalidating it from any ICBM treaties. Overseeing this final stage of the test was Special Forces FOXHOUND, as well as the NGSF team that had undergone gene therapy and were known as the Genome Army. The night before the US President (George Sears, aka Solidus Snake) was due to sign a nuclear reduction treaty (START 3) these groups revolted and took over the site as well as possession of REX. They took Anderson and Baker hostage and threatened a nuclear strike unless they received $1 billion dollars and the remains of Big Boss. They were aided with the promise of troops and equipment provided by Sergei Gurlukovich, an ex-Spetnaz college of Ocelot. With the President busy, Secretary of Defence Jim Houseman requested the support of Roy Campbell, ex-commander of the FOXHOUND unit, to help thwart the threat. Once again Solid Snake was called out of retirement to rescue the hostages and determine the launch capabilities of the terrorists. Campbell admitted to a reluctant Snake that he had personal motivations to ask Snake to complete the mission, as his own niece Meryl Silverburgh, who was recently transferred to the site as a soldier and did not take part in the revolt, was being held as a prisoner.

After receiving nanomachine and anti-freezing peptide shots from FOXHOUND geneticist Naomi Hunter, Snake infiltrated the site via underwater insertion and made his way up to the heliport. He saw FOXHOUND leader Liquid Snake take off from the site in a Hind D to combat two jets that had been scrambled to cover his insertion. He was also aided on Codec radio by data analyst Mei Ling, who had designed some of his electronics equipment including the Soliton personnel radar. Using an air duct to enter the main hangar, Snake was then contacted by Kazuhira Miller, known to Snake as Master Miller, an expert on local flora and fauna. Completing the team advising Snake was Nastasha Romanenko, a Ukrainian nuclear weapons expert who was forced to assist in the mission by her ex-husband Richard Ames. Ames was a DIA agent and Patriot spy who wanted extra eyes on the mission.

Locating Anderson, Snake learned that the terrorists did have launch capability, as they were in possession of a working METAL GEAR. They needed two passwords to do so - One from him and one from Baker. He had given his password under duress. Snake also learned the launch could be started/overridden by the use of 3 PAL cards. Shortly thereafter, Anderson died of what appeared to be a heart attack. In the furore, Meryl, who had been held in the cell next door, made her escape and the two met briefly, fighting off some of the Genome soldiers before Meryl made her escape.

Snake proceeded to find President Baker, who was surrounded by booby trapped C4. Before he could free him, FOXHOUND member Ocelot appeared and the two had a gun duel. Before it could be settled, a mysterious Ninja in stealth camouflage appeared and chopped off Ocelot's hand, before leaving. Snake learned from Baker that Meryl had the PAL key. He also told Snake to contact Hal Emmerich, aka Otacon, chief engineer of the Metal Gear project and son of Huey Emmerich, who had worked on the Metal Gear design decades before. He gave Snake an optical disk with the Metal Gear launch data on, before he too appeared to die of a heart attack.

Proceeding ahead after contacting Meryl by Codec, Snake was contacted by an unknown man who advised Snake that his path was blocked by a Tank as well as numerous claymore mines. Sure enough a tank, piloted by FOXHOUND member Vulcan Raven, lay in wait. Using grenade's Snake defeated the tank and managed to get into the weapons disposal hangar. Making his way towards Otacon's office, Snake was met by a grisly corridor of bloody corpses. The mysterious ninja once showed him once more, and challenged Snake to hand to hand combat. He once again vanished, but not before Snake realised his identity - the man he has saved at Outer Heaven and fought in Zanzibar Land, Gray Fox. Naomi revealed the extent of the experiments that Dr Clark had completed on Fox, included fitting him with the Ninja exoskeleton, which sickened Campbell and Snake.

Snake met Otacon, who did not work on the rail gun, which was provided separately, and was unaware of Rex's launch capabilities, believing it to be for defence purposes only. He informed Snake if the PAL override did not work he would have to destroy REX. Snake tracked down Meryl and got a PAL key, but their path was soon blocked by FOXHOUND member and psychic, Psycho Mantis. Despite his powerful mind control, Snake overcame Mantis, who opened a path for Snake and Meryl to continue on. Meryl, however, was soon shot by FOXHOUND sharpshooter Sniper Wolf. Tracking back to locate an appropriate weapon, Snake returned to battle Wolf. Defeating her, Snake moved ahead to confirm the kill, but there was no one there. He was instead ambushed by Wolf and a Genome soldier, and was captured.

Snake was tortured at the hands of Ocelot, before being imprisoned. Ocelot also took back the launch data for REX. In Snake's cell was the body of Anderson, which oddly appeared to have been dead for days. Fashioning an escape with help from Otacon, Snake made his way to the roof, where he was ambushed by Liquid Snake in the Hind D. Abseiling down the building, Snake located a Stinger missile and returned to the roof, where he took down the helicopter. After returning to ground level, fighting off men in a booby trapped lift along the way, Snake proceeded out to a snowfield. He was attacked by Wolf again, and defeating her for good this time, Snake took an underground passage to where the Metal Gear Hangar lay.

Making his way towards the control room, Miller contacted Snake, informing her that information Naomi had given over the radio was inaccurate and that she might be a spy. This worried Campbell, who asked her to stay on the mission a little longer, which infuriated Snake who knew Campbell was withholding some information from him. Before the situation was resolved, Snake was once again met by Vulcan Raven, armed with a Gatling Gun. Defeating him for good, Raven mysteriously revealed that the man Snake had met was not Donald Anderson, but actually FOXHOUND member and mimicry and disguise master, Decoy Octopus.

Locating METAL GEAR ahead, Snake learnt of its launch capabilities from Otacon, as well as overhearing from Liquid Snake and Ocelot in the control room that they had added a cure for FOXDIE to their demands. Otacon then revealed to Snake that the one PAL key he had was actually all three, and that it changed shape at different temperatures. The card was shot out his hand by Ocelot, who had discovered Snake, but he recovered it, though Liquid and Ocelot were nowhere to be found. Around this time, Naomi revealed privately to Snake she was a spy, and she despised him for killing the man who had looked after her, Big Boss, as well as crippling her big brother Gray Fox. She revealed she had injected Snake with FOXDIE, a retrovirus that targeted specific people based on their genomic code. It had been designed to kill all of FOXHOUND, and Baker, but she had modified it to kill him too. Before she could reveal more, she was arrested by Campbell.

Snake proceeded with the mission, and inputted the three keys. To his shock, this prepared REX for launch. Miller called Snake and thanked him for this, as they had never actually managed to get Anderson's code, 'accidentally' killed by Ocelot during the torture process, and thus they used Decoy Octopus to convince Snake to input the PAL code and set the launch. In reality, Ocelot knew Anderson's real identity within The Patriots, and as part of this plan with EVA to destroy them, had purposely killed Anderson and made it look like an accident.

Snake then learnt from Campbell that Miller was not who he said he was, as Miller had been found dead in Alaska. The voice of Miller revealed himself to be Liquid Snake, who bought Snake up to speed on the nature of their birth via the Les Enfants Terribles project, as well as the Pentagon (Patriots) plan to use FOXDIE to wipe them all out and retrieve REX in secret. Under advice from Otacon, Snake fought Liquid, who was piloting REX, but was soon overwhelmed. From nowhere, Gray Fox revealed himself, and engaged the REX, destroying its radome and visual capabilities before being crushed. In his dying moments, he revealed to Snake about his true history with Naomi, and how he had killed her parents. His actions gave Snake the opportunity to attack the cockpit, and he destroyed REX, though he was knocked unconscious in the resulting explosion.

Awakening on top of the REX head, Solid Snake was challenged by Liquid to hand to hand combat, but not before revealing his ambition to create a war torn world in which soldiers like them could thrive. He also revealed the truth that the two were cloned, and that he thought he had received the 'recessive' genes from Big Boss, and hoped to surpass his genetic legacy with a new 'Outer Heaven'. He wanted Big Boss' body in order to combat problems with the genetic therapy the Genome Soldiers were going through. Snake learnt from Defence Secretary Houseman that he had arrested Campbell and sent AWACs to bomb the entire site and bury the evidence, unless Snake could provide him with the Optical data, which Ocelot still had. This gave Snake little time to escape. After a brutal battle, Solid threw Liquid from the side of Rex, and began to escape with Meryl, who had survived and was being held by Liquid. He also learned Meryl was in fact Campbell's daughter, not his niece. Chasing them in a car, and causing a crash, Liquid looked to have captured them both before he too succumbed to FOXDIE, and died. Campbell then contacted Snake, informing him he had managed to get hold of the President, who had Defence Secretary Houseman arrested for acting on his own accord. The strike was called off, and Snake and Meryl were able to escape unharmed.

Following the events, Naomi Hunter was arrested and imprisoned, but was broken out shortly after, probably by Ocelot. Ocelot, who replaced his missing hand with Liquid's, himself revealed that he was working with the third clone, US President George Sears, aka Solidus Snake. Solidus wanted to free himself of the Patriots grip and was aware of the situation the entire time, hoping to use REX against the Patriots. The two now had all the test data for REX, and despite attempts from The Patriots shortly after to Kill Sears, he went underground with help from Ocelot. He would surface again a few years later...

13 Chapter 12: Manhattan Incident / Big Shell Incident

Shortly the events on Shadow Moses Island, President George Sears, aka Solidus Snake, lost the Presidency as he was forced to resign by The Patriots. The Patriots attempted to have Solidus killed but he went underground with help from Ocelot. Around the same time, Secretary of Defense Jim Houseman, who went off The Patriots plan by coming close to bombing Shadow Moses and thus destroying Metal Gear, was killed and it was made to look like suicide.

2006 - Solid Snake and Otacon formed Philanthropy, an NGO dedicated to the eradication of Metal Gear derivatives. The derivatives had become widespread because Ocelot chose to sell the blueprints of REX, meaning every country and dotcom could own Metal Gear derivatives. Around the same time, Otacon's sister Emma Emmerich began to work for the NSA in exchange for information about her brother. Later in the year, Jack, the young man raised as a child soldier in Liberia by Solidus, undertook VR training as part of the Army's Force XXI trials.

2007 - Jack met a girl, Rosemary, in New York. They began dating shortly after when they reacquainted whilst working on the same military base. Shortly after this time, Otacon received a tip-off that the US Navy was transporting a new version of a Metal Gear prototype codenamed RAY. The tip-off came from someone marked 'EE', which Otacon suspected was the sister he had not spoken to for many years.

Armed with the information, Snake infiltrated the USS Discovery as it travelled down the Hudson River, with the objective of capturing photographic proof of the Ray prototype, which was an amphibious anti-Metal Gear design.

Whilst preparing to infiltrate the ship proper, Snake witnessed its takeover by Russian Mercenaries led by Sergei Gurlukovich. Avoiding the Russian soldiers, Snake made his way to the bridge, and learned that the ship was headed well out of the US fleets operational range, and thus the Ray was presumably ready for final testing. Heading back down the ship, Snake intercepted Gurlukovich's daughter, Olga Gurlukovich, who refused to leave the ship despite being pregnant. After a short gun fight Snake was able to tranquilize her, though he was surprised to see a US Army UAV Cypher fly by shortly after, unaware it had taken photographs of him.

Arriving in the hold, Snake avoided the large group of Marines there listening to a speech from Commandant Scott Dolph, and located the RAY prototype. Otacon, aware somebody was monitoring his transmission with Snake, arranged for the photographs to be sent from a terminal on the ship. Having done this, Snake was surprised by the sudden appearance of Ocelot and Gurlukovich, the former of whom took Dolph at gunpoint. Gurlukovich indicated he was taking back Ray for Russia, though Ocelot then informed him that he was betraying him and actually taking Ray for his own purpose.

He indicated he was working for The Patriots, who Gurlukovich referred to as the La-Li-Lu-Le-Lo. Ocelot shot Gurlukovich, his team, and Dolph, and hijacked the Ray prototype. His right arm began to spasm and the voice of Liquid Snake took over Ocelot, telling Snake that he was 'drowning in time.' Using the Ray to destroy the ship, Ocelot escaped, with over half of the marines on board drowning as the Discovery sank. Snake was able to survive, rescued by Otacon, but the photos taken by the Cypher were used to frame Snake for the sinking by The Patriots, who discredited Philanthropy (who were thereafter known as eco-terrorists). Snake was able to use the recovered body of Liquid Snake, however, to fake his own death in the incident and go in to hiding.

The incident was the perfect cover for The Patriots to begin work on the plan for an offshore data processing facility for the data of their neural AI-network to control the worldwide flow of information. Thus, under the guise of an oil-spill clear up facility, known as Big Shell, construction began on Arsenal Gear, a submersible, mobile fortress that housed the central AI network GW designed by Emma Emmerich, as well as complete control of the US military network.

Around this time, Solidus, who had been underground, recruited ex-members of a SEAL unit known as Dead Cell, who had been framed as terrorists and had their leader imprisoned, where he would later die. Though the unit was later attacked in an extermination attempt, three members of the group, Vamp, Fortune and Fatman survived. Naturally more open to extremism given what happened to them, the three were recruited by Solidus to a group known as the Sons of Liberty - though little did he know what had happened to Dead Cell was orchestrated by The Patriots for a cause that would become clear later. The group also included Olga Gurlukovich and her troops.

In 2009 The Patriot's stooge and 44th US President Johnson was taking a tour of the Big Shell clean up facility when it was hijacked by the Sons of Liberty. They demanded $30 Billion or they would ignite the crude oil from the clean-up facility and cause a major ecological disaster. Solidus identified himself to the world as Solid Snake, who was presumed dead and was blamed for the Manhattan Incident that had taken place earlier. FOXHOUND, under the command of Roy Campbell, were tasked with recovering the President and other hostages, and thus sent their new recruit Jack, codenamed Raiden. SEAL TEAM 10 were undertaking a separate mission, also tasked with rescuing the President and covering bomb disposal expert Peter Stillman to neutralise any planted explosives by explosives expert Fatman. Raiden commenced an underwater infiltration, though he was surprised to see the fence had already been cut. Furthermore, when he docked he found the guards unconscious. Learning that Rosemary was also tasked with mission support, Raiden continued on and used his implanted nanomachines to bypass computer security and access the structural map of the site. Making his way towards where the President was supposedly located, Raiden overheard SEAL TEAM 10 Alpha team being overrun by a mysterious force. Arriving there, Raiden was met by Vamp, but a sole SEAL survivor of the attack who identified himself as Iroquois Pliskin fought him off. Plisken was surprised that Raiden identified as FOXHOUND, given that the unit had disbanded four years prior.

Moving on, Raiden witnessed Fortune destroy the bridge to the central strut and kill all members of the Bravo SEAL team, whose bullets could not hit Fortune. She took the President into the central strut and Raiden moved on. He met with Peter Stillman and Plisken again, the former of whom explained that Fatman was one of his best students. Under instruction from Stillman, and using a freezing spray, Raiden and Plisken were able to navigate the struts of the site and freeze the C4 planted by Fatman. However, they learned freezing the C4s acted as a trigger for a larger C4 placed in the base of each central strut. Racing to disarm this, Raiden was successful, but Plisken was not. Stillman was killed in the resulting explosion, but Plisken survived. Raiden was then attacked by Fortune, and soon Vamp, and like the SEAL team his bullets could not hit her. One did deflect around her and hit Vamp, seemingly killing him, and Fortune carried him off, leaving Raiden to deal with Fatman, who had planted a renegade bomb.

Fatman wished to surpass his mentor Stillman and place his name in the history books as the greatest bomber ever, but he was foiled by Raiden, who disarmed the remaining bombs Fatman had planted and promptly killed him.

Raiden was then met by a mysterious exo-skeleton Ninja, who informed him the President could be found by asking his aide, Richard Ames, who was being held hostage. Providing Raiden with an enemy uniform, the Ninja also revealed the plant was not just a clean-up facility, but also hiding a new type of Metal Gear. Raiden located Ames, who confirmed what the Ninja had said and gave Raiden the location of the President, though he said there was no ransom and the terrorists plan was to detonate a nuclear device over New York. Ocelot appeared, and revealed Ames, who had aided The Patriots during the Shadow Moses incident, was keeping tabs on the current President Johnson, whom The Patriots had become worried about. Ames suddenly had a heart attack, though the Ninja intervened before Ocelot could capture Raiden and he made his escape.

On his way to the President's location, Raiden's path was blocked by Solidus, calling himself Solid Snake. Plisken, who was in a Kasatka helicopter to help rescue the hostages, angrily revealed he was in fact Solid Snake and attacked Solidus. Utilising his exoskeleton to avoid the attack, Solidus boarded a Harrier jump jet piloted by a very-much alive Vamp, which was then shot down by Raiden using a stinger missile provided by Solid Snake. As the plane fell, it was rescued by a Metal Gear RAY and taken to safety.

Solid Snake introduced Raiden to Otacon, who was there to continue the work of Philanthropy and rescue his sister, Emma Emmerich. Leaving them to deal with the hostages, Raiden located the President, and utilised a Nikita missile to destroy the control panel controlling an electrified floor outside his room. Face to face with President Johnson, Raiden learned of the nature of The Patriots, of the Les Enfants Terribles project, and of the true identity of Solidus and his role in the Shadow Moses incident, as well as the true purpose of Arsenal Gear. Johnson then told Raiden to locate Emma Emmerich and give her a computer worm to destroy the AI. He then attempted to get Raiden to shoot him, as he believed his vital statistics (heartbeat etc) were needed to launch a nuclear attack. Before he could refuse, Ocelot arrived and shot the President, though he did not attack Raiden.

Raiden moved on to find Emma, fighting and defeating Vamp en route. Swimming back with Emma through the flooded bombed strut, Emma informed Raiden that the GW AI was not quite finished, though a large test was planned for sometime soon to give it data to process. Using an oil fence to cross the struts, Emma was attacked by Vamp, who stabbed her before being shot by a Sniper bullet from Raiden. Solid Snake took her to the computer room, where she was able to upload the worm and spend a last moment with her brother before she died. Saddened, Otacon chose to help the hostages escape and left Raiden and Snake alone. Suddenly, the Ninja appeared and revealed herself to be Olga Gurlukovich, before knocking Raiden out.

Awakening in a torture rack within the Arsenal Gear, Solidus and Ocelot appeared. Solidus reminded Raiden of his time in Liberia under his tutelage, as a child soldier. Olga appeared soon after, and informed Raiden that she was acting as a double agent because the Patriots had taken her child, threatening her death if she did not assist Raiden in completing his mission. She released him from captivity, and shortly after Rosemary revealed she too was a spy for the Patriots, though her feelings for Raiden were real. Meeting back up with Snake, the two battled their way through the Arsenal Gear Tengu soldiers, as Raiden received scrambled and odd communications from Campbell. With the help from Otacon, he learned the signal was actually coming from within Arsenal Gear; Raiden had not been communicating with Campbell and Rosemary but rather an image of them created by the AI based on his experiences, hopes and expectations. The virus was clearly taking effect. Choosing to carry on, Raiden and Snake moved forward before being confronted by Fortune again. She revealed herself to be the daughter of Scott Dolph, thus blaming Solid Snake for his death (as he was framed for the tanker explosion). Engaging her, Snake left Raiden to move forward, who was soon met by Solidus. Indicating that Raiden was part of the S3 plan, or Solid Snake simulation, (a VR exercise to recreate Shadow Moses and create the ultimate soldier), Solidus called on the hordes of mass produced Metal Gear RAYs to attack Raiden. Battling bravely, Raiden was nonetheless overcome, but timely intervention from Olga, who gave her life to save Raiden (and thus her child) saved him. The virus then began to affect the RAYs, forcing Solidus to destroy them before knocking Raiden out. Cursing the Patriots, Solidus was joined by Fortune, who had Solid Snake in handcuffs.

Awakening on the roof of Arsenal Gear, which had now surfaced, Raiden saw Solidus, Solid, Ocelot and Fortune. Solidus revealed his plan - to use the GW data to locate and destroy the Patriots. Fortune and her Dead Cell members would serve as a diversion with their EMP attack on New York. Ocelot laughed at this, revealing he was here on behalf of the Patriots, who instigated the entire event to be a replica of the Shadow Moses incident, and thus create the perfect soldier. Killing Fortune, Ocelot was once again taken over by the 'spirit' of Liquid Snake, directing Arsenal gear on a collision course with Manhattan and escaping in a RAY.

Crashing into Manhattan, Arsenal Gear came to a stop near Federal Hall, with Solidus and Raiden falling onto the roof. Solidus revealed he wanted to destroy the Patriots, only to restore freedom, civil liberty and opportunity, which they controlled. The Patriots AI then called Raiden directly, explaining S3 Plan actually stood for Selection for Societal Sanity, the name given to the aim of the Patriots AI to filter out useless information in an increasingly well linked world. Memetic information to be passed on would be filtered by the Patriots to avoid the proliferation of Junk information and the slowing of human development. Tasking him to kill Solidus, Raiden realised the life of Olga's child, and Rosemary's, lay in his hands. After a vicious sword duel, Raiden struck down Solidus, whose body fell limply in front of the statue of George Washington.

Meeting back up with Snake, Raiden expressed an interest in joining their cause. Snake indicated that it was up to him to decide what his own purpose was, and what to pass on, and to take time to think on that. Reuniting with Rose, they decided to make a life together. In the aftermath, Otacon was able to trace the names of the Patriots, but confirmed they had all died over 100 years ago, having only got the original names of the Philosophers. It would be a while before they would get a lead on the true nature of The Patriots...

14 Chapter 13: Guns of The Patriots

2009 - Shortly after the events at the Big Shell, Ocelot recovered the GW data from Arsenal Gear. He had the grafted hand of Liquid Snake removed and replaced with a cybernetic. In the aftermath of the Big Shell crisis, faith in the US military network was at an all-time low, which partly led to the downsizing of the military and proliferate use of Private Military Corporations, or PMCs. Over the course of the next few years, the size and number of PMCs grew exponentially.

2010- By the start of the year, Rosemary and Raiden had a child, though Rosemary pretended to have a miscarriage, and moved in with Roy Campbell to protect the child from The Patriots.

2011/2012- Raiden broke into Area 51, with help from EVA, now going by the title Big Mama, and her underground resistance network, the Paradise Lost Army. There he rescued the daughter of Olga Gurlokovich, known as Sunny. She was placed under the protection of Solid Snake, and Otacon. Shortly thereafter, Raiden was captured by The Patriots and underwent Cybernetic exo-skeletal enhancement. He was later rescued by the Paradise Lost Army, and nursed back to health under the guidance of Dr Drago Petrovich Madnar. Around this time, Armstech, now known as AT Corp, implemented a system known as the SOP system, or Sons of the Patriots system, allowing governments to keep check on and enhance all troops on every battlefield, using nanomachines in their bodies. PMC use continued to proliferate, and the five biggest PMCs were all run by a single mother company known as Outer Heaven, run by Liquid Ocelot. The Patriots sent in a team known as Rat Patrol Team 01 to investigate, though many of its members are killed.

2014 - Throughout this time, Solid Snake had suffered from enhanced aging, coded into his DNA when he was created. As a result, Snake had less than a year to live and was showing extreme age. He was now codenamed Old Snake. Despite this, he was called out of retirement one last time by Campbell to complete a final mission - assassinate Liquid Ocelot - fully manifesting the personality of Liquid Snake.

Dropping into the Middle East, Snake avoided the battles of the local militia and unmanned Gekko. Utilising new equipment, including Metal Gear Mk. II and the Solid Eye, Snake came across a gun launderer known as Drebin 893, who would provide Snake with unlocked weaponry going forwards.

Upon rendezvous with his contacts, Rat Patrol Team 01, Snake was surprised to see they were led by Meryl Silverburgh, as well as Johnny Sasaki, aka Akiba, a troop who had served at Shadow Moses and on the Big Shell. Moving forwards, they witnessed a local militia unit wiped out by a team known as the Beauty and The Beast unit, aka BB Corps, four female PTSD sufferers who had the codenames of previous FOXHOUND members. Locating Liquid, Snake (an every other soldier in the area, except Johnny) was suddenly overcome with convulsions, and uncontrollable emotions. This was because Liquid had hacked into the SOP system. Liquid escaped, but not before Naomi Hunter appeared and told Snake to fulfil his destiny.

Snake, Otacon and Campbell soon learned from Naomi via video that she had been forced into assisting Liquid in hacking into the SOP system, which was based on FOXDIE technology. She was currently hiding in South America, where one of Liquid's PMCs, Pieuvre Armement, was operating. Snake proceeded into their jungle hiding, aided by his Octocamo. He questioned whether Liquid's mission to destroy the SOP system was actually a good one, though Campbell informed him it would throw the world into chaos if it was destroyed. Snake then saw Laughing Octopus, a member of the beauty and the beast unit, and well as Vamp, who had survived the events of the Big Shell.

Snake was then introduced to Rosemary by Campbell, and deduced the two were married, which is why Meryl had reacted coldly towards her father previously. He also then received a call from Raiden, saying he was close by and on a mission from Big Mama to reclaim the body of Big Boss. Arming himself from Drebin, Snake learned that the Patriots were a system of AIs and that the La-Li-Lu-Le-Lo was just a codename people were forced to say by nanomachines so that they didn't say 'the Patriots'.

Locating Naomi, Snake learned the FOXDIE within him was mutating, and would become deadly to other people soon, though he had been injected with a new strain by an unknown individual - Snake suspected Drebin. Naomi also explained the sudden freedom from control given by the crash of the SOP system in the Middle East had driven people crazy, as suppressed emotions came rushing back. Liquid realised he would need more than to disable the system - he would need actual control over it, and to do this he would need Big Boss' DNA. Suddenly, Naomi was overcome with pain and ambushed by a FROG team that took her away. Snake was left to battle Laughing Octopus and having done so located Naomi again near the helipad. Shooting Vamp in the head, Snake was overcome again as the SOP system was shut down, but Drebin was able to rescue both him and Naomi.

Making it to a small village, Drebin's van was forced to crash, attacked by Gekko. Suddenly, Raiden, now a Cyborg Ninja, appeared and battled them, along with Vamp. Stabbing himself in the chest to get to Vamp, Raiden was gravely wounded and escaped with Snake. Back aboard their helicopter, Snake and Otacon learnt from Naomi that Vamp's nanomachines allowed him to regenerate faster. Raiden instructed them to find Big Mama before passing out.

Heading into Eastern Europe, Snake and Otacon learned that Big Boss was not dead, but rather kept alive in a Biomort. Learning from Naomi that a gravely injured Raiden needed an infusion of White Blood from Dr Madnar, the team learned this could also be obtained in Eastern Europe. On route, Naomi and Otacon spent a night together.

Having used Octocamo to get through security, with help from a disapproving Meryl, Snake began trailing a Paradise Lost resistance member, who led him straight to Big Mama. He learnt from her that she had given birth to him, as well as learning of the Patriots, of Big Boss' armed insurrections against Zero in the past, and of her part in the death of Para-Medic and SigInt. Showing Snake a body locked in a van (which was actually Solidus, not Big Boss); the group were suddenly ambushed by Gekko. Escaping by bike, Snake was able to defeat BB Corp member Raging Raven, but not before Big Mama was gravely injured. They made their way to a boat containing the body of Solidus, but it had been overtaken by Liquid and his men.

Despite quickly being surrounded, Liquid used the SOP system he now had access to in order to render the equipment of his captors useless, and they were quickly overrun by his FROG units. Liquid threw the Body of Solidus onto a flaming boat before shooting it and escaping. Big Mama, trying in vain to save the body, was killed in the explosion.

Using the Mk II to track Vamp, Snake was able to learn of Liquid's next move, though the Mk II was destroyed by Vamp shortly after. They learned that Liquid planned to take down The Patriot's JD AI, a satellite orbiting above Earth. As the SOP system did not control the world's nuclear arsenal, JD did, they deduced Liquid would need one free of JD control, and worked out Liquid would head back to Shadow Moses island to recover REX.

Making his way back through the base, Snake killed BB Corps member Crying Wolf in the same place he had killed Sniper Wolf. Snake soon found REX exactly where he had left it. Vamp and Naomi were waiting for Snake, and Vamp quickly engaged him. Utilising a nanomachine-suppressor, Snake was able to 'mortalise' Vamp, who was attacked by a suddenly appearing Raiden. As Snake fought off suicide Gekko, Raiden was able to defeat Vamp and kill him properly. Naomi revealed she had cancer, and injected herself with nanomachine suppressors, succumbing quickly to the illness. She died in the same place her adopted brother Gray Fox had, with Snake unsure whose side she had ever been on.

Snake escaped from the collapsing base in REX, and was quickly met by Liquid in RAY. Snake managed to defeat the REX, but was gravely injured and couldn't kill Liquid. Liquid made to Outer Haven, an Arsenal Gear style ship he had stolen from The Patriots, and crashed in into the pier. Snake was saved by Raiden again, holding up the ship before being crushed, as Gray Fox had been under Rex years ago. Liquid was able to obtain the Rail gun from Rex. Snake and Raiden were recovered by Mei Ling in the ship she was now Captain of, the USS Missouri.

The Missouri gave chase to Outer Haven, which had slowed to launch on JD during its Perigee. As Outer Haven surfaced to fire, Snake, Meryl and Johnny were catapulted onto its roof, and made their way inside. Battling ceaseless numbers of Geckos and Haven Troopers, Snake defeated the leader of the BB Corps, Screaming Mantis. The ghost of Psycho Mantis appeared and revealed himself to be behind the BB Corps, though he was banished by the spirit of The Sorrow. Moving on with help from Meryl and Johnny, who proposed to each other in the heat of battle, and Raiden, who was armless, Snake made his way to the computer room. Making his way through a microwave corridor, that melted his suit and exploded his Solid Eye, Snake, near death, used Metal Gear Mk. III to upload a virus provided by Naomi and Sunny. A video from Naomi revealed she had used Snake to upload the virus, that she called FOXALIVE, to destroy the AI network, and the SOP. However, Sunny had amended it to preserve the energy and resource structures of modern society to ensure the world did not fall into chaos.

The battle turning outside, with Liquid Ocelot challenging Snake to one last duel. As he was slowly defeated, the psyche of 'Revolver' Ocelot returned, claiming Snake was 'Pretty Good' before dying, overcome by FOXDIE. Snake learned that Ocelot had hoped for his mission to be a success, believing the void of the SOP and AI systems would throw the world into chaos and create a permanent battlefield as per Big Boss' vision. He had never actually been overtaken by the spirit of Liquid, but rather used a combination of hypnotherapy, psychotherapy and nanomachines to convince the Patriots he had, and thus continue to work to achieve his ultimate goal.

In the aftermath of the last battle, the US society was finally free of the Patriots AI control. Raiden and Rosemary were able to make peace, as Raiden met his son. Meryl and Johnny married, and she was able to make peace with her father, Campbell. Snake visited the grave of Big Boss, ready to commit suicide, but he relented. He was suddenly joined by Big Boss himself, who had located Zero, and turned off his life support. With the last remaining Patriot dead, and his AI system destroyed, Big Boss made peace with Snake and succumbed to the FOXDIE virus, but not before telling Snake, who was no longer a biological threat, to live out the remainder of his life. Snake would spend his final days in solitude with Otacon and Sunny.

15 APPENDICES: METAL GEAR DICTIONARY

- AL, GW, TJ and TR: 4 Patriot AI networks.
- Aleksandr Granin: -Designer of the original METAL GEAR - a bipedal tank capable of launching a nuclear weapon. Would be involved in other METAL GEAR Projects in a constructive and destructive capacity.
- Amanda Libre: Costa Rican leader of local guerrilla force against the US and Russian invaders. Would assist Big Boss during operation Peace Walker.
- Armstech: AKA AT Corp: Designed Metal Gear Rex using DARPA Black Budget .Later developed unmanned Gekko models during PMC heavy war period.
- Army's Heaven: The dream of Gene for a 'Peninsula of the Dead', a home for soldiers free of abstract political ambitions. Somewhat the precursor for the idea of 'Outer Heaven'.
- Arsenal Gear: Offshore submersible travel tank, protected by RAY Metal Gears. It housed the GW AI.
- Beauty and the Beast Unit: AKA BB Corps, BB Unit: Unit of 4 female PTSD sufferers, overtaken by the Spirit of Psycho Mantis, enhanced with exoskeletons and based on the FOXHOUND Members who died at Shadow Moses. Killed by Old Snake.
- Big Shell Incident: Armed Insurrection by Solidus Snake to take Arsenal Gear. Foiled by Raiden, Ocelot and Snake in various capacities.
- Big Shell: 'Cleanup facility' for oil spill after the Manhattan Incident. Cover for construction of Arsenal Gear.
- Bloody Brad: Outer Heaven mercenary cyberoids, guarding Dr Madnar. Destroyed by Solid Snake.
- Boris Volgin: Russian member of the Philosophers who obtained the Philosophers legacy after the War, before it was illegally inherited by his son Yevgeny.
- Camp Omega: United States Naval Prison Facility in Cuba. Holds Chico and Paz for XOF before their release by Big Boss.
- Cecile Caminades: French Ornithologist rescued by Big Boss in Costa Rica. Spent some time in MSF.
- Charlie: Helicopter Pilot that supported Solid Snake in Zanzibar Land
- Chico: Younger brother of Amanda. Would be rescued by Big Boss numerous times, including after capture by XOF where he cracked under interrogation. Current state unknown.
- CIA: AKA Central Intelligence Agency: US security service, branch of the Patriots.
- CQC: AKA Close Quarters Combat: A form a close range fighting developed by The Boss and Big Boss. Useful for disarming and incapacitating multiple enemy soldiers at close range.
- Cuban Missile Crisis: Nuclear threat escalation between US and Russia over Russian missile sites in Cuba. The return of Sokolov was the Russian price for backing down.
- DARPA - AKA Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency: US Department of Defence agency responsible for black budget construction of Metal Gear Rex. Led by SigInt before his death at the hands of Ocelot.
- Dead Cell: SEAL unit framed as terrorists by The Patriots to radicalise them and draw them into the Big Shell incident. Members included Colonel Jackson (deceased prior to events), Chinaman (Deceased Prior to Events), Vamp, Fatman and Fortune.
- Decoy Octopus: Mimicry expert, member of FOXHOUND during the Shadow Moses incident. Poses as Donald Anderson, aka SigInt. Killed by FOXDIE.
- Diamond Dogs: Mercenary unit reborn from the ashes of MSF. Precursor to Outer Heaven.

- Diane: Resistance member that assisted Solid Snake with his infiltration of Outer Heaven.
- Dirty Duck: Outer Heaven mercenary, killed by Solid Snake
- Dr Kio Marv: Doctor, kidnapped by Zanzibar Land. Creator of OILIX. Killed by torture.
- Dr Nikolai Sokolov: AKA Privityenie, Ghost: Creator of the Shagohod, defected to the US but was given back to Russia during the Cuban Missile Crisis. Would eventually help bring down his creation.
- Dr Petrovich Madnar: Russian robotics expert responsible for the TX-55 and D Metal Gear Models in Outer Heaven and Zanzibar land. Would later nurse cybernetic Raiden to health numerous times.
- Dr Strangelove: Worked with The Boss during the Space Race. Developed feelings for her and eventually replicated her in the form of an AI pod in the Peace Walker project. Temporary member of MSF.
- Drebin 893: Gun Launderer and agent of The Patriots that assists Solid Snake during Liquid Ocelot's insurrection.
- Ellen Madnar: Daughter of Dr Madnar, rescued by Solid Snake in outer Heaven.
- Emma Emmerich: Hacker, sister of Hal Emmerich. Worked on the GW AI hidden in Arsenal Gear. Killed by Vamp.
- Fatman: Crazy bomber of Dead Cell, who went off their plan and tried to destroy the facility. Killed by Raiden during the Big Shell incident.
- Fire Trooper: Outer Heaven mercenary, killed by Solid Snake
- Force XXI: US troops undertaking Virtual Reality training.
- Fortune: Female member of Dead Cell. Daughter of Scott Dolph. Believes herself to be invincible, but was a pawn of the Patriots using a magnetic bullet deflector. Disarmed of this and killed by Ocelot.
- Four Horsemen: Zanzibar Land mercenary team of 4, killed by Solid Snake
- FOX UNIT: Special Forces Unit Founded by The Boss and Zero. Would be represented by Big Boss during the Virtuous Mission, and operation Snake Eater, along with SigInt and ParaMedic.
- FOXALIVE: Computer worm designed by Naomi and Sunny to destroy the Patriots AI system. Amended by Sunny to keep major public services and utilities systems in place after the AI was destroyed.
- FOXDIE: retrovirus that targets specific people based on their genomic sequence. Designed by Naomi Hunter.
- FOXHOUND: A Special Forces unit set up by Zero, with SigInt, Para-Medic and Big Boss in the wake of the destruction of the FOX unit. Later recruits include Gray Fox, Solid and Liquid Snake, Decoy Octopus, Revolver Ocelot, Sniper Wolf, Vulcan Raven, Psycho Mantis.
- Frank Jaeger: AKA Frank Hunter, Null, Gray Fox: Mozambican soldier, rescued by Big Boss. Adopted Naomi Hunter after killing her parents. Underwent the Perfect Soldier program and later experiments in exoskeletons by Dr Clark. College and friend of Solid Snake, though would later fight against him. Died at Liquid Snakes hands in the Shadow Moses incident.
- FROG: female only unit serving Liquid Ocelot wearing advanced suits.
- Fulton recovery system: Balloon and hook attached to a cable that could be picked up by a passing plane or helicopter to rescue personnel. Used by Big Boss to recruit men and supplies.
- Gene: Fox Unit commander responsible for San Hieronymo takeover. Attempted to destroy the Philosophers. Killed by Big Boss.
- Genome Army: US Next Gen Special Forces, enhanced by DNA from Big Boss. Took part in the insurrection on Shadow Moses, hoping to obtain the DNA of Big Boss to cure medical problems they had.
- George Kasler: Military support to Solid Snake during Zanzibar Land disturbance

- Groznyj Grad: Military fortress in Russia paid for with the Philosophers Legacy. Final stages of development of the Shagohod took place here. Site of Operation Snake Eater.
- GRU: Main Intelligence Directorate in Russia. Rival to the KGB. Members include Volgin, Ocelot and Raikov.
- Gustava Heffner: Ex figure skating champion, bodyguard of Dr Marv and Madnar in Zanzibar Land. Once lover of Frank Jaeger, was killed by him in a Metal Gear.
- Hal Emmerich: AKA Hal, Otacon: Son of Huey Emmerich. Would design Metal Gear Rex, before committing his life to assisting Solid Snake and eradicating Metal Gear and the Patriots control.
- HALO Jump - High Altitude, Low Opening. Designed to avoid Radar and visual security during parachute jumps. First championed by Big Boss.
- Holly White: CIA agent, posing as a journalist in Zanzibar Land that assists Solid Snake in Operation Intrude F014.
- Hot Coldman: CIA station chief behind operation Snake Eater. Would later try and use ZEKE to establish US dominance during the Cold War.
- Huey Emmerich: AKA Huey: Wheelchair bound Metal Gear designer who would later design models for Big Boss and MSF. Father to Hal Emmerich and Emma Emmerich. Current status unknown.
- Ishmael: Unknown assistant of Big Boss during his escape from Medical Hospital after his Coma. Legitimacy/Intention unknown.
- Jack: AKA Naked Snake, Venom Snake, Punished Snake, Big Boss, Vic Boss: Legendary battlefield soldier. Apprentice of the Boss. Forced to kill Mentor during Operation Snake Eater. Founding Member of the Patriots. Would act in secret against them shortly afterwards. DNA would be used to create clones that would go on to affect the landscape of global politics forever. Would eventually die from FOXDIE having made peace with clone son Solid Snake following his destruction of the Patriots AI.
- JD: Central Patriot AI, designed as a satellite. Targeted by Liquid Ocelot during his insurrection.
- Jennifer: Resistance member that assisted Solid Snake with his infiltration of Outer Heaven. Brother was also held in Outer Heaven and assisted Snake.
- Jim Houseman: Defence secretary during the Shadow Moses incident. Went off the Patriots plan by trying to bomb the site and thus was later killed by The Patriots.
- Johan Jacobsen: Zoologist in Zanzibar land that assists Solid Snake.
- Johnny Sasaki: AKA Akiba: Soldier from a line of Johnny's. Served in Shadow Moses and Big Shell against Snake/Raiden. Joined Rat Patrol. Married Meryl.
- Jonathan: Russian soldier stationed in San Hieronymo, turned by Gene after betrayal by the Soviet Union. Would later assist Big Boss and give his life to protect him.
- Jungle Evil: Zanzibar Land mercenary, killed by Solid Snake
- Kazuhira Miller: AKA Kaz, Master Miller, Miller: Japanese-American soldier and mercenary who would be captured by Big Boss.
