

GOT7's BamBam Discusses The Group's 1000 Long-Awaited Comeback, Goals For future years, And More

In a recent meeting and pictorial intended for Arena Homme Plus magazine, GOT7's BamBam dished upon their highly-anticipated comeback as a full group!

This full week, GOT7 will probably be generating their first comeback with a fresh album since leaving JYP Entertainment previous year, and enthusiasts could not be a little more excited about their particular long-awaited return.

When asked if this individual had noticed any kind of changes in the members since their own previous comeback, BamBam replied, "I believe we've most grown and enhanced."

"Maybe it's not because we travelled through everything jointly for seven yrs," he continued, "while we'd assured, things moved swiftly. I had been both impressed and really happy."

Since for "NANANA," BamBam teased, "That's a track that's very GOT7. Very low bright, cheerful vibe, in addition to it's some sort of song that many of us might have fun using on stage."

BamBam likewise spoke about their goals as a solo artist, remarking, "For my foreseeable future solo activities, I want to keep on to do something that will be BamBam-esque, the things which I do best."

Describing the wide-ranging range of his / her music, he distributed, "Each of the songs can get expressed with different colors. Like a single song is purple, one song is pastel orange, plus so on. Presently there are still several things I want in order to do."

Finally, BamBam humbly expressed their gratitude for his current circumstances.

"I actually think I've accomplished most of the stuff that I planned once I was younger," he said. "That will be how challenging I've proved helpful, and I appreciated the process. I actually think I'm living better today than I expected I would 10 years ago."

He continued to add, "My partner and I want to job happily and live joyfully together using great people regarding a long, extended time."

GOT7's new self-titled EP will be introduced on, May 23 with 6 p.m. KST. In the meantime, check out their latest teasers here!