William J. Galvin, Former President Boston City Council, Dies At 83

William J. Galvin, lifetime Charlestown resident and head of one of Boston's best known political families, died yesterday at his home. He was 83.

He was affectionately known as "Mother" Galvin by the people of Charlestown and Boston's political old guard. He was dubbed with this nickname because of the countless Charlestown families he helped, especially during the depression years.

Galvin directed all of former Governor Maurice Tobin's mayoral and gubernatorial campaigns and served as Chairman of the Democratic City Committee.

Long active in Charlestown neighborhood politics and social life, he served as President of the former Charlestown Indian Club, which at the time was one of the community's leading social clubs. For years,

It was a time for remembering . . . a time for laughter . . . a time for a tear . . . a time for hope . . . it was a special day in Charlestown, a day when a part of this community's rich history was brought into the present. This was Saturday, May 21 — Armed Forces Day and the day the 71-year-old sealed time capsule from the cornerstone of the former Armed Services YMCA in City Square was opened.

Council Rejects Chapter 689 Housing Proposed For Parcel R-87

by Kathy Giordano

The Charlestown Neighborhood Council held a special meeting on Tuesday, May 24 to discuss the placement of an eight unit housing development for the mentally retarded and/or physically handicapped at the intersection of Prospect and Tremont Streets. This vacant triangular shaped lot is owned by the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) and is a portion of the Parcel known as R-87, which had been the subject of other Council meetings some months ago.

The special meeting had been called at the request of the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services to discuss with the community the possibility that a section of the parcel be turned over to the Boston Housing Authority (BHA) for the construction of Chapter 689 housing. According to John Riordan, assistant director of the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, this meeting was held on such short notice because the State has a mandate to build this type of housing before December, 1989 or lose the funding for this and other similar projects. The BHA intends to present their plans for this project to the BRA Board of Directors at their May 26 Board meeting.

At a meeting held over a year ago, the Council had taken a vote regarding the development of this parcel of land that extends from Lowney Way to the corner of Tremont and Prospect Streets, crossing Edgeworth Street. The vote was to include in the Request For Proposal (RFP) for Parcel R-87 a provision that the land be divided into individual house lots, of not more than 3,000 square feet, that would be put out to bid for families to build single-family homes. The BRA never came back to the community with their decision on this Council vote, and due to the overwhelming number of development issues that have come before the Council in the interim, Parcel R-87 had not been addressed again until last Tuesday's meeting.

It was noted by several members of the Council that in all discussions between the BRA and the neighborhood, Chapter 689 housing was always included in the plans for this site. It was also pointed out that due to the steep incline of the hill at this section of the parcel, it would be costly to build a home there, but perfect for handicapped housing needing ramps.

Riordan said that the State is under a consent decree to supply this type of housing and that six areas of Boston had been designated for sites, five of which are either completed or under construction. The sixth site, in Charlestown, is the only one yet to be designated. The other Boston sites are Roslindale, Dorchester, Roxbury, Mission Hill and South Boston.

The clients that would live in the Charlestown site would come from the Harbor Area of the Department of Mental Retardation which includes the communities of Charlestown, East Boston, Chelsea, Winthrop and Revere. Four residents that would be housed there are now living in State facilities, two others would come from similar homes already in operation and two would be clients who reside in the Harbor Area.

Larry Dwyer, executive assistant for the BHA, admitted blame on the part of the BHA in not coming in to the community earlier to present this proposal for Chapter 689 housing, but

ABOUT THE LOAN APPROVAL PROCESS

Applying for a mortgage loan brings out the paranoia in everyone, even those who are most compulsive and consistent about paying their bills on time. Remember, however, that the lender wants your business and will do everything possible to work with you to help finalize your home purchase.

If you pay your bills more or less on time, you should have nothing to worry about. If you have a record of late payments but no serious credit problems, you may have to provide the lender with a written explanation of why certain payments were late, but if your excuse is reasonable, your loan will probably go through. If you have had serious credit problems, you should sit down with a lender before you begin house hunting and see if you can clear them up. If you are an unrepented deadbeat, you could have real difficulties in obtaining a mortgage, but short of that, your lender can probably help you work things out.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Century 21, Silva Realty Associates are ready to serve you. Call us at 242-7470 or stop by our offices at 142 Main Street in Charlestown.

Life Behind The Wall

by Ronan FitzPatrick

Parkers beware! The fire lanes at the Shipway complex have been duly posted with an explicit admonition. Against a white and red border, the signs are mounted on wooden cylindrical posts which read, "Fifteen Minute Parking, Violators Will Be Towed." As the last resort before the vehicle body snatcher executes its moves, these lanes must be vehicle free. Paramount is the public safety issue of access and secondly, the prevention of the deterioration of the cement surface.

A valiant effort was undertaken with Joe Kent's historical and nautical suggestion of placing the retired name plate from the USS Suffolk County on a permanent display at the Shipways. As the last ship launched from the Shipways, it would have indeed been a proper and perpetuating potential memorial. Boston Redevelopment Authority Director Stephen Coyle and his harbor park office, under the direction of Jim English, made the formal request to Chief of Naval Operations. As radio commentator Paul Harvey intones weekly, "Now, for the rest of the story." Under the signature of Captain E. A. Sharp, U.S. Navy, director, Congressional and Public Affairs, responding on behalf of the Navy, I quote, "I regret the ship's nameplate is no longer on Suffolk County and we have no records which indicate when the nameplate was removed or by whom. Since the ship has been berthed in a number of areas since being decommissioned 16 years ago, some of them not in Navy custody, we assume it was removed by some unauthorized person or persons." Pirates or vandals — the debate will linger. This was our loss, but the interaction of the BRA and the community is developing into a mutual benefit. Continual explorations that will lead to artifacts of the bygone era being retained will intensify. Many thanks to all for the time and effort expended on this worthwhile venture.

Massachusetts Water Resources Authority Director Paul Levy has been hitting the pavement of recently. Walking slowly and carrying a big pipe is a deviation from the trust buster, President Teddy Roosevelt, policy; but one for the times. No limousine for Paul, a car, yes. But on recent early evenings, he has been walking First Avenue to his destination. Not quite a trust buster, Paul has commenced his cost cutting policy at the agency. A healthy approach for all to benefit from. It will be grand to avail ourselves of water from the faucet and not the grocer. For disclosure statements hope all reporters have divested their Belmont Spring water, Poland Spring water and the assortment of other consumable water stocks. Those not monitored by the disclosure requirement should immediately purchase same through their broker. Who would ever believe the hottest stocks in the New England region would be water? This rage should continue until the ten-mile effluent discharge tunnel is completed. Even the Irish have entered the market with a product called Ballygowan. Not to be confused with Bailey's Irish Cream, the Irish water will assist in putting the fire out.

The Mayor's Office of Consumer Affairs and Licensing will hold a public hearing on June 22, 1988 at 10 a.m. detailing new rules and regulations to prevent illegal drug activity upon licensed premises. Room 801 at City Hall will no doubt be overflowing with concerned business leaders on the six major points presented by Commissioner Diane J. Modica and her Deputy Commissioner Michael F. Harrington. To accomplish a smooth and beneficial meeting, all pertinent correspondence should be forwarded to Room 613 at City Hall prior to the meeting.

Enjoying his youthful and healthy countenance, Joe attributes it to the professional advice of High Street Pharmacy owner, Carmen. Police Capture One Suspect, Another Gets Away

by Kathy Giordano

In scenes similar to the making of a weekly episode of "Spenser: For Hire," last Friday afternoon Charlestown came alive with real-life police action with cruisers and a helicopter searching the streets for two fugitives.

It all started in Chelsea when Sergeant Alfred Barzykowski of the Chelsea Police Department spotted a Chelsea resident, David Brady, who was known to the sergeant as a suspect in a series of house breaks and who had outstanding warrants. Barzykowski saw Brady jump into a parked vehicle occupied by another man. A chase began and eventually wound up on the Tobin Bridge.

As the two vehicles approached the off ramp at Park Street in Charlestown, the cruiser tried to cut off the suspects' vehicle by getting in front of it, but Brady rammed into the cruiser a number of times and was able to exit the bridge and drive onto Main Street where he got out of the car and fled. The other suspect remained in the vehicle.

A foot chase began through the streets and back yards of Charlestown, with the Boston Police Department and troopers from the State Police joining in the hunt. A State Police helicopter, that was in the area at the time, joined in by surveying the area from above. Foot searches were made by the officers that included back alleys and stores along Main Street as cruisers searched street by street. Meanwhile, Main Street was lined with residents watching the event, reminiscent of the crowds watching the Bunker Hill Day parade.

Despite all the manpower in pursuit of the culprit, Brady was able to slip away, and at press time, was still at large.

The suspect that remained in the vehicle was arrested only after the officers were forced to break the car's back window to get him out. Found in the car were a number of items that were believed to be stolen from the reported house breaks. This suspect was charged with possession of stolen goods.

After examining the items found in the car, the Chelsea Police Department contacted the Malden Police Department to come and examine the goods as there has been a recent series of house breaks in that city. Sergeant Ricci of the Malden Police determined that a number of the items did come from Malden house breaks. Other items recovered in the car had been reported stolen during break-ins that took place in Chelsea.

On Monday, May 23, additional complaints were sought against Brady in Chelsea District Court. A spokesperson from the Chelsea Police Department stated that he felt Brady would turn himself in with all the publicity and manpower that was involved in his arrest. He also stated, despite reports from the community, that no gun shots were fired during the search last Friday.

Hearings To Be Held On New Student Assignment Process

Hearings to find out what the public wants for a new student assignment process in the Boston Public Schools are being held in each district. The Boston School Committee is seeking parental and public opinion on how to assign students following the final withdrawal of the federal courts last fall. The present goal of the Committee is to have a new assignment plan in place by September, 1989.

The hearing for District

D which includes Charlestown, South End, North End and East Boston will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, June 2, at the Josiah Quincy School Auditorium, 885 Washington Street, Boston.

There will also be a city-wide hearing from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, June 4 at Madison Park High School Auditorium, 55 New Dudley Street in Roxbury.

Charlestown Resident Finds "Perfect Job" With JobStart

Even young urban professionals need help finding the right job in Boston's competitive job market. Patrice Reid, a college graduate with professional work experience recently found the "best job she ever had" through JobStart, a program in the Mayor's Office of Jobs and Community Services that works to assist Boston residents with education, skills training and job placement. The job counseling Reid got at JobStart enabled her to find the perfect job match.

Reid, a Charlestown resident, came to JobStart needing help in making a career change. After graduating from college she had worked in retail management for two years, then became interested in working in the human resources field.

"I saw this pamphlet about JobStart in the Charlestown Branch Library. I happened to be looking for work in a different field and decided to use JobStart as part of my job search," said Reid.

She met with Linda Lacey, a Charlestown JobStart counselor, who began advising Reid on her job search. "Patrice had a strong retail background, but without the necessary experience, her chances of breaking into human resources were slim. We suggested to Patrice that she emphasize her willingness to learn, her adaptability and initiative while interviewing," said Lacey.

Later, Reid was referred to JobStart placement specialist Alexandra Geidyman who worked with her on interviewing skills and arranged interviews.

"Linda and Alex helped me at every stage. They gave me a tremendous amount of encouragement. They were really confident in my ability and encouraged me to pursue a job in the field I wanted. JobStart is a tremendous resource," said Reid.

Reid landed a job at Warren, Gorham and Lamont, a downtown publishing firm. She works as a circulation trainer, responsible for developing and implementing training programs for data entry positions. "I'm an in-house consultant of sorts. I help identify training needs then develop programs to meet those needs. I love it. It's definitely the best job I've ever had — definitely the right fit," said Reid.

Bellissimo Honored As "1988 Outstanding Nurse Colleague"

She still remembers all those nights at 3 a.m. barely staying awake while sitting at her kitchen table studying to be a nurse. She was one of the oldest in her class at the Somerville Hospital School of Nursing, having worked in the business world for several years. She was also married and the mother of young twins, a boy and a girl. But Peggy Bellissimo recognized that nursing was the profession for her.

Two years later, Bellissimo's hard work and dedication has also been recognized by her peers.

Peggy Bellissimo was recently selected as "1988 Outstanding Nurse Colleague" by her co-workers at Somerville Hospital. The competition was sponsored by the hospital's Task Force on Nurse Image in conjunction with the celebration of Nurse's Day in May.

Among the criteria used in selecting Bellissimo for the honor were clinical competence, effective communication, professional growth and development, patient advocacy, peer support and professional appearance.

"I'm just overwhelmed by it all. I really am," exclaimed the nurse. "It's an honor to be recognized by the people you work with, especially since I've only been here for a couple of years and don't work full time. I think the award says something about the other nurses as much as it does me."

Bellissimo had considered a career in nursing after graduating from high school. But because so many schools at that time required student nurses to live away from home and because she is so much a "family person," she decided to enter the field of business, working her way up the corporate ladder of a major department store in Boston. And yet she didn't feel fulfilled.

"Nursing is such a personal profession," she remarked. "It can be frustrating at times. But I think you can reap so many rewards from the patients you meet."

And in Bellissimo's case, from your colleagues, as well.

Graduates From Boston College

Dorothy Ellen Conway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Conway of 7 Belmont Street, Charlestown, was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree at the 112th commencement of Boston College on May 23. She majored in English with a minor in philosophy.

The commencement speaker was Archbishop Samuel E. Carter, SJ of Kingston in Jamaica, West Indies. He was among those awarded honorary degrees by the university, which were presented by Reverend J. Donald Monan, SJ, 24th president of Boston College. More than 2,000 graduates received degrees.

Conway was a 1984 graduate of Mount Saint Joseph Academy in Brighton.

While at Boston College, Conway served as Music Director and Promotions Director of WZBC, Boston College Radio, as well as hosting a weekly radio program. She was also a staff member of "Stylus," the literary magazine of the college.

She will be employed as

by Lynn Peters

The Housing and Development Committee of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council voted May 24 to unanimously recommend Breeds Hill Development Group to develop the four three-story buildings at 253-261A Main Street and 3A Lawnwood Place. A full council vote next month will determine whether the development team will be recommended to the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) Board of Directors to begin actual renovation of the property, Parcel R-107.

Breeds Hill was among the three most current teams vying for designation as the parcel's redeveloper. The Conroy Development Group made a financial decision earlier this month to withdraw its proposal, and Lawnwood Place Associates has been absent from the last three committee and abutters' meetings. Attempts to reach a representative from Lawnwood Place Associates for comment were unsuccessful.

Current plans for the redevelopment include a fourth-story addition to the Main Street property, for a total of 12 residential units and three Main Street commercial spaces. In accordance with BRA requirements for the parcel, half of the units will sell at market prices, resulting in six affordable housing units ranging in price from $55,000 to $95,000. According to Matthew J. O'Neil Jr., a Breeds Hill principal partner, four of the affordable units will go to Charlestown residents.

The committee based its decision to recommend Breeds Hill on the contingency that the developers agree to address abutters' concerns with anticipated parking, trash and rodent problems. O'Neil said the BRA will fence the lot currently used by the Clarence Edwards School on the corner of Walker and Main Streets to provide parking for the new residents. A trash room has been added to the plans for storage, and trash compactors will be included in each unit. O'Neil said the buildings will be fumigated before and during construction to destroy any rodents currently occupying them.

If the council recommends Breeds Hill to the BRA Board of Directors, and the BRA accepts that proposal and later designates the project to the team, O'Neil said construction could conceivably be underway in the fall.

Sealed Time Capsule From YMCA Cornerstone Opened At Navy Yard Ceremony

of the laying of the cornerstone of the YMCA in a 1917 edition of the Charlestown Enterprise, the ceremony was most colorful with such dignitaries as Lieutenant Governor Calvin Coolidge and Mayor James Michael Curley in attendance, along with trustees of the YMCA. Coolidge laid the copper box into the cornerstone that September day in 1917 with bands playing as an American flag was hoisted on the site.

urday morning, forced the event from the planned locale in Shipyard Park to the alternate site in Building 149, courtesy of The Raymond Group. The array of American flags, along with the red, white and blue balloons, and the military music with a bounce provided by Tony Barrie's Marching Band, created a festive mood — and one of anticipation. On this occasion as in 1917, there were dignitaries on hand including the present trustees of the YMCA.

the Massachusetts area. Through the years, the Armed Services YMCA has also provided physical fitness and emergency housing for the Charlestown as well as the Greater Boston community.

In 1974, the Charlestown Shipyard was closed and an enormous Navy commitment went with it. The future of the Armed Services YMCA was questionable. A feasibility study was conducted by a consulting firm which indicated that there was still a need for services to the community in the areas of physical fitness and emergency housing.

In an aside, Conway noted that as a depression era youngster, he was aware from personal experience that the YMCA sent local youth to camp. He recalled Al Sullivan, Eddie McKinnon and Dan Sullivan, along with himself, as just a few who enjoyed their summers at camp, courtesy of the YMCA.

With the changes in the North Area and the reconstruction of the ramp system, the YMCA had to go. He stated that this was a great loss to, not only the military personnel, but also to the community.

As of 1988, the Legislators and the Governor's office have approved and passed a bill that would provide for the functional replacement of that facility. Conway especially noted the work of Representative Richard A. Voke and Senator Francis D. Doris in securing these funds. He also expressed hope that a site could be found in the community for the new facility.

Looking out at the audience, Conway noted the men and women present that worked or volunteered at one time or other at the YMCA and asked that they, along with the trustees, be accorded a round of applause for their contributions over the years.

Conway quoted from the speech by Mayor James Michael Curley at the laying of the cornerstone. Curley said, "No city in the nation is richer in institutions devoted to humanity and representative of Boston. No city in the nation is so rich in history than here in patriotic Charlestown it is indeed fitting that there should be erected a building devoted to the welfare of the enlisted men of our Armed Forces."

Conway expressed hope that all could be present a few years down the road to dedicate another Armed Forces YMCA within the confines of Charlestown.

Rich Johnston, co-chairman of the North Area Task Force (NATF), explained that they are a community organization that has been working for the past ten years with city and state officials to make sure that when the CANA project is complete it will benefit the community.

The project will bring benefits to Charlestown, stated Johnston, restoring City Square so it can function as a cultural and commercial center as it did in the 19th century. It will provide a new gateway park and the community will be reopened to its historical waterfront.

Johnston pointed out that with any benefits, there are losses and the YMCA was one of these losses. He noted that the YMCA has been many things to Charlestown — it has been a symbol of Charlestown's commitment to the Armed Forces, it has been a center of community activities and it has been the physical edge of City Square, providing a strong bulwark in light of decay in other areas of the Square.

The NATF worked with agencies to see that as many artifacts as possible were preserved from the YMCA. Johnston credited NATF Co-Chairman Ken Stone as finding an account of the laying of the cornerstone in an old newspaper he discovered at a flea market.

Johnston concluded, stating, "As we open the box this morning, we should do so in a spirit that looks forward to the wonderful benefits that the North Area project will bring to Charlestown. But we must also not forget to look back nostalgically, sympathetically and sensitively to the wonderful things the demolished YMCA brought to this community."

In bringing the greetings of the Charlestown Preservation Society, President John Tobin welcomed the opportunity to be involved and support the event. He credited his son, young John, who was holding tightly to his father, for being his short speech writer.

Captain John Faigle, USCG, Chief of Staff, First Coast Guard District, represented the district's Commandant, RAdm. R.L. Johanson, USCG. He reiterated the Coast Guard's Chief Petty Officers' motto, "In respect to those who have gone before, as a guide to those who follow." He related this to the legacy that the Armed Services YMCA has given to the

Some 70 years later as the YMCA building was being demolished to make way for the new tunnel and roadway reconstruction that is called the Central Artery North Area (CANA) Project, concerned residents along with individuals representing several agencies and organizations, worked together to see that artifacts from this building — a landmark in the community — were preserved.

Employees from the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA), National Park Service, Massachusetts Department of Public Works (MDPW) and members of the North Area Task Force closely supervised the removal of artifacts and arranged for their storage in the Navy Yard. The cornerstone was among the artifacts and remained in safekeeping until this past Saturday.

Research into the history of the building had revealed that there was a sealed time capsule in that cornerstone and a committee was established to make arrangements for its opening.

Saturday, May 21 was set as the date. This was not an arbitrary date set by the committee, it was Armed Forces Day and members felt that this event would be a tribute to the men and women who serve and who have served this country and to the building — the Charlestown Armed Services YMCA — that had also served this country.

In opening the ceremony, the colors were posted by USS Constitution Color Guard. LTJG Michael J. Doyle, CHC-USNR-R, offered the invocation.

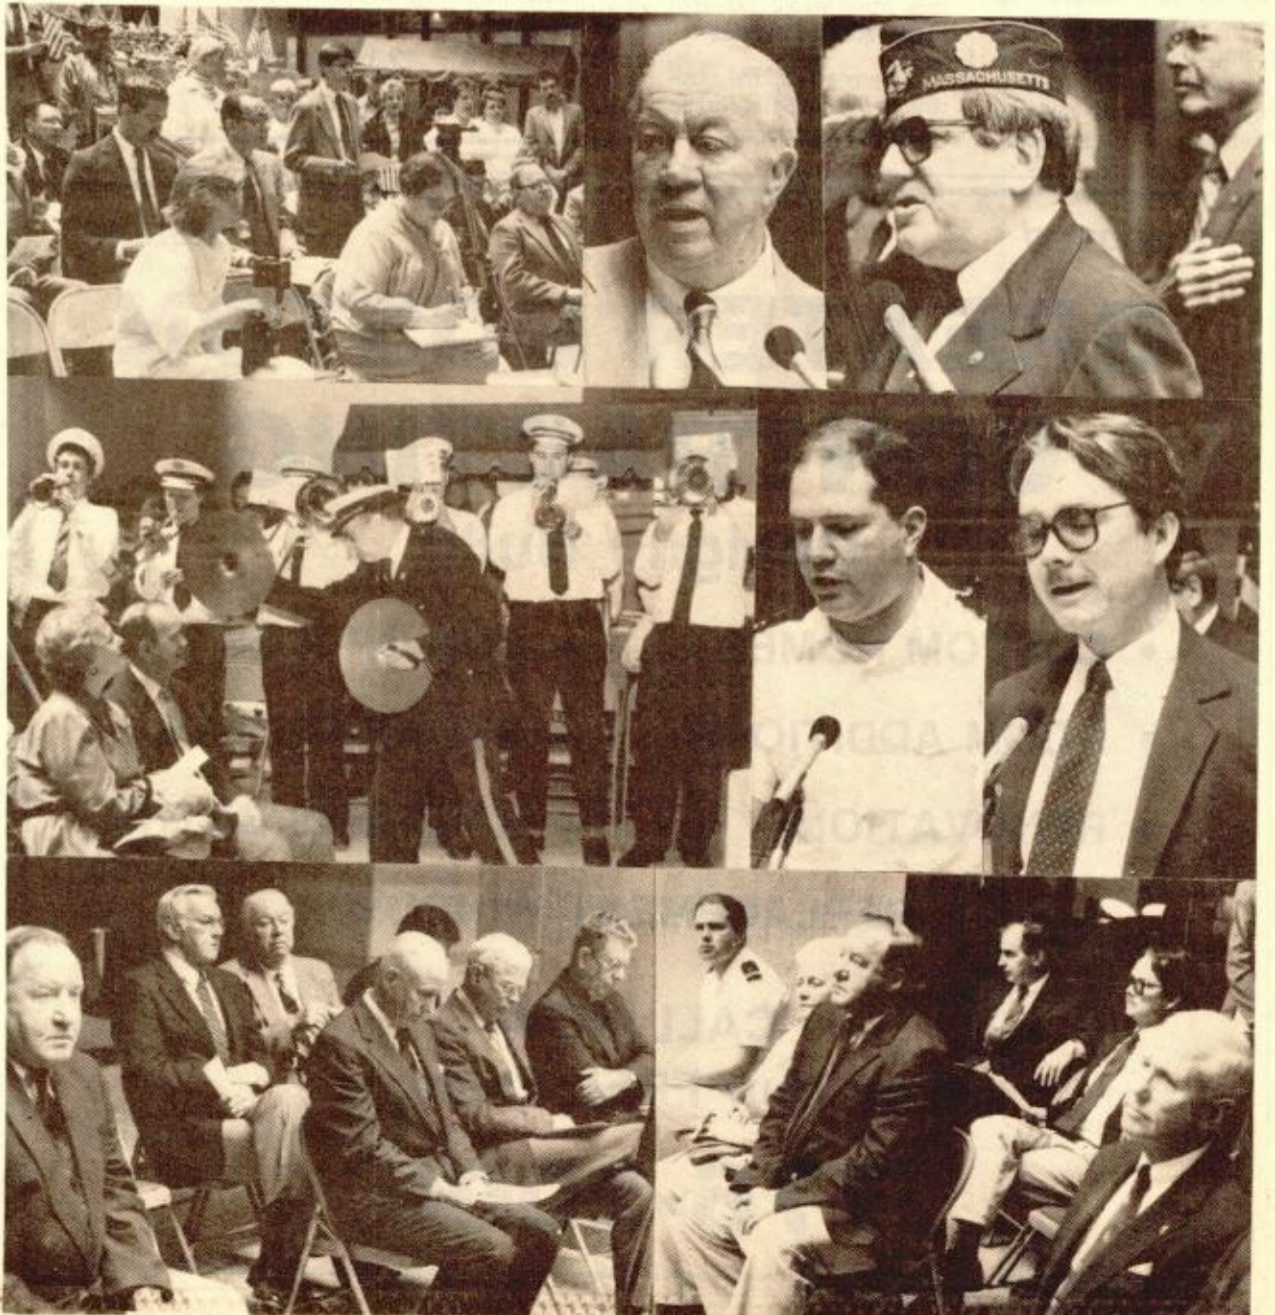

James W. Conway, chairman of the Charlestown Veterans Committee, served as Program Coordinator and welcomed the gathering, especially noting the people of Charlestown who always support the many patriotic endeavors of this small community that, even though only one mile square, "has the biggest heart in the nation."

Standing next to the cornerstone which had been brought into Building 149 under the supervision of Richard Burke and Joe Kent, Conway related a brief history of the YMCA in Charlestown to set the ceremony in perspective. He noted that just a few short blocks away in City Square this cornerstone was laid for this edifice in 1917. The Charlestown and Boston business communities pulled together at that time to raise the tremendous sum of $250,000 to build that City Square facility.

They incorporated in the name of The Massachusetts Trustees of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Association for Army and Navy Work, Inc., but has been referred to as the Armed Services YMCA.

Since 1917, the primary purpose of the Armed Services YMCA has been to serve the young enlisted military personnel stationed in for the military in the Greater Boston and surrounding areas. As a result of this survey, the YMCA began an increase of service present and future, starting from an Army/Navy Club in 1917.

Faigle pointed out that service to military people is as important today as it was in the past and stated that he shares the dreams of continuing the unbroken 71 year tradition of the Armed Services YMCA.

Traveling from Boothbay Harbor, Maine for the ceremony was Admiral Jack Hayes, USCG (Ret.), vice chairman, National Board of Directors of the Armed Services YMCA. He pointed out that the Armed Services YMCA has a history, beginning in the Civil War and continuing today. Hayes said that "volunteerism" is something unique to this country — time without cost that can be found nowhere else in the world. Hayes stated that this ceremony was important in discovering what would be found in the capsule but he hoped this would be the first step towards a new YMCA in Charlestown.

Senator Francis D. Doris, whose family was originally from this community, paused to reflect on the past recalling "happy days swimming at the YMCA" and how families would bring service people into their homes, especially during World War II. Doris, in looking to the future, noted that a new YMCA would be built.

Conway spoke of the contributions of Representative Voke and Senator Doris in securing funds for the YMCA. He brought greetings from Voke who was in budget hearings.

Boston City Councillor Albert "Dapper" O'Neil related a story of how Mayor Curley came out of retirement in 1946 to tour the area with O'Neil who was a candidate for state representative. He told the gathering that, knowing Curley, if there was anything of value put in the cornerstone, such as money, Curley would have doubled back that night, removed it and given it to the poor.

"Dapper" commended BRA Board Chairman Robert Farrell on the results seen in the development of the Navy Yard. After he complimented Farrell, he said it would be nice if there was a spot here for the YMCA.

In introducing Farrell, Conway noted that the Chairman was born and brought up in Charlestown and has a special place in his heart for the "Townies."

Farrell related that the Charlestown Armed Services YMCA in City Square represented a time capsule to him.

At the age of ten, an uncle, John Patrick Doherty, who was a state representative, asked him to recite Longfellow's "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" on the site of Revere's landing across from the front steps of the YMCA. He continued, recalling as a teenager playing basketball in the small court of the Y — the Old Crusaders versus the Young Crusaders. Danny Sullivan was guarding him, he went over Sullivan's back into the wall, was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital and still has back problems today.

Farrell's recollection took him to a dance at the YMCA when he was 19. That night he met Joan Hurley from School Street, asked her to dance, and from that dance came nine children and eight grandchildren.

The other aspect of his time capsule was the story of how he learned that he had passed the Bar Exam. Farrell said that it was 1954 and he was working as Assistant Clerk in the Charlestown District Court — across City Square from the YMCA with three weeks to go before he entered the Marine Corps.

Farrell remembered the Waldorf, the Morning Glories and the Stork Club, which he termed the only after hours club with a paid police detail. He pointed out that much of his life revolved around the YMCA and City Square.

He concluded, noting, "Let's look to the future — a new YMCA and a new City Square."

David Flanagan, community liaison for the MDPW, brought the greetings of Commissioner Jane Garvey.

William Kingman, vice president of the Charlestown Armed Services YMCA, thanked all who have supported their efforts in securing monies to functionally replace the YMCA building, an effort which has been going on since 1984. He reported that an architect has been working on plans for a building.

Kingman told the gathering that over the next few months, they will be working on plans for a building. He noted, "We will be proud to have it in Charlestown — where it belongs."

The excitement intensified as preparations were made to remove the capsule from the cornerstone. Farrell, Kingman and Flanagan lifted the capsule from its housing within the cornerstone and under the glare of television camera lights and the flashes from cameras of all types, the capsule was pried open to reveal its 71-year-old secrets.

The capsule contained several newspapers dated September 29, 1917. They included the Boston Daily Advertiser which bore such headlines as "'US Huns' Hit by Roosevelt" and "House Board Bars German Money Probe;" the Boston Journal, priced at 1¢, reported on that date, "Fist Fight Sets House In Uproar;" "War Aims of Germany Must Be Kept Dark" was a lead story in that day's Boston Herald.

Also in the capsule was a copy of the Boston Daily Globe of that date with one (continued on page 12) of the headlines reading, "Air Raiders Over Whelmed: Great Volumes of Cannon Fire Drives German Squadrons From Coast and None Is Able to Reach London;" the Boston Post; and the Boston Evening Transcript of Thursday, September 27th, which at 3¢ was the most expensive newspaper at that time, were also found.

Included in the capsule was a letterhead from the "Army & Navy Young Men's Christian Association," City Square, Charlestown, Massachusetts, which listed their officers. A copy of the program for the laying of the cornerstone was among the findings.

The Manual For The General Court 1917 and the Holy Bible were in the capsule along with information on the corporation and a list of the names of persons who had contributed funds for the erection of the building up to the time that the capsule was sealed.

As the objects from the capsule were viewed, Conway told the audience that these items would be placed on loan to the Charlestown Historical Society for viewing at the Bunker Hill Museum, 43 Monument Square following the ceremony and throughout the summer.

Kay Whelan, accepting the copper box and its contents on behalf of the Historical Society, related a story.

She said that on September 29, 1917, there was a baby about to be born in Charlestown and the very nervous father was advised by the doctor to go out for a walk. According to Whelan, this man's walk took him to City Square where he heard music and, when inquiring as to the event, was told that a time capsule was being placed in the cornerstone of what would be a new YMCA building.

lan, this man's walk took him to City Square where he heard music and, when inquiring as to the event, was told that a time capsule was being placed in the cornerstone of what would be a new YMCA building.

Whelan said that the man never discovered what was in the time capsule even though he was curious as to what was placed in there on that September noon. She said this was always a topic of conversation as he would walk through City Square hand-and-hand with his daughter.

The ceremony concluded with the benediction by Major Patrick F. Healey, CHC-USA-R and the retrieval of the colors by the USS Constitution color guard.

During the ceremony, Conway acknowledged the contribution of the Charlestown Committee for the Preservation of the Armed Services YMCA Cornerstone. He particularly noted Joe Kent, BRA; Richard Burke, BRA; Peggy Griffin, BRA; Maralyn Bellenigi, YMCA; David Flanagan, MDPW; John McDermott, MDPW; Ken Stone, NATF; Judy Evers, Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services; Charlie Clabaugh from Councillor Robert Travaglini's office; Jay Ash from Representative Richard Voke's office; and Kathy Giordano from the Charlestown Historical Society and the Charlestown Patriot. He also stated that Kent and Burke had paid for the flags for the event from their own pockets.

the ceremony were Jean M. Babcock, Honorable Joseph V. Ferrino, Colonel Arthur D. Marcotti, US-AFR, and BGEN. John F. White, ANG (Ret.), all Trustees of the Armed Services YMCA. Other YMCA representatives were Michael O. Ciccarelli, Major R.S. Donahue, USMC, and Commander Anthony Hartman, USN (Ret.), along with Harry Psarris, chief executive officer.

Commander David Cashman, USN, Commanding Officer of USS Constitution provided a salute from that ship as the time capsule was opened. Also present was former Commanding Officer Robert L. Gillen, USN (Ret.); J. Edward Roche, director of Harborpark; and Mon O'Shea, executive vice president of Bunker Hill Community College.

A plaque was presented by Kingman and Conway to the Bunker Hillbillies of the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club in appreciation for their participation in the event. And as the Hillbillies led off their performance with their theme song and proceeded to "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More, No More," the artifacts from the capsule were placed in a case for viewing and the audience enjoyed the music and refreshments, with a special cake for the event baked by members of the crew of the USS S.W. Groves, under the direction of MSC Gautan.

Once again, Charlestown residents had the opportunity to become a part of history as reflections on the past offer hope for the future that a Charlestown landmark will be returned to the community she has called "home."

ARMED FORCES DAY and the opening of the time capsule from the Charlestown Armed Services YMCA were celebrated on Saturday with the cutting of a cake baked and decorated by the "USS S.W. Groves." Doing the honors were (l. to r.) Major Robert Donahue, USMC; Commander David Cashman, 62nd Commander, "USS Constitution;" B/General John F. White, Retired; and Captain John Faigle, USCG. (DEW photo)

Youth Soccer Conducts Clinic

As part of its spring program, the Charlestown Youth Soccer Club recently held a clinic at the high school field on Medford Street. Once again we were fortunate enough to have coach Ross Zagami of Bunker Hill Community College and four of his stalwarts, including captain Kevin Naughton, John Montemiro, Marco Marcellino and Richie Caceda. BHCC, incidentally, is coming off an undefeated season, compiling an 11-0-1 record.

Coach Zagami and his players ably demonstrated proper techniques dribbling, shooting and passing the ball. All our players (and coaches) benefitted immeasurably. All of us in the youth soccer program would like to say publicly, "Thank You" once again. Thanks too, to BHCC Athletic Director Ron Schlegel for coordinating the clinic arrangements.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the Editor must be signed and include name, address and telephone number for verification. The name will be withheld if the writer so requests. Anonymous letters will NOT be published.

Thank You

Many thanks to the members and friends of Court Saint Jude No. 1123, CDA for helping to make the May 18th Charity Bonanza such a success by either selling or buying chances. Special thanks to Reverend Daniel Mahoney, pastor of Saint Francis de Sales Church, for the use of the Bishop Lawton Hall, and to Manager Richard Morin of Johnnie's Foodmaster, Bunker Hill Mall for allowing the chairlady and her committee, Anna Roche and Kay Dunleavy, to set up a table for two days to sell chances in his store. Court Saint Jude is very grateful to Gloria Conway for publishing the notice weekly in the Charlestown Patriot calendar.

Chairlady, Gertrude P. Roche

Share Concern On Main Street

Re: Not For Nothin' . . . But Have You Heard Column of May 19, 1988

Dear Mrs. Conway:

I noted in your "Not for Nothin' . . . But Have You Heard" column of May 19, 1988 comments in the last section entitled Tid Bits concerning large potholes in Main Street adjacent to the Charlestown Economic Development Corporation's (EDC) new housing development. The clear impression is given that EDC is responsible for these breaks in the street and that EDC does not appreciate the community's desire to protect the new roadway.

I am writing on behalf of the EDC to set the record straight and to correct your mistaken impression. The Boston Gas Company made the breaks in the street in order to shut off the gas to the former Liberty Bell Grocery building. The gas had to be shut off in order for the demolition of the building to take place. The location of the shut offs could not be determined from the building because the former tenant of the building had filled the basement with debris and garbage that could not be penetrated.

As you may recall, the EDC pressed the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) for most of 1987 to demolish Liberty Bell even to the point of going to court twice in 1987 to force the issue. EDC constantly spoke with the BRA about the need for demolition and for the placing of utilities prior to the repaving of Main Street. We also suggested that the street not be finished until work needed for the project was done so that the street need not be opened. We were not successful in our efforts.

We share your concern about Main Street. We have instructed our contractors to do their work without affecting Main Street.

Sincerely,
Thomas S. Cunha, President
Charlestown Economic Development Corporation

Mother Serves Notice On Inconsiderate Dog Owners

May 17, 1988

Dear Editor:

This is for the dog owners who bring their canines up to the beautifully manicured lawns of the Monument. This letter isn't intended for those who are there to have their pets fetch a stick, chase a ball or just lie down on a soft patch of grass to inhale this national treasure that we "Townies" are so proud of, but for those inconsiderate slob who insist on using this Charlestown historical site as a toilet area for their chow hounds.

You idiots have more gall than brains. Has it ever occurred to you how much disease and germs you're willing to extend to your neighbors? Babies play here, toddlers toddle here. Children from the Headstart center use it as a respite from the classroom. "Little Patriots" take nature walks around the grounds hoping to step into an outdoor-wonder, not a pile of puppy crap.

Have any of you thoughtless people ever stopped to consider anyone but your selfish selves? I hardly think so. This week alone I've had to disinfect my boys' sneakers twice so far. And all because you refuse to pick up after your precious, poop-laying pets.

I'm so sick of seeing dog defecation stuck to the soles of my kids' shoes. I'm tired of your sickly "public offerings." I'm fed up with you oh-so-civilized urban dwellers with no regard for the public or for public property. You want your dog to crap here? Fine, bring along a scooper and a bag and dispose of your responsibility properly.

Don't you think those poor guys who work up there have enough to do, what with tourists, mowings, and what have you, than to have to clean up after your silly mutts because you don't see it as your job?

Well, this Charlestown mother has had it with you inconsiderates. If I see one more of you so-called "sophisticated residents" letting your best friend leave their Alpo-processed presents on the grass of the Monument, watch out! I'm scooping it up myself and disposing it on your doorstep. I'll follow you home and leave what is rightfully yours where it rightfully belongs . . . in front of your door.

I'm sure I'm not alone. If any of my fellow "Townies," new-comers or tourists happen upon these thoughtless individuals, please, Speak up to them. Tell them how you feel. Maybe if we do something to stop all this crap (no pun intended) we can all step a little lighter up at the Monument and let the children run a bit easier. To allow a wonderful historical site, a national park, that's located here in our town be desecrated in this disgusting manner is not living up to our infamous "Charlestown Pride."

Not For Nothin' . . . But Have You Heard . . .

• Visiting Ship Arriving . . . the schooner Bowdoin will be docked at Pier One in the Charlestown Navy Yard, June 1st through 10th. Launched in 1921, the Bowdoin is 88 feet overall, 21 feet wide and draws a little over ten feet. Used as part of the Outward Bound program, it makes goodwill stops up and down the eastern coast. Visitation information can be obtained after June 1st by calling 242-5601.

• Welcome Home . . . Relatives and friends are all happy to hear that Ronnie Poole arrived home yesterday and will continue his recuperation under the loving care of his wife, Bobbie. Get well soon, Ronnie!

• Attention, Single Parents . . . A support group is being formed in Charlestown to focus on issues related to single parenting for persons between the ages of 14 and 25. For more information on the group, look for article elsewhere in this week's Patriot.

• I'm Impressed . . . So many of you knew the whereabouts of Waldo Street and called to let us know. For you who didn't know — it is located underneath the Washington Street bridge from Warren Avenue (across from the former YMCA building site). This week's question — Where is FOSS STREET? Answer in next week's paper.

• From One Good Neighbor To Another . . . When Kevin Roche saw his name in last week's column, he called to inform us of a truly good neighbor of his. This person, who lives on Wall Street, and requests to be anonymous, returned a check to the Roches, a process that involved a lot of tracking and leg work. Kevin says, "We were saved a lot of hassle because this neighbor was willing to get involved — a good example of a good neighbor." You're right, Kevin.

• Horse Of A Different Color . . . With all the activity going on in the Navy Yard last Saturday morning with the opening of the time capsule from the "Y" much equipment had to be borrowed from different companies to use at the ceremony. Among these items were two brand new wooden horses borrowed from the Kenney Development Company through its ace superintendent Franny Maher. Well, when all was over and put away, Fran's two horses had evidently galloped in another direction. Not to worry, though. Ace detective, Joe Kent, got on the scent and tracked them down. Only goes to prove, that when you want something done, ask Joe! We knew that!

• Included In A Recent Garden Tour . . . the 59th Hidden Garden of Beacon Hill, that is, was a "potting shed that had been whimsically painted faux trellis and flowering vines by Charlestown artist Maria Paul-Welling." Nice job, Maria!

Council Rejects Chapter 689 Housing Proposed For Parcel R-87

(continued from page 3) stressed that the BHA is working under the pressure of a deadline situation. He stated that if they do not receive designation for the land in Charlestown, they may lose their funding. This statement did not go over well with either the members of the Council or the residents in attendance.

Dwyer stated that the BHA would oversee the development of the project and then turn the housing units over to the Department of Mental Retardation for the day-to-day operations. The maintenance of the facility would be contracted out, not done by BHA employees.

Dwyer said the BHA was requesting a vote from the Neighborhood Council to bring before the BRA Board on May 26 asking a transfer of ownership of the site from the BRA to the BHA so that the BHA can develop the site. Dwyer also stated that once the BHA receives this transfer of ownership, representatives from the BHA would come back into the community to present their plans for development of this site for neighborhood approval. No architectural plans for this proposed special needs housing were presented at this meeting.

Although it was stated several times that the BHA had no interest in using any portion of the Parcel R-87, other than the 10,000 square feet needed for their project, council members, especially Moe Gillen, wanted a commitment from the BRA to have the remaining 47,000 square feet designated for individual, fee simple, house lots.

Several motions were made by Gillen to include this commitment from the BRA along with a vote of approval for Chapter 689 housing on the site. Bob Rush, senior project manager for the BRA, stated that including the house lots as part of a Request For Proposal (RFP) for Parcel R-87 would delay and hamper the BHA's request before the BRA Board and could cause the loss of funding for the special needs housing by the BHA. This did not hinder Gillen's determination to be assured by the BRA that individual house lots be included in the RFP for this parcel. "I will stay here as long as it takes to have this assurance" from the BRA, Gillen stated.

Four separate votes were taken by the council on whether to accept the BHA's proposal or refuse it. Four times that vote was the same — seven votes against, five votes in favor. Thus the Council did not endorse the inclusion of Chapter 689 housing on Parcel R-87.

The BHA intends to present their proposal for Chapter 689 housing on this site before the BRA Board today for determination of whether it will be placed on this site. The concept of locating this type of housing within the community was acceptable to the majority of the Council members. The proposed location of the housing on this parcel was the issue in dispute.

Jack Millerick, director of the Life Focus Center, a program for retarded and handicapped, stated that an urgent need for a community residence for mildly retarded or physically handicapped individuals currently exists in Charlestown. He stated that this community was unique in that families of these special needs patients have cared for them in their own homes, but many of these patients are now getting older, as are their parents, and no facility to house them exists in the town. He asked the Department of Mental Retardation to consider placing such a facility in Charlestown. Dennis McLaughlin, chairman of the Neighborhood Council stated that the subject of possibly placing a community residence in Charlestown for the aging special needs residents should be addressed at future Housing and Development Committee meetings.

Warning To Elders

Massachusetts Executive Office of Elder Affairs Secretary Paul J. Lanzikos has warned elders to beware of literature sent by an organization called the Social Security Protection Bureau. The Bureau, which is not affiliated with the Federal Government, is mailing forms that request a $7 enrollment fee in return for a Statement of Earnings and a "Social Security" protection kit that includes a gold embossed social security card.

"The Executive Office of Elder Affairs and the Attorney General's Office believe that the Social Security Protection Bureau may be engaged in an unfair and deceptive act or practice," said Secretary Lanzikos. "The Social Security Administration provides you with a statement of how much you have paid into the system and a guide that explains the social security system free of charge. Because these services are provided by your local social security office, you do not need to send money to receive information."

For further information, please contact the legal unit of the Executive Office of Elder Affairs at 727-7750.

Memorial Day Services To Be Held At Mount Hope

Memorial Day Services, sponsored by The American Legion, Suffolk County Council and the City of Boston will be held on Sunday, May 29 at the Veteran's Memorial in Mount Hope Cemetery, Walk Hill Street, Mattapan.

Suffolk County Commander Richard E. Dean and Boston Mayor Raymond L. Flynn extend an invitation to residents to attend and participate in paying respect to the deceased veterans who served in defense of this great country. The ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m.

Commissioner William B. Coughlin of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department will be the main speaker. Also on the program will be members of the Boston City Council, City and State Commissioners of Veteran's Services, members of the Armed Services, American Legion officials and Gold Star Mothers.

A significant part of the Memorial Day ceremony is the decoration of veteran graves with the American Flag. At Mount Hope, Commander Dean and Mayor Flynn show how the City and the Legion continue the annual observances and respect that the veterans earned serving this nation. The row after row of flags brings a lump to one's throat and tears to one's eyes. It is a sight that will long be remembered.

All are welcome to attend.

stern. Joining the fleet were the Freedom and the Massachusetts. Within minutes, the Hale barge crossed the harbor. A frantic pace was evidenced all evening, culminating with the Booze Cruise, whose patrons were dancing to the strains of La Bamba. The only unanswered question was who belonged to the bronze Rolls Royce with Massachusetts plate A.J.T.? Its passengers exited and proceeded to the slips. They certainly know where to go for a party.

Doorknockers are universal. In Dublin, the doors and hardware have become an international event. From postcards to posters they have become famous. In the Shipways, the Faheys have decorated theirs with a claddagh. Not to be outdone by their Irish neighbors, they decorated with panache. What better way to greet visitors than with the symbol of loyalty, love and friendship.
