A survival server with the power to create towns and nations, struggle to outlive and protect yourself from griefers and PvP players. A semi-geopolitical sandbox set on a 1:1000 scale map of Earth the place you'll be able to construct towns and type a nation while partaking in diplomacy and war with others. My definition of sandbox is built on an actual player economy, though, and one among my frustrations with EQII is the huge, intricate, and enjoyable crafting system that is sort of totally wasted on a recreation where a lot of the gear is mob-dropped and bind-on-equip. Don't let the title fool you, although, as this indie sandbox is quite accessible to each engineers and non-engineers alike, even if it is sturdy sufficient to feature actual physics and real in-sport programming.
