About Himalaya

In the forests of Burma, the curiosity of a young man was evoked as he watched villagers feeding the roots of a local herb to calm a herd of agitated elephants.

That man was Mr. M. Manal, the founder of Himalaya, and that herb was Rauwolfia Serpentina, the inspiration that led to the creation of Serpina®, the world's first natural antihypertensive drug, launched in 1934.

Mr. Manal's dream of discovering the mysteries of nature began in the year 1930. Fascinated by the properties of Rauwolfia Serpentina, he was determined to bring into people's lives the promise of nature's healing power harnessed through scientific research.
