

3 SIGNS YOUR LITTLETON WATER HEATER NEEDS SERVICE

Your water heater is an important appliance in your home or business. Without professional maintenance and extensive plumbing knowledge, it can be difficult to determine when the time has come for your water heater to receive services. There are a number of ways to tell. In this informative article, we hope to inform our Littleton, CO, and surrounding area customers as to some of the telltale signs of water heater damage. When you notice these kinds of issues in your home or business, contact a plumbing professional like Knight Plumbing LLC as soon as possible.

WHEN YOUR WATER HEATER FAILS TO REACH A PROPER TEMPERATURE, YOU MIGHT NEED SERVICE

One of the telltale signs of water heater failure is the inability to reach a satisfactory temperature. The temperature of your water heater is controlled by a complex heating element, typically fueled by electricity or gas. In certain circumstances, this heating element can fail. The heating element is a complex mechanism that requires professional knowledge and equipment to repair. If you start to notice these kinds of problems, contact a plumbing professional like Knight Plumbing as soon as possible.

WHEN YOUR WATER HEATER SUFFERS FROM LOW WATER PRESSURE, YOU MIGHT NEED SERVICE

In other cases, your water heater might indicate it's needed for maintenance by failing to provide water at an adequate pressure. Leaking and dripping from faucets and taps is often caused by a break in one of the water heater's feed lines. A water heater in the sensitive area around your water heater could be disastrous, so be sure to contact a plumbing professional as soon as you begin to notice these symptoms.

WHEN YOUR WATER HEATER PRODUCES STRANGE NOISES OR ODORS, YOU MIGHT NEED SERVICE

Finally, if your water heater begins to produce strange noises or odors, it may be time to commission professional water heater services from Knight Plumbing. Calcification, the presence of heavy metals, the infiltration of sediment deposits, and a whole range of other issues can cause serious problems with your water heater. Ensure that your Littleton, CO home or business is properly safeguarded by contacting a licensed plumber like Knight Plumbing. Give us a call today!

Get more information, please visit <https://knightplumbingllc.com/>