ADELE'S SUPER BOWL STAGE FRIGHT

Adele's wrenching tunes are the perfect soundtrack to your awful breakup...but football? Sources confirm that Bruno Mars, who's been tapped to perform at Super Bowl 50 in February, is trying to convince the British ballad queen to join him for a duet! "Bruno has spent the last month pitching her about making an appearance," dishes the source, explaining that the halftime show will feature past performers as well. "The NFL has made it clear that they will do whatever it takes to get her on board." But while most celebs would be holding out for a huge payday, the insider reveals that Adele's concerns have nothing to do with cash. "Her stage fright is holding her back," says the source. The "Hello" singer has said in the past that she routinely throws up before concerts. "This would be the biggest stage ever, and it's not about the money but whether she can convince herself that she can do it!" ★

RISING STARS

FALLING STARS

JOHNNY vs. LEO OSCAR WAR

Leonardo DiCaprio and Johnny Depp are in a gold rush — Oscar gold, that is. Each leading man is determined to outdo the other on Hollywood's biggest night and walk away with the Best Actor trophy. Leo — who has been nominated for the Oscar four times but has never won — stars in the forthcoming 19th-century epic The Revenant, his grittiest role yet. "Leo is so hungry for the Oscar that he can practically taste it," shares a spy. "He sees Johnny as his only real competition."

Johnny won rave reviews for his portrayal of Boston gangster Whitey Bulger in Black Mass, but he's tried to say that nabbing an Academy Award isn't even on his radar. "I don't want to win one of those things ever," Depp has said. "The idea of winning means that you're in competition with someone, and I'm not in competition with anybody."

But Leo isn't buying Johnny's nonchalance, and is viewing the veteran actor as his main competition. "Leo has been trashing Johnny's flops, like The Lone Ranger and Mortdecai," dishes the industry mole. "This goes all the way back to when they both starred in What's Eating Gilbert Grape, which Leo feels he carried." ★

Gwen's

DID SHE STEAL HER HUSBAND AND HER STYLE?

KNOCKOFF

NANNY

Double Take

Mindy sported the same outfit as Gwen — complete with a matching ponytail and sunglasses.

FANS were shocked when news broke that Gwen Stefani and Gavin Rossdale were splitting after 13 years of marriage — and even more shocked when they learned the reason: another woman. But now there's even more cause to be alarmed, as it's become evident that the alleged adulteress — the couple's longtime nanny, Mindy Mann — had been creepily copying the singer's signature rocker-chic style. In a shocking series of photos that Mann posted on social media, the twentysomething Australian caretaker sports look-alike black horn-rimmed glasses, a bandana in her sleek platinum hair and even the same eye-catching jumpsuits.

"Gwen recently saw all the side-by-side comparison photos, and she was absolutely disgusted," dishes an insider. "She's starting to believe that Mindy has severe personality issues. She copied everything about Gwen — right down to sleeping with her husband!"

Though the singer has had time to process reports of the affair — and is now in the early stages of a relationship with fellow The Voice coach Blake Shelton — she's reportedly been beating herself up for letting the "loose cannon" get close to her husband, and especially her three children: Kingston, 9, Zuma, 7, and Apollo, 20 months.

"Gwen can't believe she didn't see the warning signs while it was all happening," continues the insider, noting that the nanny mimicked every detail of the musician's eclectic wardrobe. "At the time, she thought some of Mindy's outfit choices were strangely similar to hers, but she took it as a sign of flattery, not as a single white female situation!" ★

Split Personality

They say imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, but an insider says Gwen feels disturbed and even frightened by what she now sees as her former nanny's obsession. "Gwen is a fashion icon — she's used to people praising her impeccable taste," explains the source. "But now, she's realizing that Mindy actually wanted to be her and take her place in Gavin's eyes!"

Matchy-Matchy

Both Gwen and Mindy rocked the same messy bun during an outing with the singer's children.

MR. MOM

GAVIN'S NEW GIG

Although Gwen and Gavin have agreed to share custody of their sons — Kingston, Zuma, and Apollo — sources tell Star that the "Used to Love You" singer has put her ex-husband on full-time daddy duty since learning about his affair with the couple's former nanny, Mindy Mann.

"Gavin has gone from sleeping with the nanny to becoming one," reveals an insider. "And it's only fair. Considering everything he put Gwen through, it's about time she got to blow off some steam."

On Nov. 5, Gwen flew to Nashville to join her new beau, Blake Shelton, on the Country Music Awards after-party circuit. "We're just trying to have fun, you know?" she admits. "[I'm] literally the party girl that you hear about when their life blows up and you're like, 'Oh, I'm going out! Watch me!'"
