AUSTRIA

- Austria is a country of diverse possibilities, from historic cities like Vienna to the stunning views of the Alps. Austrians are known for Gemutlichkeit, their characteristic way of enjoying life, arts, strong coffee and sports. Austrians are direct communicators interested in discussing current affairs and environmental issues. Healthy lifestyles, music and people enjoy attending concerts or playing music, as well as taking walks—Spaziergänge—are popular national pastimes. Throughout history, Austria has always played a special role in the centre of Europe: as a bridge-builder, as a meeting place, and as a venue for cultural exchange.
- Teenagers in Austria enjoy spending time together, at home, in cafes, cinemas, dance clubs or by participating in youth and community activities. Soccer, biking, and alpine skiing are among the top sports throughout the country.

BRAZIL

- Famous for its rainforests, beaches, and lively city life, Brazilian society includes people of indigenous, Portuguese, European, and African ancestries. Brazil is home to the carnival, a world-famous celebration, as well as neighborhood festivals, street parades, and a music scene unlike anywhere else in the world.
- Teens in Brazil socialize by going to each other's homes on the weekends, as well as cafes and town centers. There are many national fairs throughout the year that you can attend, including the world-renowned Carnival. Teenagers often take language classes after school at private language institutes, or study music, art or dance. Schools rarely offer extracurricular activities, but there are many community organizations you can join to volunteer, learn about the community and make friends. Sports, especially soccer, are very popular with girls and boys.

CHINA

- Embark on your study abroad experience in China—one of the most awe-inspiring, friendly and delightful countries. Discover its blend of traditional and modern: centuries-old temples surrounded by gleaming skyscrapers, colorful street food and imperial palaces, striking natural formations and ancient pagodas.
- Like most teenagers in China, you will probably focus on school and studying. School is also a great place to make friends who will share their culture with you. Chinese teenagers get together at friends' homes, go to movies, dance, watch television or play sports like soccer, basketball and ping-pong. Parents are usually very involved in students' lives, so you should always check with your host family before you go out. Chinese teenagers seldom date and prefer to socialize with their classmates in single-sex groups.

FRANCE

- Discover why France is so more than the city of Paris by exploring small towns or villages, regions with a different look and feel. Immerse yourself in the culture famous around the world for its food, architecture, philosophy and painting. Be sure to explore the beautiful countryside from the Atlantic to the Alps and from the English Channel to the Mediterranean Sea.
- Your French friends will probably spend time together in public parks or cafés, and go out to parties on the weekends. Soccer and basketball are common hobbies for French teenagers.

HUNGARY

- Hungary is a proud country where Eastern Europe meets the West. Its stunning capital of Budapest, once known as the “Paris of the East,” the mighty Danube River and flat countryside with rolling hills in the distance paint a unique picture of this country’s beautiful landscape. Make sure you check out one of the traditional Hungarian festivals, which usually revolve around food.
- Hungarian teenagers take their studies seriously and work hard for final exams, which are important for college admissions. In their spare time, they join school or community organized activities such as sports (soccer, basketball and volleyball are popular), drama, folk dance and music clubs. On weekends you’ll enjoy going to movies, parties or to someone’s house to have a chat.

ITALY

- Italian exquisite art, music, food, and architecture make up the perfect background for the company of friends and family on an evening passeggiata (a slow walk). On top of a very rich history, stands a modern European country, always leading in style and fashion. The world's best gelato, rich home-cooked meals, remnants of the Roman Empire, snow-capped Alps or picturesque coastal towns on the Adriatic Sea help Italians truly live la dolce vita (the sweet life).
- Teenagers are used to being independent and organizing their own time, chatting in cafés, walking around town, going out dancing or playing sports. Calcio, Italian soccer league, is the cause of celebration for many Italians, whose teams have won several World Cups. Other sports your Italian friends might enjoy are basketball, cycling and skiing, which are most popular; however, most sports can be found here.

SPAIN

- Where Europe, Africa, the Mediterranean and the Atlantic connect, Spain has a fascinating history, a diverse culture and five official languages: Catalan, Galician, Basque (Euskara), Aranese and Spanish. Embrace the rich local cuisines, lifestyles, festivals, architecture and music. Stroll through the bright and colorful cities and villages, and stop by one of the carts selling hot churros that you dip in thick, hot chocolate.
- Fútbol (soccer) is the most popular sport, with fans passionately dedicated to the national team, La Roja (The Red One). Cycling, basketball, lectures and concerts take up a lot of teens' free time. Weekend evening: parties, movies and hanging out in cafés or the local town square.

POLAND

- Poland has a rich cultural heritage and many United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) World Heritage spots to explore. Carpathian Mountains, the coastline of the Baltic Sea, or the winding river Vistula make the beautiful Polish landscape. Don't miss tasting the traditional pierogis and explore cobblestone streets of Polish towns.
- Polish teens tend to have a very active social life, spending time outside riding bikes, hiking, canoeing and kayaking on Poland's many beautiful rivers. During the summer, many people go for mushroom hunting. Down time may spent relaxing with a card game like bridge.

USA Kennedy-Lugar Youth Exchange & Study(KL-YES) Program

- The U.S. Department of State established the Kennedy-Lugar Youth Exchange and Study (YES) program in October 2002 in recognition of the importance of youth exchange as a key component to build bridges between citizens of the U.S. and countries around the world. The program is funded by the U.S. Department of State and provides scholarships for high school students from countries with significant Muslim populations to attend high school in the U.S., live with an American host family, and serve as “youth ambassadors” for their home countries.
- The YES program officially launched in Malaysia in 2004 to expand communication between the people of United States and Malaysia to promote mutual understanding and respect. Since then, more than 550 Malaysian students have participated in the YES program and are now members of the YES and U.S. Embassy Alumni communities. Malaysian YES students spend 6 months in the U.S. from January to June.
