

Lindsay Ellis &lt;namebrandlindsay@gmail.com&gt;

---

Defamatory and harmful video content involving Addison Cain

33 messages

---

Tynia Watson <tynia.watson@crowedunlevy.com>
To: "namebrandlindsay@gmail.com" <namebrandlindsay@gmail.com>

Thu, Sep 3, 2020 at 1:15 PM

Ms. Ellis,

My firm represents Addison Cain. We are aware of your recent YouTube video and other postings related to lawsuits involving my client. In your video, you use my client's copyrighted content and make numerous false statements including statements from allegations made in the lawsuits that are not based on evidence or facts. These false statements including the following allegations:

- (1) that my client claimed to own tropes and that was what the DMCA's at issue were about;
- (2) that my client blackmailed Zoey Ellis;
- (3) that Ms. Cain's publisher settled due to Ms. Cain's perjury in Oklahoma;
- (4) that Ms. Cain committed perjury; and
- (5) that the other lawsuit [in Virginia] died for unrelated reasons.

These statements are entirely false and defamatory. No proof was ever provided by Ms. Ellis or her company in the lawsuits about any of these issues and none of these issues were resolved by the courts or any jury. In fact, the evidence that my client has presented in her public statement contradicts these allegations by Zoey Ellis and Quill, which were entirely lacking in any evidentiary support. While my client was accused of perjury by Ms. Ellis' company, the basis of that claim was never argued before the court and there is no ruling in the Oklahoma case on that issue, as the case was dismissed and closed. Ms. Cain never misrepresented any facts to the courts. Her previous publisher filed the DMCA's and no DMCA's were sent my Ms. Cain to Oklahoma. And, Ms. Cain's publisher settled the case in Oklahoma after Ms. Cain received her rights back due to her publisher's breach of contract. An accurate account of the various lawsuits may be viewed on my client's Facebook page if you are interested in a factual account instead of spreading the previous lies and inaccuracies spread by Quill, Zoey Ellis, Courtney Milan and others. In addition to the defamatory content in your video, we believe that your video violates the terms of service of your Patreon account as it clearly includes abusive content and uses my client's content without her permission. My client is currently receiving threats, hate mail, and other harassing posts due to your video. We demand that you remove or correct the video immediately.

Regards,

Tynia Watson