The most common pepper spray is a canister design designed to provide a continuous stream of spraying pressure. This makes it very powerful for stopping attacks quickly and more importantly, a lot of people discover it is the fastest way to stop a person from doing harm. The next type is a battery doorbell camera, which uses a tiny camera to track the consumer rather than a canister. Both canisters and cameras work good in deterring attackers but there are times once the pepper spray will not stop the assault. This is where a doorbell camera comes in to play.

Doorbell cameras work good because they provide visual proof that you're there and are shielded. Most people that have a doorbell camera close to them have experienced one of these attacks and it is a traumatizing experience for everybody involved. It does take a bit of practice to learn employing a doorbell camera to prevent attacks but as soon as you do it will be something which you couldn't live without. If your main concern is to guard your house or loved ones from danger then having pepper spray is important so that you may stop an attacker in their tracks.

I suggest security cameras because the first line of defense. It's costly and takes up a lot of room but it is going to provide evidence if you are ever in a situation where pepper spray is essential. Security cameras come in various shapes and sizes so it's important that you know what works best for you. I would recommend getting a significant security camera that covers the area you want covered in addition to other regions of the building such as doors and windows.

Another option is a pepper spray muzzle. Muzzle sprays seem like pepper spray shells with spikes on the end. They attach to a belt or into any jewelry with a small clip. The problem is that you cannot spray pepper spray directly into a muzzle and it won't stop the attacker from continuing to swing. What it will do is cause sufficient pain he protects from you.

I would recommend getting pepper spray near me in the event of an assault. It is far better than having no defense at all. The best defense is prevention, therefore I am glad that I ready for any scenario that might happen. Keep key office 2016 in mind when you're shopping and select the right product for you.
