Letter from the Editors

What makes a successful Temple student? We feel that it is the incorporation of both a Carnivalistic lifestyle and focusing solely on getting a great grade. It is about going above just showing up to lectures to actually meeting with the faculty, getting involved in activities outside of the classroom, meeting new people, embracing and learning about cultures outside of our “norm”, and ultimately figuring out who we want to become. To prove this point we attended twenty-six different events, some modeled after Apollo focusing on the greater good which we marked with a sun, and some events modeled after Dionysus indicating the aspect of pure fun and debauchery which we marked with the symbol of the wine glass; because to fully become a successful college student you must be able to balance the fun with the serious. You cannot have one without the other.

We chose a magazine format because we feel it is both approachable and accessible. You will see through out that in addition to our events, we have included a wealth of other information in the form of articles and advertisements. Our articles give tips on everything from what essentials you must have in your dorm room, to what are the best places to eat besides the standard and boring dining halls. The advertisements highlight things such as Temple’s on campus Movie Theater, resources like The Writing Center and 1810 Liacouras Walk, as well as student organizations looking for new members. This magazine informs the reader of essentially, everything we wish we would have known as incoming Temple students, and the hope is that our readers will be better prepared to tackle Temple with full force after thumbing through all of the pages.

Academics are clearly important in college, however it is not just limited to physically attending class or writing papers but also entails students immersing themselves into their studies. “Attending college can be extremely stressful. But in order to boost self-efficacy, students should plan to succeed their first semester. Get your money’s worth-ask questions, talk with your professors...perhaps even attend a professional conference related to your chosen field” (Stock, n.d.). One graduate from the University of Michigan said that, “What separated me from the masses was ‘connecting’ with a faculty member. I didn’t even know what the possibilities were until he laid out a ‘roadmap’ and showed me a few shortcuts to get there. He made learning about the field exciting...” (Tyler, 2008, p.170).

Although academics plays a huge role in making a successful college student, between writing those tolling six to eight page papers and studying for midterm and final exams, students need to also make the time to enjoy this amazing college experience through meeting new friends, taking advantage of events like Free food and Fun Fridays, and getting involved in a few of the 300 plus recognized organizations that Temple offers its’ students year-round. “Having a social life helps you learn about teamwork and selflessness but may also discover innate leadership qualities they didn’t even know they possessed. People social in college become workers who are engaged, enthusiastic, motivated, and dedicated and overall fare better in their careers” (Emma, 2014).

A thriving social life and academics are often the only aspects thought of in regards to what makes a successful student, however, an essential component is partaking in charitable causes, giving back to those who may not have the opportunities we as students do. As Christie Garton points out, “Your resume is filled with accomplishments: internships, accolades, stellar GPA, and skills galore! But no volunteer activities? ...You should be volunteering! (Garton, 2009, p.131-132).

The final dimension of what makes a successful student at Temple University is stepping outside of our “norms” and allowing ourselves to experience the multitude of other countries and cultures the world has to offer, we are the diversity university after all! One way to learn about and experience another culture is through complete immersion into that culture, or as Temple refers to it, “studying abroad.” By studying abroad students not only become more appealing to potential employers but also get a wakeup call that the “American way” is not the only way in the world, and the experiences allows them to become open minded to how other cultures operate. International careers expert Stacie Berdan states, “Making study abroad a part of their education is the most effective and accessible means for students to develop needed skills because it pushes a student to get out of her comfort zone to experience another culture, language, environment and education system. It teaches students to appreciate difference and diversity firsthand, and enables them to recognize — and then dismiss — stereotypes they may have held about people they had never met” (Berdan, 2013).

The cultural expansion aspect is fundamental in becoming a successful Temple student because; “Developing relationships with people of different cultures teaches students to be less judgmental and exposes them to a wider world. Gives us an early lesson of acceptance,” (Emma, 2014) forcing us to realize that through learning about the plethora of cultures in the world we bridge the gaps to diversifying our ideas, ultimately resulting in great success and opportunity in the global world.

In conclusion, to become a successful Temple student you must really embrace the generic “college experience.” The complete college experience takes meeting with the faculty, signing up for clubs or sports, studying abroad or away, being open minded and experiencing other cultures, having a good social life to ultimately figure out just exactly who you are and where your life is headed. You will become an immensely successful college student once you learn to balance having a good time, with getting the work done to get a good grade and not worrying about figuring things out right away. College gives you the opportunity to get to know yourself and figure things out as you go along, as a senior from the University of Connecticut claims, “I have like thirty days until I graduate and I’m so depressed... It took me until my senior year to appreciate the fact that I can walk right out my door and learn anything I want... it's all right here! College puts you in touch with so much... so many kinds of people, so many opportunities to try things. I'm more accepting, more open.... It takes every college student a while to figure things out, but I'd definitely say, "Take advantage of the fact that you're there. Enjoy" (Tyler, 2008, 267). The most successful Temple students are those that take advantage of every opportunity that presents itself to them, so what are you waiting for? Go get involved! And enjoy the few years at Temple you have they fly by!

Enjoy your time here at Temple University!

Have a Great Semester!

Sincerely,

Editors in Chief-

Helen Rowland, Ashley Rodriguez

Lynn Evans, and Meisha Turner

Study Abroad/Away Events

Gilman Scholarships Info Session

By: Ashley Want to study abroad but have no clue how to finance such an expensive expedition? This event helped students explore different scholarships available to all students who wish to expand their horizons and travel abroad for either a summer session or a semester to a completely new place and partaking in new cultures all while possibly fulfilling credits for your major and a possible internship awaiting.

Disney College Program Info Session

By: Lynn This event was presented by Disney College

Program Campus Representatives.

All of the Campus Reps have been on the Disney College Program, which is a paid internship for college students where you live, learn, and earn money in either Disney World or Disneyland. At this session, they answered any questions that the prospective students had as well as giving personal insights and insider tips on how to make the most of your Disney College

Program. It was a very informative session presented in a fun and friendly style.

1810 LIACOURAS WALK

Where we are: We are located directly across from the Fox School of Business on Liacouras Walk.

What we offer: We offer a variety of services from counseling, to a nutritionist, to MSRC tutoring if you're struggling in any of your classes, all the way to advising if you're in the College of Science and Technology or pre-med or if you are an Undeclared University Studies Student.

Make sure to come check us out! Stop by whether you have a reason or just want to say hi we'd love to get to know you! And enjoy these next four years because they fly by!

Social Events

Free Food and Fun Friday

By: Lynn This event was truly a night of Hollywood Glamor! From fun photo booth sessions, to creating your own 1920's style headband, to Charleston dance lessons! All this and delicious free food. This event proved to be a great night of fun with friends that was also in a safe environment, not to mention free! Every week, there are new themes and different food, to take advantage of at this event! Everyone should come out enjoy their Fridays here at the student center.

Space Jam Movie Night

By: Helen Ever

feeling bored on a Thursday night? Well Temple has all the fun activities for you! Immerse yourself with your friends at

The Reel. A movie theater on campus that's better than all the movie theaters out there! For only two bucks a ticket, with student ID, you get to enjoy all of the latest movies. The Reel also offers fun, themed, movie nights!

At Space Jam 90's movie night, there were games, movie viewing, and chances to win prizes.

THE REEL

HOWARD GITTIS
STUDENT CENTER

The REEL features all the big blockbuster movies at rock bottom prices!! We show a new hit movie every weekend, but the best part? Tickets are only $2 with your TU ID and $4 without. We also sell tickets for Philly Connections at our box office for attractions in the area, such as The Philadelphia Zoo and the Camden Aquarium! Even tickets for sporting events like Phillies, Union, and Soul games! Entertainment opportunities are endless at The REEL!

Guide to Good Eats at Temple

What is the first thing you think of when someone asks you what the college experience is all about? Answers tend to vary, but for most the answer is something along the lines of trying new things. Now, the category of trying new things is very general and contains many subparts but perhaps the most overlooked aspect would have to be trying new foods! Here at Temple we pride ourselves on being the “diversity university” and along with academics and clubs our diversity shows through all the amazing food options we offer from all parts of the world! With this in mind we’ve devised a list of all our favorite food trucks and spots ranging from food from all walks of life to spread the awareness of the diversity of food (and plus we know you must be tired of the food from J&H by now!). Enjoy and Bon Appétit!!!

1. The Creperie- Très Délicieux! For the best French crepes and our number one pick of all of Temples food carts, The Creperie! Located directly in front Tyler School of Art this food truck offers a full meal crepe or numerous desert crepes (can you say Nutella heaven?) C’est Magifique!

2. Richie's- Can I get one wit provolone no onions! No, we’re not speaking in tongues we’re ordering a cheesesteak from our second pick on the list, Richie’s! Located in front of Anderson Hall this pick is not a food truck, but come on can you blame us for including it? The cheesesteaks are so good the place always has a line out front!

3. Temple's Best Authentic Mexican Food- Where can you get a burger, fries, tacos and a chimichanga? The Authentic Mexican Food Truck, our pick number three is directly in front of the Tomlinson Theater serves the best of both worlds great American food with a little south of the border twist. But be warned, along with being deliciosa the food is muy caliente!

4. Halal Food- Pick number four takes us all the way to the Middle East for some gyros with that amazing white sauce and super affordable pricing for a hefty meal at Halal Food! There are a few of these carts scattered throughout campus, however, our personal favorites are located in front of the College of Engineering and Speakman Hall.

5. Busz Burgers & Grilled Cheese- Our final pick is that perfect little pick me up when you start feeling homesick and need a reminder of that "homey" feeling. Busz Burgers and Grilled Cheese is located right next to our first pick the Creperie and gives you that sense of mom's lunches at your home away from home.

Cultural Expansion Events

Cookies and Java

By: Helen Want to see some awesome art?

Every Wednesday Tyler school of art hosts student work on the lower level of the building. So grab some free cookies and coffee and be sure to come by and look at fabulous art done by our students. Who knows, maybe it will broaden your mind and give you some great ideas for future projects of your own!

Queer Media

By: Helen Are you Queer? Do you want to know more about

Queers and how to be empowered by it? Queer Media has multiple events throughout the semester to help you get empowered and connect with your fellow queers. You get to learn about past queer leaders and even go to drag events.

Hair

By: Lynn Presented by Temple Theaters, this production of the classic 1960's counter culture musical "Hair" was beyond all of my expectations. From the amazing costumes, sets, and direction, this musical was just incredible. Everyone in the cast and crew did an amazing job, including my friend Kara Bowen (pictured) who was manning one of the spotlights. This musical provided insight into a tribe of hippies during the '60's and it gave me a different perspective on the struggles people faced during the Vietnam Era. I laughed, I cried, I got to dance with the cast on stage. A truly magical show. Check out their upcoming productions!

Nam Hoang Nguyen Senior Recital

By: Meisha After studying for numerous tests and writing papers I needed a place on campus to relax and clear my mind. I decided to visit Rock Hall auditorium to see what students were performing. Although I'm not a fan of classical music I figured I'd try something different and gave it a shot. I stumbled upon student Nam Hoang Nguyen playing the piano. The music selections were very beautiful and very emotionally charged. I've never felt so connected to music ever! If you visit Rock Hall and attend a recital and expand your musical horizons!

SMC Spring Speakers: "China Central Television: Soft Power and China Model"

By: Meisha Imagine if the United States decided to censor Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube? You would probably feel that your life is over. In China, the aforementioned sites are banned. Yin Zhu, department chair of Media Culture at the College of Staten Island visited Temple University to discuss how media and censorship is changing in China. In the 1970's and 1980's television programs that were shown were used to spread propaganda and to teach moral lessons. Commercials were introduced in 1979 and TV was entirely state subsidized, but now the media has changed in China. For example, China now has a dating show called "If You are the One" which in previous years would have been banned. Although this program is shown later at night at 10pm, it goes to show that China has begun to adopt Western traditions.

The most popular shows in China are now Netflix's "House of Cards" and PBS's "Downton Abbey"!

In Conflict (Warriors)

By: Meisha We would like to commend the men and women that devote their lives on a daily basis to make sure that American citizens are safe. When a veteran comes home from war, the first question that comes to mind is “so how was it in Iraq?” For those of us that have never experienced war firsthand, we are interested in knowing what happens while fighting in combat. But for veterans it’s not a pleasant conversation. At the “In Conflict” presentation, there were three guest speakers; Jason and Kimberlee, who are veterans, and Lavell, who is the Director of the Warrior Writer Project. They explained that when veterans come back home it is very difficult to find jobs, obtain degrees and many suffer from PTSD (Post Traumatic Stress Disorder). Although we often picture them as an “American hero” many veterans don’t feel this way. They might not have health benefits, could be homeless, and have trouble reintegrating into society. The Warrior Writers was established in 2007 to help veterans express themselves through creative writing, artwork, and poetry about their experiences. As quoted by Jason, who is currently a student at the Community College of Philadelphia and is majoring in design and architecture, “It’s [Warrior Writers] the only thing I can focus on.”

Operation Prom TU

By: Lynn Operation Prom

is a national organization that supplies low income students with prom dresses, tuxedos, shoes, and accessories. The chapter at Temple University has run successful Prom Boutiques the last two years in which local high school students come to shop through the selection of dresses and tuxedos. This organization promotes a positive atmosphere to make everyone comfortable with receiving a second-hand formal wear, and promoting positive energy. President Ky Smith (pictured) is so passionate about the organization; Look out for future events from this organization!

Honors Appalachian Experience Musical Cakes Fundraiser

By: Lynn This event was a fundraiser for the Honors Appalachian Experience program! At this event you bought chances to play in a round for a selected dessert. As the Disney tunes blasted from the radio, the circle of ticket holders walked one way, and the person in the middle turned the other way with their finger out, and when the music stopped, whoever the middle person was pointing to won the dessert! It was so much fun to win something delicious while at the same time raising money for an important cause. It also gave me a chance to talk to some of the members of the honors program and learn more about it. This group holds multiple fun fundraisers throughout the semester, so keep an eye out for them!

Campus Resources You Need to Know About

1. Campus Safety - Being in an urban environment, Temple places a great deal of importance on Safety. Temple has our own police department as well as offering shuttle services like the Owl Loop and TUR-Door. There are multiple Police Stations on campus. Students can press the button on the Blue Emergency Poles throughout campus as well as calling the department directly at 215-204-1234.

2. Student Health Services - Staying healthy is always very important, but for the times when you do come down with an illness, Student Health Services is here to help. Located on the 4th floor of 1810 Liacouras Walk, offering everything from general medical exams to dental care and even nutrition tips, this resource helps students get back to feeling their best as soon as possible!

3. Math Science Resource Center (MSRC) - The MSRC is a tutoring service specializing in math and science courses. No matter your major, every Temple student will have to take math and science courses in their time here, and the MSRC understands that sometimes everyone needs a little more explanation for their homework in these courses. The Tutoring Lab is a walk-in service where qualified student tutors help their peers understand tough concepts. The MSRC is located on the 2nd floor of 1810 Liacouras Walk.

4. Campus Recreation - Avoid that “Freshman 15” by hitting one of the many recreation facilities on campus! Temple’s beautiful facilities, including the Independence Blue Cross Recreation Center (IBC), Pearson McGonigle Halls, Temple University Fitness (TUF), and the Geasey Field Complex. Featuring everything from cardio machines to a rock climbing wall and even a pool, Campus Recreation has it all. There are even many group fitness opportunities! So beat that dreaded Freshman 15, and use these amazing resources!

5. Wellness Resource Center - The Wellness Center provides education, resources, and prevention services that help Temple students make informed healthy choices in order to succeed in every aspect of their life. They offer everything from individual and peer health education sessions to the sale of safer sex products at rock bottom prices. Located in the lower level of Mitten Hall, the Wellness Center is something every Temple Student should utilize.

WELLNESS
RESOURCE  CENTER

6. Writing Center - A college education means writing lots and lots of papers. So where can students go when they are struggling with their writing? The Writing Center, of course! Located on the 2nd floor of the Tuttleman Learning Center, the writing center is focused on providing individual support to writers in any stage of the writing process. Peer and professional tutors can take a look at your paper one on one and give you some suggestions and tips on how to improve your writing. To schedule a 45 minute appointment call 215-204-0702, or walk in any time for a 25 minute appointment.

Scholarships and Fellowship Advising

By: Ashley How many times have you found yourself saying college is expensive or that you had no clue how you were going to continue financing the ever increasing cost of tuition at any university? We will be exploring a variety of scholarships and fellowships that are available to students to help them afford the cost of tuition without having to take out any loans possibly in a university in the United Kingdom.

National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship Program Info Session

By: Ashley Does the idea of continuing your education in another country sound like something you'd be interested in? This information session will cover all requirements to apply to the graduate school of your choice abroad in the simplest terms possible, getting you ready to think about your future career in research.

Goal Setting and Vision Workshop

By: Meisha Imagine if you were given $86,400 dollars to spend on someone or something other than yourself.

Would you pay off that constantly rising tuition bill? Donate to charity? Go on vacation? While school work, jobs, and personal life can be demanding, you have to utilize your time. Be SMART (Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Relevant, Time bound) about approaching your goals. At the goal setting workshop we created vision boards to remind yourself to stay on task and also provide motivation to attaining your goals. But always remember everything good doesn't come easy: "PREPARE FOR CHALLENGES!" Some challenges may interfere with your goals, but remain focused on you positive goals. In order to be a successful student, here are a few tips to help you along the way: Stay organized, dare to dream, commit to your vision, follow through with your goals, and remember that there will be challenges along the way but you have to stay focused.

#EnufAboutYou, what about me??

By: Helen Want to know how to get ahead in life?

Attending confernces that have people from high power jobs, will be sure to get you ahead! These types of events tell you to create content and how to get the real world to notice you! You learn that you must keep creatng content and basically work for free, to get your head start in the business. Also don't get discouraged because creating one thing, could get your foot into the door and lead you to a high power job!

Jane Stimmler Presentation-

“How Women Gain a Leadership Edge in Business”

By: Lynn Noting her own struggles as a female in the business world, Jane

Stimmler (pictured) was inspired to do research with two of her colleagues on women’s struggles in the male dominated business world. The product of their research is a book entitled Breaking into the Boys' Club – 8 Ways for Women to Get Ahead in Business. At the event I attended, Jane summarized the main points of her book as well as giving her tips a practical application for the college world. She was truly inspiring and I look forward to reading her book.

President Bill Clinton Keynote Address

By: Lynn Former

President Bill Clinton became the first President to visit Temple University after having served at the White House.

Clinton's speech reflected on his journeys throughout his college and law school days and encouraged students to always push through the hard times, because in the end you will come out on top. It was a truly inspirational speech and one that I am lucky to say I could attend.

Top 10 Tips for Commuters

1. Park close to campus

-It is free on side streets

2. If possible, buy a parking pass

3. Pick your classes on either Tues & Thurs or MWF

-Commuting five days a week starts to be a drag and you will regret it.

4. Leave 30 minutes early just in case there is traffic

5. Get involved.

-Join a club or go to sporting events. Make sure you get the college experience!

6. Set boundaries at home with parents

7. Get to know the city surrounding your campus.

8. Make friends

-It may be hard to do so because you commute, but by making friends you will stay in the know of what's really going on on-campus when you are at home.

9. Balance

-Time at school, time at home, time studying, and time working

10. Make the most of your resources

-Colleges have tutors, counseling, and a lot of programs to help you get ahead (and it's included in tuition!).

Academic Events

Failure 101

By: Lynn This workshop was focused on how to bounce back after a failure in your life and use it as a learning experience.

Presenters Jeremy Boco and Zilong “Z” Zhao (pictured) reflected on their past failures and explained how they overcame them using reflective learning techniques. This event was a great way to show students that you can get back up after falling down and, as long as you keep trying, success will come your way.

Owl Workshops: What the Highlight

By: Ashley Learning just got so much fun!

Ever wanted to learn how to study or just generally improve your current techniques for studying? Then this is the event for you! Throughout this interactive event, you will be given tips on knowing what to highlight when studying, how to take notes in all of your classes, and how to actually focus on reading your textbooks.

TURF-CreWS

By: Meisha As a Temple student, it is always impressive to see other Temple student's work/projects. At the Turf-Crew (Temple Undergraduate Research Forum- Creative Works Symposium) event, three students presented work and awards that they've completed while pursuing their degree(s). Joey Cranny is the editor-in-chief of The Temple News. Did you know that Temple News won the Keystone Award for Journalism and was also considered the "Most decorated newspaper in Pennsylvania"? I was very impressed by this! Isabelle Garcia (pictured) presented also. She and four other students were sent to London to cover the 2012 Summer Olympic Games in London. Garcia reported on the sustainability efforts in London and won the 2013 Mid- Atlantic Emmy award for her report! Finally, student journalist Amelia Brut discussed her project from her journalism keystone course called "PhiladelphiaNeighborhoods.com". She gave tips for this project such as planning ahead, and following up if there's any shred of doubt while covering a story. In the Journalism course, students are assigned to a particular neighborhood in Philadelphia and they have to report on any of their findings. Brut's neighborhood was Spruce Hill. She reported on the lack of health care/insurance in this predominantly African immigrant community. It was very enlightening to see such active students present the work that love and enjoy.

AIA Philadelphia 2013 Young Architect Award Winners

By: Ashley Are you stressed out about what life after Temple or “the real world” is going to be like or where life can take you with the major that you chose?

We heard from two award winning Temple graduates. Although they graduated around the same time and in the same field, their paths and careers are completely different. This diversity gives you a sense of what possibilities are out there for all of our Temple students.

A Reading by novelist Kevin Powers

By: Ashley How exactly do you get to meet an award-winning author and also earn extra credit in two short hours? By going to an evening reading by Guardian First classes. We were able to hear the author himself read a passage from the book, answer any questions we had, and receive a free signed copy of the book.

Lunch and Learn

- ✓ Low Budget
- ✓ Student
- ✓ Free Food
- ✓ Getting Good Advice

By: Helen Throughout the semester, Temple provides students with Lunch & Learns. At this event, you get a free lunch, which includes sandwiches, pretzels, and drinks! While you enjoy your delicious lunch, you get to hear from guest speakers and hear their advice. At one of the Lunch and Learns I attended, an advisor told us how to succeed in life: always keep the doors open, keep your advisor informed on your plans. They really want you to succeed. Don't fall between the cracks—always check in.

Meet & Greet with Dr. Gratson

By: Helen Want to get to know your professor? Want to get ahead and stay on track and finish on time? Meet & Greets allow you to ask the questions you're too afraid to ask over email or bother with sending out. Some questions aren't meant for your advisors, who sometimes don't have much help to offer, so meeting with your professor can be more productive. Meet and Greets are really helpful, and really allow you to get involved in your program and stay in the know. You also get free food!

Scholarships and Fellowships

By: Meisha What if I told you that there's FREE MONEY for you to go to college? You probably wouldn't believe me, but it's true! We all know that college is a great experience but it comes with a hefty bill. Dana Dawson, the director of the Scholarships and fellowships program, provided a few tips to help guide college students with their finances in college:

1. START EARLY/think ahead- check online at www.temple.edu/sfs for info on scholarship deadlines.
2. Read applications carefully before starting- there are many scholarships out there in the universe, however you won't qualify for all of them.
3. Seek out feedback- don't be afraid to get a second opinion about your scholarship essay from Dana Dawson's office is located in Suite 201, Tuttleman Learning Center 2nd floor, in the writing center.
4. If a fee is required, BE AWARE- if you're applying for a scholarship on a website and they are asking for you to pay a fee be wary, it may be a scam.
