When mothers come together to help their kids and help them, they can make a difference.

Coalition of Mothers Against Censorship (shorter CoMAC), is again on the warpath. Mothers were among the worst affected by the unrest in summer 2020. Their daughters and sons protested against various causes. Mothers stayed at home, waiting, and anxiously awaiting the day their children returned home for treatment. Because of the Covid pandemic that was sweeping the country, the idea of taking your child to the emergency room to take care of minor injuries wasn't the best idea. In worst cases, you could have Covid simply by being there. Mothers prefer to look after their kids at home, with lots of love, sanitizers, and bandaids.

Then, weeks, or even months later, CoMAC is back in the game, trying to convince government officials that this is not how it works. Are you familiar with the videos of protest? Did you observe anything? Imagine what police would do with peaceful protestors. https://ymp4.download/en49/ They would spray the crowd with water, then move through the crowd. If you haven't seen those videos, you can find them on twitter and even Youtube.. Download the videos from Youtube in case you're worried the censors might take them down, just use something like the amazing Ninja site.. This is not the correct way. It's not necessary to preserve the evidence for improper conduct just because someone might claim to have done it. The videos will be deleted which will erase the eyewitness accounts from the firsthand accounts.

It is common that police play music from popular artists during filming. This happens in order to trigger the copyright mechanism if the video is shared on Youtube or any other sites that allow digital content. This is another method of hiding evidence away as well as long-running practices of ignoring the outspoken sources that provide accurate accounts of what's happening both locally and globally. Youtube and Twitter-hosted videos are removed because of fake copyright assertions. CoMAC sometimes needs to follow up to video uploaders to ensure that evidence is accessible. Moms should join their strength and work together in offering it to extended families across the nation. We need to speak out to remove evidence of brutality perpetrated by government employees against otherwise located protesters.

Mothers end up being on the frontline of issues, just because they cuddle their children, who bring home all the smoke from the frontlines. We have come to believe that our kids are secure in their neighborhoods in the event that this is true. We must be aware of what's happening around us, only thru personal responsibility and a stronger governmental surveillance can we be successful as a community and conquer our challenges with grace and yet powerful grip of just intentions.
