U.S. News & World Report Law School Rankings
2017 Edition: All Schools, All Changes, All Available Metrics

This chart shows the changes in all available USN&WR law school rankings metrics, from the 2016 Edition (Spring 2015) to the current, 2017 Edition (Spring 2016). Positive changes (increases in assessment scores, LSAT, UGPA, etc. but decreases in acceptance rates and student/faculty ratios) are shown in green; negative changes are shown in red and yellow indicates no change. N/A means "Data were not provided by the school", as USN&WR indicates. Median LSAT and UGPA figures are from the ABA Standard 509 Disclosures because USN&WR uses those figures in their rankings but doesn't publish them.

This year's rankings uses employment 10 months after graduation; in previous years it was 9 months after graduation - that's why the header for that column says "9/10 Months After Graduation."

And because Rutgers is now one school with two campuses, but were still separate last year, and because Widener is now two separate schools, but was still just one last year, no easy comparisons could be made with their statistics for last year so I just left them off. See you guys again in 2017.
