Designing a completely new bathroom or even adding more to your current bathroom can be a long and confusing process if you do not have a team of bathroom fitters and tradespeople by your side.

Along with planning and designing, there is also the manual labour involved in installing your new bathroom. Only a builder with the knowledge and experience can do this for you.

Bathroom refurbishment involves installing, fitting and repairing which can be done by a professional such as the ones at A Oxley & Son Building Contractors in Manchester.
